SCANDAL TAINTS SECRET VOTE TO KILL HATCH BILL

Crooked Dealing in Committee Charged.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3.—The administration effort to kill the Hatch clean politics bill in the house became less of a mystery today and more of a scandal.

Rep. J. J. Dempsey.

Coincident with the filing of a motion by Representative John J. Dempsey [D., N. M.] to discharge the judiciary committee from control of the bill was the disclosure of crooked methods employed to shelve the measure in the committee.

The Hatch bill is a measure complementary to the Hatch act passed at the last session of congress forbidding political activity on the part of all federal jobholders except those in policy forming positions. The pending bill would extend the prohibition of political activity to state and local employés of agencies receiving part or all of their funds from the federal government.

Passed by Senate.

The bill was passed by the senate by a large majority several weeks ago. When it went to the house and was referred to the judiciary committee it encountered the opposition of Chairman James A. Farley and other members of the Democratic national committee, most of the administration leaders in the house and other bigwigs in the Roosevelt administration, despite an indorsement of the measure by President Roosevelt. The opposition was animated by recognition of the fact that the bill if enacted into law would put a crimp in Democratic state machines drawing sustenance from federal funds.

When the bill came to a vote in the committee a few days ago the unprecedented procedure of a secret ballot was invoked. Previously prepared slips of paper were passed around the committee table. On one end of the slip appeared the word "aye," on the other "nay." The member tore the slip in two and deposited the half representing his vote in the hat of Chairman Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.]. The announced result of the vote was 14 to table the bill and 10 opposed.

Fourteen Deny Opposition.

All went well for the plotters for 24 hours. The secrecy of the ballot shielded from public attack those who had voted to table a bill commanding popular support.

Then things began to happen. Fourteen members of the 25 man committee informed Congressman Dempsey that they had voted against tabling the bill, a sufficient number to have sent the measure to the house with a favorable report. The midwestern members were Chauncey W. Reed [R., Ill.], Earl C. Michener [R., Mich.], John W. Gwynne [R., Ia.], and Raymond S. Springer [R., Ind.].

Only four members—Three Democrats and one Republican—admitted that they voted to table. Seven members were noncommittal, one of them being James M. Barnes [D., Ill.], Charles F. McLaughlin [D., Neb.], was absent and unrecorded on the vote.

Explanations Vary.

Chairman Sumners, who is opposed to the bill, is under fire. He is held responsible for the unusual procedure of the secret ballot. Accusation of doctoring the tally has been leveled at the tellers who are also opposed to the bill. The prevalent cloak room opinion, however, is that four of the 14 members who voted to table did so because they thought it was safe to do what they would not have done had there been an open roll call and then denied it.

The petition to discharge the committee requires 218 signatures. Nearly 100 already have signed.

"This is not an ordinary petition," said Dempsey. "It is a roll of honor showing the people of this nation who are for clean politics."

Representative Abe Murdock [D., Utah], one of those who voted to take the bill to the house floor, announced tonight that when the judiciary committee meets Tuesday, he will move to reconsider the motion by which the measure was tabled.

AIDS TELL HOW SCALISE RULED UNION TREASURY

The inner workings of an international union with 70,000 members dominated by an ex-convict panderer whose checks drained the union treasury of an estimated $1,500,000 in three years were disclosed yesterday in Chicago and New York City.

Many of the disclosures resulted from an investigation by the Cook county grand jury into the conduct of the Building Service Employés International union and the manipulation of its finances by George Scalise, who was ousted as president last week after he had been indicted by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey in New York on charges of extorting more than $100,000 from hotels and cleaning contractors. An official and a bookkeeper of the union testified before the grand jury here.

"Purchase" of Locals Bared.

Among the disclosures were:

1. That Scalise on Jan. 4, 1939, "bought" some 15 locals of the Elevator Operators' union as a baseball magnate might buy up a string of minor league teams. The locals were handed over to Scalise's international by the International Union of Elevator Constructors, Operators, and Starters in return for $10,000 drawn by Scalise from his treasury. Thereafter the dues of the locals flowed into Scalise's treasure chest.

2. That Scalise issued charters for locals in the Building Service Employés union to New York chiropractors and professional models, on the theory that inasmuch as they worked in office buildings they were just as properly within his jurisdiction as are the janitors, elevator operators, window washers, and scrub women who make up the international's membership.

His Expenses Equal Dues.

3. That the seven New York locals which Scalise organized before he became international president paid their per capita dues directly to him, and that, after forwarding the dues to the treasury at the international headquarters in Chicago, Scalise always included an item in his monthly expense accounts in the exact amount of the aggregate dues of the seven locals.

4. That Scalise, under authority of union by-laws permitting him to draw any amount from the treasury without accounting to the membership, instructed the $325 a month bookkeeper and the union's secretary-treasurer to draw and cash countless checks for from $300 to $3,500 and then pocketed the money.

5. That altho some of these checks were made out in Scalise's name, a great majority of them were issued to cash or were made out to common names, were then returned to the bookkeeper by Scalise bearing the purported payee's name, and were then indorsed by the bookkeeper when he was sent to cash them.

Expense of One Day: $4,078.

6. That Scalise's unlimited expense accounts showed such peculiarities as three checks totaling $4,073 in one day, one of which was for expenses of an "executive board meeting" in Chicago, a second for expenses of a Pacific coast junket by Scalise and two cronies on the same day, and a third for a fare on the Santa Fe railroad, also on the same day.

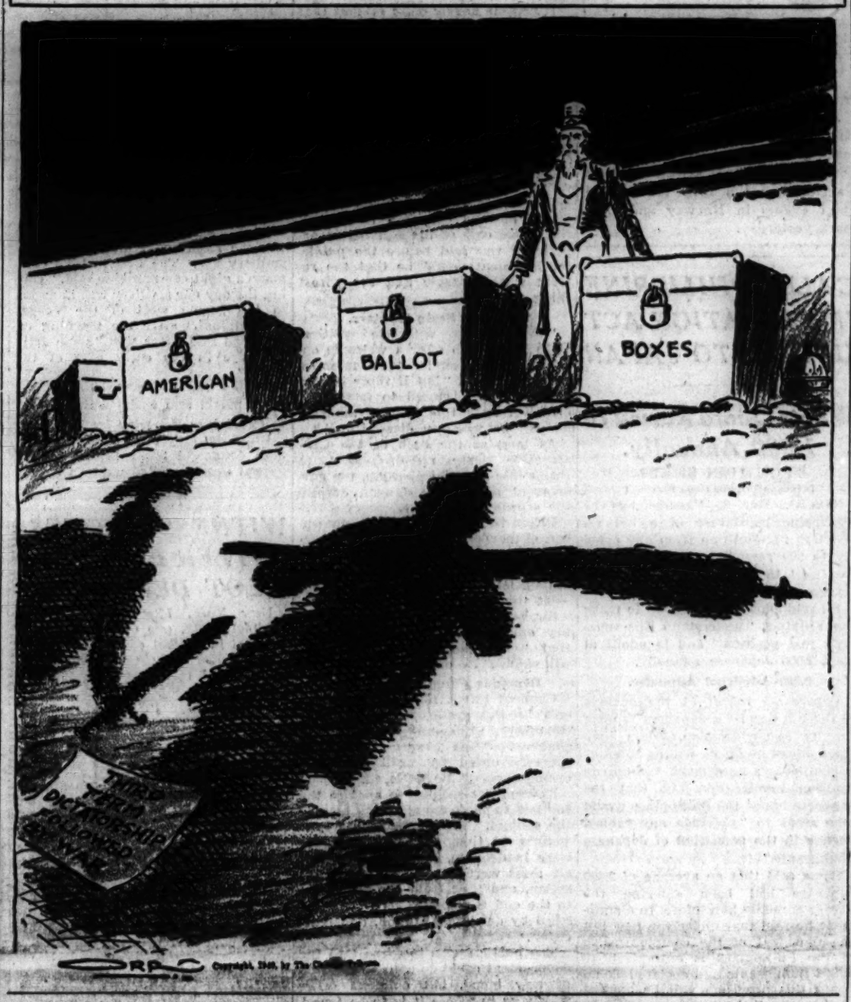

7. That, altho the existing by-laws granted him almost unlimited power, Scalise, last January, hired Attorney Sidney R. Korshak of Chicago at a retainer of $1,200 a month to draft a new set of by-laws which would have enabled him, among other things, to break up any local into small units which he could have reassembled as he saw fit. This power of gerrymander would have proven a potent weapon in Scalise's hands against any recalcitrant local.

Still Appears to Be Boss.

8. That, despite Scalise's ouster the international union appears destined to continue under his domination. In New York, James J. Bambrick, head of a powerful local, is reported to have reconciled his differences with Scalise and announced he would be a candidate for president at the convention meeting next Monday in Atlantic City, N. J. William McFetridge, president of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union and first vice president of the international, was reported to be heeding word from New York that "the job

Editor of Red Paper Guilty of Criminal Libel

New York, May 3 [Special].—Clarence A. Hathaway, editor of the communist newspaper, the Daily Worker, was convicted tonight of criminal libel by a jury which for the last three weeks had heard testimony presented before Judge John J. Freschi in General Sessions court.

The Comprodaily Publishing company, former publisher of the Daily Worker, also was found guilty. The jury acquitted the third defendant, Hyman Colodny, former business manager of the paper. Hathaway, under the conviction, is liable to a sentence of one year in prison; the publishing company faces a fine not exceeding $500.

The conviction on the criminal libel charge, a misdemeanor under the state criminal code, was based on the complaint of Mrs. Edith F. Liggett, widow of Walter W. Liggett, editor of the Midwest American, a Minneapolis weekly.

Articles Follow Slaying.

Liggett was assassinated on Dec. 9, 1935, on the eve of his scheduled appearance before the Minnesota legislature to amplify his previously published charges that ranking politicians of the reigning Farmer-Labor party in the state had joined in criminal alliances with the underworld. He had named specifically the late Floyd Olson, then governor, and had demanded that Olson be impeached.

Mrs. Liggett, who was the principal prosecution witness and underwent several days of cross-examination, charged she and the memory of her husband were libeled in articles published in the Daily Worker in February, 1936, two months after Liggett's murder.

Hathaway Pales at Verdict.

The jury returned its verdict late tonight after six and one-half hours of deliberation. The courtroom, which had been packed thruout most of the trial, was almost empty, and there was no demonstration. Hathaway paled as the jurors were polled and the verdict read, but he made no comment.

Judge Freschi then discharged the jury and paroled Hathaway in the custody of his attorney, Edward Kuntz, until Monday afternoon. At that time, the judge ordered, Hathaway must post bail of $1,000. He set May 17 for sentence.

The defense offered by Hathaway's counsel centered on the delay in calling the indictment, which had been dormant since 1938. Attorney Kuntz endeavored in his summation to show the case was called for trial by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey only because he saw in it the possibility of political capital in connection with his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

Takes Full Responsibility.

Hathaway, testifying in his own defense, assumed full responsibility for publication of the libel, but he denied that the Daily Worker was motivated by malice.

The verdict against Hathaway tonight was not his first conviction on charges bought by Mrs. Liggett. In a civil action tried in 1938 she was awarded a verdict of $25,000 against the same defendants. This verdict subsequently was vacated on technical grounds.

On retrial, in May, 1939, Hathaway and his co-defendants again were found guilty. This verdict gave Mrs. Liggett an award of $2,500 damages. Her attorney obtained judgment for $2,672, which was not paid, and proceeded to get a body attachment against Hathaway. The communist editor was arrested and lodged in jail. He was freed on $5,600 bail. The judgment never has been paid.

GERMANS FIND A WAY TO ENLIST EVEN THE SARDINE CANS IN WAR

BERLIN, May 3.—How tons of steel could be saved thru economizing on normally unimportant items that take on great value during war time was pointed out today by the economic publication, Deutscher Volkswirt. It said that by prohibiting the manufacture of keys for opening sardine cans, 2,000 tons of steel could be saved yearly. By eliminating steel rings on the bases of marmalade buckets, 3,000 tons of steel could be freed for other purposes, while another 5,000 tons could be saved if handles and joints on the buckets were left off. Some 1,100 tons of iron could be saved a year by normalization of the types of cans for meat, sausage, and floor polishes. Cardboard containers for motor oil already are in general use, even by the armed forces. Cardboard also will be used as much as possible to replace wood in packing, while paper already is being generally substituted for jute.

Test Discloses Shift in Views Held by Co-eds

University co-eds, after being exposed to one year of higher education, were shown on the basis of psychological tests made public yesterday to be wavering in their sympathy for God, organized religion, and war but to have adopted a more sympathetic attitude toward communism, evolution, and patriotism.

Results of the study, made on 234 University of Wisconsin students, were reported before the 15th annual meeting of the Midwestern Psychological association at the University of Chicago by Stephen M. Corey, professor of psychology at Wisconsin.

Changes in Attitudes Shown.

A tabulation of the students' changing attitudes on six major questions after one year in the university follows:

	God.	Religion.	War.
No change	18%	10%	6%
More favorable	37%	42%	39%
Less favorable	45%	48%	55%
	Evolution.	Communism.	Patriotism.
No change	6%	6%	8%
More favorable	52%	53%	48%
Less favorable	42%	41%	44%

Prof. Corey did not comment on the ability of immature students to decide with accuracy on important problems, but said that since the tests were made some time ago student views on several of the subjects might have changed in the light of subsequent events.

Political Oratory Waste of Breath.

Dr. Allen L. Edwards of Northwestern university reported another experiment which showed that political oratory was a waste of breath insofar as it might be expected to win converts. He used a speech, half pro-New Deal and half anti-New Deal, on a test group composed of New Deal adherents, opponents to the New Deal, and political neutrals.

The response was that the New Dealers remembered those sections of the speech favorable to their views and the opponents best recalled severe criticisms of the New Deal.

BRITAIN SETS UP RESTRICTIONS ON HOLIDAY TRAVEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 3.—War time restrictions and privations in Britain are increasing daily. The public was informed tonight that, starting Monday, no one will be permitted to travel to or from the popular holiday resorts of the channel islands by passenger boat without a "control coupon" and that travelers will have to register 14 days in advance.

FIGHTING STOPS AS BRITISH AND FRENCH TROOPS LEAVE

NAMSOS FLIGHT STORY TOLD BY AN EYEWITNESS

BY J. NORMAN LODGE.

NAMSOS, Norway [By Courier to Grong, Norway], Thursday, May 2 [delayed], 11:30 p. m. (AP).—I am embarking tonight aboard a British destroyer after a prisoner's furtive glimpses of the British and French withdrawal from the Namsos sector. A British officer tells me that the troops' destination is England.

This sailing takes place after an all day German aerial attack on ruined Namsos.

The British Tommies going aboard their ships appear down in the mouth about it all. They want a further chance to fight. They landed here, ready for war, only a couple of weeks ago.

Huge Fire Set by Bombs.

I am told the departure of the troops was lighted by the glare of a huge fire set by air bombs. Some of that glare was visible in a smoky little hotel where I, under British arrest, wrote some of these lines.

Also, I have just been informed that the residents of Namsos are stunned and bewildered by the news that the troops are going. I have learned the British left behind them large quantities of supplies and war equipment.

This weird adventure started Wednesday night when I, with other newsmen and cameramen, passed a British outpost into territory occupied then by the French, and became conscious of great excitement.

Soldiers Gather Gear.

French officers rushed about issuing orders and soldiers busily got their gear together and placed themselves in marching formation.

After we passed into the area occupied by the troops we walked thru shimmering twilight along a road on which columns of men were marching silently along.

Once in Namsos we tried for lodgings—and immediately were placed under military arrest.

The British told us we weren't welcome there, that we could ask no questions and we should make no move from the vicinity of the hotel.

Thruout that night we got very little idea of what was going on and this morning there came that familiar racket of modern war—the roar of attacking planes.

Aim Bombs at Ship.

At once there followed the roar of antiaircraft guns. These air attacks went on all day long. Later we learned they were directed against a ship in the harbor.

Even tho we were permitted to wander only in the close vicinity of the hotel we were conscious of the rush and confusion as soldiers packed their belongings. The questions we asked went unanswered.

Time and again we cringed from the air attack. We had the feeling of being cooked in a burning prison.

Finally a British officer told us the French already had left, that the British were leaving and that we must choose whether we wanted to stay or leave.

We wanted to know where the troops were proceeding.

"England," he said.

Three of us decided to go with the British forces. One British correspondent chose to remain.

From the little town of Grong, on the Steinkjer-Namsos front above Trondheim, emptied of British and French troops in a startling two day withdrawal and embarkment, Col. O. B. Getz, acting Norwegian commander, sent word of the surrender in an order of the day surcharged with disillusionment.

German forces later were reported to have reached Grong and to have made contact with the Norwegians, with all fighting reported stopped.

Urged to Seek Truce.

Col. Getz, at the reported instigation of a majority of his officers, decided to ask for the armistice for the whole Trondheim area after the British and French left. He did not, however, speak for the Norwegian government, which alone has power to sue for peace for the country as a whole, and so far has made no such move.

"The British and French—for reasons unknown to us—have given up helping us in our fight and have withdrawn their troops from Namsos," he said.

"We stand today alone against the entire German war machine, already outflanked and encircled on the line which the British and French should be holding . . . without aid from outside . . . with only enough ammunition for one day . . . without planes and other necessary war materials.

Calls Fighting Useless.

"Any further fighting would only lead to destruction, without serving any military purpose.

"I therefore am notifying the German military command to establish contact toward establishing peace in the Tronddlag area [all the area both north and south of Trondheim], as has been done in the southern part of the country.

"It is my heavy duty as acting commander of the Tronddlag to give this notice to the soldiers under my command."

Finds Retreat Cut Off.

To this Getz added:

"It was an incomprehensible action on the part of the British and French, without notifying me, to lay open my flanks in the rear so that I was cut off from any possible retreat toward Mosjoen [north of Namsos]."

[The British war office later issued a statement in London that "there is no foundation for the statement that the Norwegian commander in chief was not informed of the allied decision to evacuate the Trondheim area or that he has negotiated an armistice. The commander in chief of the Norwegian army and his staff embarked on a British man of war on the night of May 1-2, 1940." London sources named Otto Ruge as the Norwegian commander in chief. It was also reported that King Haakon of Norway had left a Norwegian port aboard a British warship for the northern part of Norway.]

War in Center Stopped.

The general withdrawal by the British and French from all the center of the country left them with a grip upon Norway only in the far northern sector about Narvik, the German held iron ore port.

Whether some of the troops withdrawn from central Norway would go there was in doubt—[one British officer said they were going "to England"]—but in any event the war in central Norway was finished.

All fighting was reported stopped.

The British and their French "Blue Devil" supporters pulled out of the Steinkjer-Namsos front, 60 to 100 miles north of German occupied Trondheim, leaving behind entrenchments, supplies, and ill equipped, hopelessly outflanked Norwegians. Then they sailed away in their ships.

Line of Retreat Ruined.

If Col. Getz can be believed, they did this without even telling the Norwegians and hence ruining his line of retreat northward along the railway and motor road to Mosjoen, some 80 miles away.

At Narvik, the arctic port which the allies have ringed—some 300 miles north of Namsos—the British and French, apparently, expect reinforcements, preliminary to starting a push from three directions on the town.

German forces still are holding out at Narvik and, even there, are reported in some advices to be showing signs of effort to break the siege.

German bombers also have penetrated now to the Narvik area, and are described as active.

Advices coming across the border indicated Narvik now is the chief area of combat and there was speculation that the British and French who left Namsos may be headed for there.

Stunned by Departure.

News of the British and French departure from Steinkjer and Namsos came suddenly and stunningly on the 24th day of the invasion of Norway.

The world already knew of the withdrawal of the British expeditionary force, in the face of German air superiority, from their Andalsnes foothold, 100 miles southwest of Trondheim.

Before then the Germans, holding all of southern Norway, had hammered a line of communication from Oslo all the way to Trondheim, where a German landing force took possession at the start of the campaign.

But it had been presumed that the British troops from Andalsnes would go to Namsos and that the British and the French Alpine chasseurs who were with them there would try to form a line across the country above Trondheim, from the coast to the Swedish border.

French Leave First.

Instead, it became known that the French began moving out of Namsos Wednesday night and the British—under heavy German plane attack—Thursday night.

The bomb pocked streets of Namsos were filled all Thursday with troops marching to the docks, said correspondents who got their stories across the border only today.

They were taken out to six troopships, guarded by destroyers, which lay at anchor in the fjord.

ENGLAND RULES WAVES NO MORE, GERMANS BOAST

Point to Mediterranean as Ideal for Battle.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 3.—"The days of England's command of the seas are over." This statement will be made in tomorrow's National Zeitung, organ of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, in summing up the battles in Norway and in Norwegian waters.

The newspaper will add ominously that "there is no reason to assume that the English defeat cannot be repeated in other parts of the world." It will point to the Mediterranean as the ideal battleground, where, the paper declares, it will be easier for the German air fleet to display its superiority than it was in Norway and the North sea, with its fog and snowstorms.

The Germans now are writing and speaking about alleged British intentions to spread the war to the Mediterranean and then to southeastern Europe. Diplomatic circles express some anxiety about this new propaganda campaign, as it resembles the one waged just before the Germans began their Scandinavian invasion.

Increased Fighting at Narvik.

After the failures in central and southern Norway, England may try to score a "prestige success" in Narvik, the Germans declare. They reported increased fighting in that area.

British, French, and Norwegian forces, the Germans said, are closing in on the German lines outside Narvik from the north and the southwest. Minor attacks by the allied forces, the Germans state, were repelled by German outposts.

With the flight of the British and French from Namsos, the Germans now are in complete control of south and central Norway. Only small scattered units of the Norwegian forces, the Germans report, continue to resist. These units, the Nazis say, are "in ignorance of the general situation."

[An Associated Press dispatch from Stockholm yesterday said that the Norwegian central command had given up the fight and sued for an armistice in the central area.]

Want to Protect Mines.

The Germans have been trying to induce the Swedish government to allow them to send troops to "protect" the iron mines of Sweden and the railroad line leading to Norway and Narvik. Both Swedish and German circles deny these reports, altho usually well informed circles consider them true. As the price for Swedish coöperation, reports allege that the Germans promised the port and railroad of Narvik to Sweden. Again both the Germans and Swedes deny these reports.

The Germans today asserted that 135 units of the British fleet were either sunk or damaged in the struggle for Norway. The lists follow:

Total losses, either sunk or set afire, 9 cruisers, 9 destroyers, 22 submarines, 23 transport ships, and one miscellaneous craft.

CHINESE BREAK UP JAP DRIVE; RETAKE TOWNS

HONGKONG, May 3 (AP).—Japanese air units struck hard at Chinese military and transport centers today as the Chinese reported they had broken up the 11th Japanese mopping up campaign north of the Yellow river. The spearhead of a Japanese drive designed to relieve Chinese pressure on positions south of the river also was reported blocked.

Chinese and Japanese reported other land and air actions on half a dozen fronts from the French Indo-China border in the south to Shansi province, 1,200 miles to the north.

For the second time in 24 hours Japanese planes bombed Kweiyang, central junction point of all South China supply lines. Chinese reports said bombs wrecked the city hospital, killing four and injuring 14 civilans there and elsewhere in the city.

Chungking reports said the Chinese had recaptured all points lost during the last 10 days in Shansi.

HUDSON BAY PORT CLOSED; BRITISH REFUSE CONVOY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., May 3.—The Canadian government today announced that the port of Churchill, Man., on Hudson bay, will not be in operation this year. There are 2,500,000 bushels of wheat stored there. It is the property of the Canadian pool, but is under the care of the Canadian wheat board. The port will not be able to handle this wheat because the British admiralty refuses to send a convoy into Hudson straits and the British food control board will not buy wheat in Canada that is not convoyed.

CALLS PHILIPPINE IMMIGRATION ACT UNFAIR TO JAPAN

Wants Quota Raised to 1,000 Annually.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 3.—Passage by the Philippine legislature of a bill restricting immigration from any country to 500 persons yearly was called "unfair" today by Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman.

He said Japan was seeking to make the Filipinos "understand this country's just position" and to admit at least 1,000 Japanese annually.

2,800 Admitted Annually.

Expressing regret at the passage of the bill despite a Japanese request for its reconsideration, Suma indicated Japan might be willing to enter a gentleman's agreement voluntarily limiting immigration but that the Japanese hope the Philippines would take steps to "preclude any radical change in the admission of Japanese immigrants."

Suma said that an average of 2,800 Japanese had been entering the islands annually heretofore. In a statement he said that under the new bill the president of the commonwealth of the Philippines is authorized to admit immigrants and declared Tokio hopes this provision will be applied in the case of the Japanese.

Talks Clarify Position.

At the same time the foreign office and the United States embassy issued a joint communique saying that Japanese-American relations had been clarified by two conversations between Japanese Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita and the American High Commissioner to the Philippines, Francis B. Sayre, who arrived in Japan on Tuesday.

GLOOM DEEPENS IN BRITAIN OVER NORSE DEBACLE

Expect Chamberlain to Keep Job, However.

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 3.—The announcement tonight by the war office that British and French troops had evacuated Namsos increased the general gloom over the turn of events in Norway.

It became hourly more evident that the Chamberlain government is confronted with a critical political situation. Vigorous attacks on it are expected, both from the opposition and from within the Conservative party itself, when commons assembles next week.

But the cabinet apparently is determined to resist the attacks with a united front. Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, made this clear in a speech today. Simon declared he was confident that when the whole case of the Norwegian experience was laid before the public, its judgment would be that the retreat was advisable and the wisest thing to do.

Political Scalp Hunters.

"Events may seem to political scalp hunters to offer a welcome opportunity to exercise their talents," Simon asserted, "but if there is anybody who is disposed to fasten his criticism upon this or that minister he will be woefully disappointed."

As long as the bulk of the Conservative party remains loyal to Prime Minister Chamberlain, the government is in little danger, despite the growing discontent.

Richard Law, a Conservative member of parliament, addressing a political meeting, said: "If Chamberlain is the right man to lead the nation, let him lead it. If he is not—let the right man be found."

Sir Warren Fisher, a former treasury official, told another audience that "only the best of leadership will suffice. No one is indispensable."

Demands Complete Shakeup.

Clement Davis, a member of Simon's Liberal group, which supports Chamberlain, demanded a complete shakeup. "The country cannot be properly organized until the government goes," he declared.

Newspapers seeking to analyze the Norwegian fiasco unanimously blamed the cabinet. The theme of the complaints is that the British forces were inadequate, that the navy and air arms were not brought into full action, and that from the beginning to the end the operations were paralyzed by delays, hesitation, and indecision.

The public seems to agree that the government could do with an infusion of new blood, but opinions differ widely as to where it is to be found.

The war office communique telling of the end of the campaign to take southern Norway from the Germans said British and French troops still in the far northern Narvik area repulsed German counterattacks Wednesday and Thursday. The British made air attacks on German bases at Rye, in Denmark, Fornebu, near Oslo, and Stavanger last night and early this morning. The raids were successful, it was said.

Count Losses of German Fleet

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and other British officials have asserted that German naval losses in the Norwegian campaign were very heavy, some even claiming that they represented one-third of the German fleet. Out of the welter of reports on sea losses that have punctuated the dispatches from the northern war zone, the losses by Germany, so far verified by the Associated Press, appear to be heavy. The following table shows these losses as compared with the full strength, built and building, of the German navy:

	Fleet as of Sept. 1.	Verified losses.	New construction.
Capital ships	2	1	4
Aircraft carriers	—	—	2
Pocket battleships	3	1	—
Heavy cruisers	2	1	3
Cruisers	6	2	4
Destroyers	22	1	Unknown
Submarines	65	—	Unknown
Patrol ships	?	1	Unknown
Coast guard vessels	?	1	Unknown
*Unnamed	—	13	—

*Nine unidentified German naval vessels were lost at Narvik and three torpedo boats at Bergen. An unidentified minelayer also is listed as destroyed.

Britain and France have reported the sinking of 20 to 30 German submarines. They have claimed that the total German losses range from 36 to 46 ships. They also list the total of German ships damaged as 13 to 21 or more, one or two of which may have been repaired and may be back in service.

ARTILLERY FIRE MARKS WEST FRONT ACTION; PLANES, PATROLS BUSY

PARIS, May 3 (AP).—Action on the western front today was marked by artillery fire. The French high command's night communique said, "During the day our artillery was in action in the region west of the Vosges [mountains]," after the morning report had said there was "some artillery fire in the early part of the night."

During the night there also was some patrol and aerial activity.

Quiet Day Reported by Berlin.

ROOSEVELT PUTS HIS VETO ON NAVY RETIREMENT BILL

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt vetoed a navy promotion and retirement bill today, because, he said, the "extremely difficult and uncertain status of international relations" made unwise the mandatory retirement of rear admirals and general officers of the marine corps.

The bill's stated purpose was to create a quicker flow of promotion for younger men.

The President referred to a section which would increase from eight to nine the number of vacancies that must occur annually in the grade of rear admiral. He said this could be attained without legislation and while he approved of the idea of speeding up these retirements, he wanted to do it only when it is considered desirable.

WITNESS QUOTES HITLER BOAST OF PLOT DEFENDANT

New York, May 3 (AP).—George Michael Kelly, one of 16 defendants on trial in federal court for conspiracy to overthrow the government, was quoted today by a government agent as having said "he, personally, favored Hitler."

The statement was made by Edward J. McCabe, Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, under cross-examination by Kelly's counsel, Parnell J. Callahan. McCabe said he questioned Kelly following his arrest last January. McCabe added that the remark was not included in a statement signed by Kelly, and read to the jury "because Kelly did not want it in the statement."

The written statement quoted Kelly as having denied he had ever said or heard any of the defendants say anything about overthrowing the government.

BELGIUM REVEALS ALARM; WEIGHS CHANCES OF WAR

British Retreat in Norway Causes Gloom.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 3.—The optimistic feeling that Belgium had a good chance of avoiding the war was dampened considerably today as the full news of the British retreat from Norway reached Brussels and its significance was realized by the government and public.

A semiofficial spokesman for the government told THE TRIBUNE that while official circles were not unduly alarmed by the news from Norway, they were not at all comfortable. Unusual measures, however, were not contemplated. Every possible precaution against a lightning invasion already has been taken. The final steps, like turning out the lights, will be executed only when war actually has begun.

Watch for Next Blow.

Belgium's reasons for alarm, it was explained, result from a simple proposition. As long as the Germans were occupied with a tough job in Norway it was probable they would take up no new problems. Now that the Norwegian problem appeared solved for Germany there was no way to tell where the next blow would fall.

Other circles close to the government believed, however, that Belgium's peril has not been appreciably increased. In one respect it has been lessened, it was said. German motives for attacking the Netherlands and Belgium would be to secure air bases close to Britain. Now that Germany has the bases in Norway the attractiveness of Belgium in German military eyes will be considerably less, it was believed.

Look for Nazi Hesitation.

In military circles here I found the conviction that the British retreat from Norway would not alter the probability of attack on Belgium. The view of the high command here was said to be that German military leaders, in weighing all factors, would discover that Belgium is entirely different from Norway.

Belgium's chances of escaping invasion, in this view, lie in German hesitation. The Germans would realize that Belgium has 800,000 men armed with the most modern weapons and ready to fight, it was said.

Belgium, it was admitted, is weak in the air like Norway, but the two situations are considered as entirely different. Remoteness from their bases caused the British air weakness in Norway. In a war in Belgium, British airplanes could take off from bases in France only minutes away.

Brussels Depressed.

However good this reasoning may be, it was clear that Brussels was depressed by the news from Norway. Nearly all of the people here openly favor Britain and France and the British reverses caused considerable gloom.

Newspapers warned the public against "fifth column" activities. In case of conflict, they said, Belgians may expect to be inundated with false views and rumors and declared the population must keep its confidence in its government.

"It must remain convinced that the government and the army will resist the invader with all their might and will fight to the end," the papers said.

Papal Nuncio Fails to Get Nazi Permit to Tour Poland

BERLIN, May 3.—Reports that Papal Nuncio Cesare Orsenigo has been granted permission to investigate the situation of the Catholic church in former Poland were denied here today. The Nuncio several times has expressed a desire to tour the general government, it was stated, but no such trip was planned at present. It was pointed out that the former Polish territories are not, strictly speaking, within the scope of his representation since he is Vatican ambassador to the territory of the German reich.

RUMANIA SEIZES 600 GERMANS FOR SUBVERSIVE ACTS

Speeds Drive to Oust Undesirables.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 3.—Six hundred Saxon Germans of the minority group in Transylvania have been arrested for activities that might endanger Rumania, it was reported tonight.

In addition, 240 visitors with German passports have been informed that their police permits to live in Rumania will not be renewed, it was learned.

The government is speeding up its program to get undesirable foreigners out of the country. Inspired editorials in three leading newspapers today emphasized anew the theme they have been stressing for the last 10 days—that wartime is not the time for touring and foreigners who have no good reason for staying in Rumania must be expelled.

Night Club Entertainers.

Now an editorial campaign to oust all foreign night club entertainers has been launched. Rumanians feel that these entertainers are particularly dangerous, partly because night club patrons may be careless and give away secrets and partly because, as one editorial writer said today, "The night clubs are filled with blondes from central Europe." Nearly all dance hostesses here speak German and most of them know more German or Hungarian than Rumanian.

Even those hostesses who are Rumanian citizens usually belong to the Hungarian minority from Transylvania or the Russian minority from Bessarabia. Either type is likely to be less than 100 per cent the Rumanian patriot.

Police investigation of foreigners continues at full blast, but authorities try to be as discreet as possible to avoid annoying Germany or any other power.

Wild Rumors Circulate.

No official figures on arrests or expulsions are given out. The result is that wild rumors circulate. It is pretty certain, however, that approximately 1,000 Germans have left since the investigation began.

The Transylvania faction of Germans, among whom the new arrests were reported, is one of the two large German minority groups in Rumania. There are about 250,000 of them of the total of nearly 900,000 German-Rumanians.

Factional colonies began to form in Transylvania in the 12th century, but the colonists never sought to cling formally to their German traditions. Hungarian subjects until 1918, they then became Rumanian. They are organized into active cultural organizations and there is a strong Nazi influence at work among them.

It is evidently to check Nazi enthusiasm that the arrests have been made. The seizures also may have been connected with the sudden precautions taken by military authorities last week-end. Extra guards were rushed to air fields and communications centers when the government received a warning of impending danger. But the nature of the danger has not been learned. Government sources deny there was a warning of an internal plot. Diplomatic sources still say there was.

Fears of War Fade.

Whatever caused the precautions, they came immediately after rejection of a German inspired demand by Hungary that Germany be given a hand in policing the Danube.

Rumanian fears of immediate war in this area have calmed down, anyway, since Italy has shown no further signs of immediate violence. The chief concern now is to weed out everybody who might try to carry on subversive activities inside the country.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR IN TURKEY ORDERED TO HURRY TO BERLIN

ANKARA, Turkey, May 3 (AP).—Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, today was authoritatively reported to have been called urgently to Berlin for a conference with Adolf Hitler. It was said he arranged to leave tonight by train.

Authorities in Istanbul today arrested Prof. Hans von Osten, a well known archeologist, and four other Germans on suspicion of espionage and the spreading of German propaganda. Von Osten once took part in a University of Chicago expedition in Anatolia and at another time was on the staff of the Metropolitan museum, New York. His wife, a Venezuelan, was reported to be in the United States.

POLES OBSERVE NATIONAL FETE FAR FROM HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 3.—Far from their homeland, thousands of Polish exiles, civilian and military, today celebrated their national holiday in France. For most of them it was the first time they had observed it on foreign soil.

Somewhere near the Maginot line, Polish army units were reviewed by allied generals. In Angers, seat of Poland's government in exile, and also in Paris, Lille and Versailles, prayers were said for the resurrection of the Polish nation. Polish war veterans made pilgrimages to the tomb of France's unknown soldier.

Tonight at the Sorbonne, with both governments represented, a Franco-Polish rally was held, during which major clauses of the Polish constitution of May 3, 1791, were read. It was emphasized the Poles borrowed some of their ideas from the American constitution.

3 FLEETS PUSH NEW WAR DANGER TO GREECE'S DOOR

Italy Matches Empires' Mediterranean Dash.

ATHENS, Greece, May 3.(AP)—Arrival of a British-French battle fleet in Alexandria and reports of large scale Italian naval, air, and army concentrations in the Dodecanese Islands switched southeastern Europe's anxiety over possible spread of the war sharply to Greece today.

Athens was calm, but alert.

In Turkey, the allied fleet's arrival at its Egyptian base was greeted as new evidence that Britain and France are determined to fulfill their obligations in the near east, which include a mutual assistance treaty with Turkey and guarantees of the independence of Greece and Rumania.

There was no outward show of belief either in Greece or Turkey that war is imminent, but both countries pursued their defense preparations.

Defense preparations in Greece were pushed resolutely. King George II. and his general staff will leave soon to inspect frontier fortifications, including the "Metaxas line" along Italian occupied Albania.

15 Subs Reported at Key Base.

Keypoint in the new Italian military and naval concentrations is said to be the Island of Rhodes, largest of the Italian owned Dodecanese Islands which lie along the Turkish side of the Ægean sea, 400 miles by air northwest of Alexandria. The Italians, according to officially unconfirmed reports reaching diplomats in Athens, have stationed 15 submarines at Rhodes, which is only about 375 miles from Alexandria.

The reports also said the normal Italian garrisons in the islands have been reënforced by 50,000 to 55,000 fresh troops, and that fighting planes are based on the Island of Leros, only 45 minutes from Athens by bomber.

From its Dodecanese stronghold Italy could strike effectively in several directions.

She is in position to make a strong bid for control of the entrance to the Aegean, thru which ships must pass to reach the Dardanelles. Her planes, submarines, and warships also would be a pronounced threat to Turkey, guardian of the Dardanelles and nonbelligerent ally of Britain and France, and to sea communications between Turkey and the allies in case of war.

Alexandria Ready for Action.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 3 (AP).—A British and French war fleet arrived today at this strategic east Mediterranean port near the entrance to the Suez canal.

Superseding the mid-Mediterranean British island of Malta in importance, Alexandria was put in readiness for any eventuality as the allies, their major forces withdrawn from Norway, prepared for possible extension of the war to the near east.

Coastal and antiaircraft batteries were manned, military flying was reduced to conserve engines and personnel, and the "desert air watch" of Egyptian sentinels linked by telephone was strung out across the sands from the Nile delta west to Italian Libya.

The Franco-British battle fleet which sailed into Alexandria harbor, within striking distance of the Dodecanese Islands, was the strongest ever assembled in the Mediterranean.

30,000 MORE RESERVE TROOPS SUMMONED TO ARMY IN SWITZERLAND

BERNE, Switzerland, May 3 (AP).—The Swiss government today ordered more than 30,000 additional reserve troops to report for active service between May 14 and 18. Informed quarters said that reported concentration of German troops in Baden and Wurttemburg, near the Swiss frontier, led the army commander-in-chief, Gen. Henri Guisan, to recommend this further step in Swiss mobilization.

Between 500,000 and 600,000 men are expected to be under arms by June. Men called up today include many units of the Landstrum [reserve militia] who are between 36 and 60 years old. Most of Switzerland's men between 20 and 36 already are under arms.

GUNNER DOWNS GERMAN PLANE; IS KILLED LATER

LONDON, May 3 (AP).—The gunner of a British reconnaissance plane shot down one of the three German fighting planes in a fierce air battle near the Island of Borkum, in the North sea, today, the air ministry announced. The gunner later was killed by bullets from one of the other German fighters. The ministry's communique said:

"Early today a reconnaissance aircraft of the royal air force was attacked by three enemy fighters near the Island of Borkum. In the fierce battle which followed the gunner of the British aircraft was killed but not before he had shot down one of the enemy.

"The two remaining fighters eventually broke off the engagement. Our pilot and navigator were both wounded but succeeded in bringing their aircraft safely back to the base."

[Borkum is one of the islands in the North sea off the northwest German coast.]

Jugo-Slavia Orders Press Not to Provoke Nazis, Italy

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, May 3.—Premier Dragisha Cvetkovitch today asked the directors of the leading newspapers to asume a more strictly neutral attitude and not to allow any articles to appear that might provoke Italy or Germany. Officials deny Italy and Germany have made any proposals to safeguard this country's frontiers or promised not to attack it.

AMERICAN SHIP CREW TELLS OF WAR AT BERGEN

Sees Germans Take Town; Cruiser Sunk.

New York, May 3 [Special].—The American freighter Flying Fish returned today from the war torn port of Bergen, Norway, bearing the marks of British machine gun bullets on her foredeck. Her officers and crew told graphic stories of 14 days at the port, the first eyewitness accounts here of the one sided struggle of the Germans and British for domination there.

One other American ship, the Charles R. McCormick, still unreported to her operators here, was damaged by British flyers as they weaved back and forth over Bergen.

No one was injured on either vessel, but the men on board, disagreed as to details of the gunning.

Germans Seize 650 Tons of Oil.

Among other items reported were these:

Two American officers and a seaman were arrested on suspicion of being English spies, but soon were released.

Officers and seamen alike declared that Bergen, betrayed by its "fifth column," was taken with little resistance before dawn April 9 by a handful of Germans. Then other soldiers and marines poured in.

A landing party of 30 heavily armed men deployed into the heart of the city at double quick, and actually held it half an hour before other armed men followed them at 6 a. m., said Capt. W. E. Wollaston, master of the Flying Fish. He declared that the capture was 33 1-3 per cent an inside job.

By 7 a. m. the feebly resisting guns of the forts had been silenced and German flags were hoisted.

During the days that followed, nine British air raids wreaked considerable damage, sinking a German cruiser and a destroyer. A munition ship burned for 10 days, with frequent explosions, sending billows of smoke and flame into the sky.

Capt. Wollaston, who reluctantly augmented his typewritten diary of events with a few monosyllabic replies, said that either in Bergen or nearby, the Germans lost two cruisers, two destroyers and two or three of the 60 foot white torpedo or "suicide" boats in which armed men apparently had come all the way from Germany.

Raked by Machine Gun Fire.

It was on April 12, while at anchor 3½ miles from Bergen, in a small bight where she fled for safety that a machine gunner of a British plane "raked" the shipe's deck where 15 to 20 men were standing. Miraculously, no one was hit.

Capt. Wollaston said he believed the bullets came from a fort across the fjord where Germans were firing on the plane. Chief Engineer Chester Shimp said the bullets came from the plane. And that the gunner had been wounded and was unable to control his gun. The plane fell in the hills nearby.

The freighter still had 1,800 tons of her cargo on board, but she had been forced by the Germans to unload 650 tons of valuable fish oil, used both as an edible oil and for lubricating delicate machinery, the men said.

Guided Thru Mine Fields.

It took nearly a week to unload the oil, Capt. Wollaston and his men being lodged at a hotel while the ship remained untended. With a Norwegian pilot and with a German patrol boat leading the way thru German mine fields, the Flying Fish finally sailed on April 23. The remainder of the voyage was uneventful, the captain said.

During the two weeks, officers and crew members said, German freighters came and went at will, despite reports of the allied naval blockade. Big transport planes landed troops in a steady procession day and night, each plane with eight or ten armed men.

By the time the ship left, 3,000 soldiers and marines controlled the area. Capt. Wollaston's log was an unembellished record packed with drama from the first entry of April 9, when at 2 a. m. he received orders from the harbor master to black out his ship.

16 of Crew Dispute Captain.

Sixteen of the crew, members of the National Maritime union, issued a statement taking sharp issue with the captain's statement that:

"I absolutely deny that the British fired on us, from the air or in any other way." Of the rain of bullets April 12, they said:

"The plane was flying at an elevation of 400 or 500 feet, and suddenly to our considerable interest, it banked to the left, flying fast, and headed directly for us. The plane suddenly let go with a burst of machine gun fire, and fired three bursts in all, raking the ship from the bow to the mid-ship on the port side."

Calls Attack Deliberate.

Rolf Edwardson of Philadelphia fell on top of a crew mate in his hurry to escape the bullets.

"We'd seen this plane heading toward us," Edwardson said, "but nobody expected it to fire. Some one said, 'he's shooting at us.' I just dropped flat. The bullets sounded like rivets pounding the deck."

Despite the seven American flags on the ship [ensign, one on each side, one painted on the stern, and one on each side of three hatches] Edwardson said "it couldn't be anything but deliberate."

Rufus Harrell of Norfolk, Va., junior third engineer, was in the shower of bullets. He had spent much of his time skiing while ashore at Bergen and Narvik. While being fitted for skis in a Bergen store, a Norwegian told him of German action toward Norwegians of military age.

Made to Sit on Picket Fence.

"This lad said that immediately after the capture of Bergen all Norwegians in the army, reserves, Boy Scouts—everything—tried to form at the edge of town to march into the hills to join their troops," Harrell said. "This fellow was in a group rounded up by the Germans. He told me of being taken out of town, to a spot where all men were placed on a picket fence.

"The Germans informed them they could sit there until they took an oath not to take up arms against the Nazis. They were there 24 hours. Whenever one fell off, he was put back up. A few gave in after having no food nor water. After 24 hours, all were released to remain in the town."

The captain said that on April 10 an empire plane gunned the freighter McCormick accidentally, some of the bullets cutting mast stays and wire rigging. His diary told of German ships sinking and of empire planes diving into the harbor in flames.

Arrest Two as British Spies.

Capt. Wollaston did not mention it, but other officers and members of the crew said the Germans arrested two officers and a seaman, believing them to be British spies.

Abraham A. Macarenko, first assistant engineer, and Grevatt Harris, third engineer, and the seaman, Edward Caldwell, later were released with apologies and taken back to the hotel in a limousine. The Germans then went to the floor above them and seized two members of the British consular staff.

Browder Charges Roosevelt Is Leading Nation Into War

New York, May 3 [Special].—Charging that America is no more neutral than Italy, that it is merely "non-belligerent," Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party, told several thousand members of the Young Communist league tonight that President Roosevelt, "economic royalists," and "Wall street" were leading the nation into the European war. Browder is free on bail while appealing the sentence of four years' imprisonment and $2,000 fine imposed after his conviction for passport frauds.

PRESIDENT SAYS HE WON'T ALTER DEFENSE PLANS

Fighting War's Spread

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3.—The United States is doing all it can to prevent the spread of the European war, President Roosevelt told his press conference today. That statement, he said, must answer questions bearing on his conference yesterday with Prince Colonna, Italian ambassador, and the conferences in Rome between American Ambassador William Phillips and Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The President sidestepped questions as to whether this country had sought or received any assurances from Italy as to her intentions and whether this country had warned Italy that the United States will redefine combat areas if war spreads to the Mediterranean.

In Italy Phillips' visit to the heads of the Italian government and then to the British ambassador to that country roused considerable distrust. In many quarters it was felt Phillips was acting as a catspaw for the British government in an empire effort to sound out the Italian position.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3.—President Roosevelt today declared he has no intention of revising the pending two billion dollar national defense program to correct defects in the nation's security setup brought to light in the European war.

Mr. Roosevelt insisted that there is no cause for alarm in the revelations of Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison that the airplane has a "temporary advantage" over warships and assertions by Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, air corps chief, that German planes and material are superior to those in use in the American army.

While Capitol Hill seethed with the reverberations of the disclosures of the last two days by army and navy chiefs, Mr. Roosevelt dismissed concern over the inadequacy of the American defense program he sent to congress by saying that offensive and defensive weapons are following the same process of evolution the world has known from time immemorial.

Won't Ask More Funds.

The President said at his press conference that if congress felt more funds should be appropriated for defense purposes he would offer no objection. However, he made it clear he would not ask for more funds nor revise the pending program.

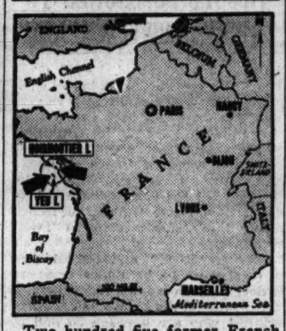

Edison has ordered navy designers to develop turtle-backed war vessels which will be better protected from airplane attack. Gen. Marshall told the senate appropriations committee that the war has demonstrated the United States is woefully lacking in such essentials of modern warfare as artillery and mechanized units. Gen. Arnold told the same committee German planes are faster, more destructive, and less vulnerable in combat than the newest American craft.

Learning Lesson, He Says.

Mr. Roosevelt admitted, however, that the United States is learning lessons from the European war and may have to design heavier guns, better protected ships, and other armament improvements. Information is still fragmentary, he said, and the army and navy will keep pace as fast as technical knowledge and requirements based on known fact will permit.

In answer to a question, Mr. Roosevelt declared there has never been any controversy over the relative value of warships versus the airplane except in the press. He said it is foolish to talk about the fixed supremacy of one weapon over another.

Send 205 to Islands

Two hundred five former French officials yesterday began serving sentences on the two small islands at which arrows point. The men were convicted of acts "harmful to the national defense."

Charges Acts 'Against National Defense.'

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 3.—Two hundred and five former deputies, mayors and municipal councilors began serving sentences of from 4 to 5 years today on two islands for acts "harmful to the national defense." Of the number, 125 were sent to Yeu, 20 miles from the mainland, and 80 went to Noirmoutier, 30 miles from the coast.

Twenty-eight of the former deputies were informed while en route to prison that their petitions for retrial had been rejected by the military supreme court of France.

Seize Communists.

Twenty-seven communists, police announced today, have been arrested in a series of raids in Nancy, Marseilles, Lyons, and Dijon. They will be charged with "demoralization of the army and of the nation," and, if found guilty under a recent decree law, the death sentence may be imposed upon them.

The arrests bring to almost 4,500 the number of communists seized since last September, when the war began. Of this number, 2,180 were arrested in the region of Paris. Censors today permitted La Lumiere, a Radical Socialist weekly newspaper, to print a front page editorial protesting against confusing Socialists and other left wingers with Stalinists and communists. The paper alleged that this had been done by the police and that hard working patriotic Socailists have been persecuted.

Calls for End of Scandal.

"Militant republicans of the left," the paper said, "have been treated as suspects. Altho without reproach, they have been objects of suspicion, they have been investigated and pursued while their homes have been invaded and searched.

"At the same time Hitlerians have been left at liberty and even given important posts in official services. How long will this scandal and this stupidity continue? We call upon the premier to stop these odious practices which are harmful to French morale. It is time to remind everybody that democratic France is waging war upon the Hitlerian dictatorship."

Evangelical Church Hits Roosevelt-Vatican Ties

Union City, N. J., May 3 [Special].—Declaring that the issue of separation of church and state has been brought into sharp focus thru the appointment of Myron C. Taylor as President Roosevelt's special envoy to the Vatican, the Atlantic conference of the Evangelical church, meeting here, today approved unanimously a resolution to "publicly express disapproval of Mr. Taylor's appointment."

BRITISH ACQUIRE FIVE-SIXTHS OF NORWAY'S SHIPS

With Danish Fleet Added, Total Is 1,949 Vessels.

New York, May 3 [Special].—Germany's invasion of Norway and Denmark brought one great windfall to the British—possession of five-sixths of the Norwegian merchant marine, fourth largest fleet in the world, and of almost half of Denmark's merchant fleet, 12th among all nations.

Norway's addition to the British merchant marine, under a royal Norwegian decree of April 20 placing all merchant ships of more than 500 tons at the disposal of the British government, included 1,649 ships totaling 4,011,390 tons. Only one-sixth of the Norwegian fleet fell into German hands.

Norse Tanker Fleet Large.

Norway's complete merchant marine consisted of 1,987 ships totaling 4,833,000 tons, but at the time war began 45 per cent of Norwegian tonnage was under British charter. This included more than half of Norway's 272 tankers, which gross 2,117,321 tons. This tanker fleet is exceeded in size only by that of Britain and the United States.

Denmark's merchant fleet includes 705 ships of 1,174,944 gross tons. Maritime experts here estimated today that 300 of these ships are now under British control and an equal number under German control, while 100 have taken refuge in neutral ports.

Estimating Danish tonnage under British control at 503,547, Britain's windfall from the combined Norwegian and Danish merchant fleets is 1,949 ships totaling 4,515,937 tons, while Germany came into possession of only 668 ships with a gross tonnage of 1,325,157.

Order Danish Transfers.

Britain at the same time has ordered all ships flying the Danish flag which are in neutral ports to transfer to French or British registry or be subject to seizure on the theory that they are acquiescing to German orders.

Shipping circles here said that Norse ships, under the British flag, are now moving in almost all parts of the world. Only those under German control are attempting to operate in the Skagerrak and Kattegat, for practically all shipping thru the narrow waters separating Denmark and the Scandinavian peninsula is at a standstill, due to mines infesting the waters and the constant threat of attack by enemy warships or from the air.

Figures Show Importance.

Norway's merchant fleet will be of extreme importance to the empires in maintaining communications and supply lines. The volume of goods carried in Norse ships is indicated by an estimate that $200,000,000 worth of cargoes in which United States foreign traders had an interest was on Norwegian freighters at the outbreak of the German push to the north.

Of the neutrals of northern Europe, Belgium is seeking to carry on its cargo and passenger ship service at a level as nearly normal as is possible in wartime, according to advices here. A somewhat more cautious attitude is being pursued by the Dutch. Altho not regarded here as any major curtailment of operations, some Dutch merchant ships from the east now land cargoes in Italy for transshipment by land, rather than pass the British blockade at Gibraltar and in the English channel.

AUSTRALIA ISSUES DECREES TO MAKE COAL MINES REOPEN

CANBERRA, Australia, May 3.—Regulations were issued today enabling the commonwealth government to compel New South Wales coal owners to open their mines, now closed by strikes, immediately with any available labor. Prime Minister R. G. Menzies explained it would be a few days before the mines reopened. It is expected a call for volunteers, who would be fully protected, will be made Thursday. In the absence of any indication by executives of the combined mining unions that they would recommend joint meetings of the striking miners Tuesday to resume work the government was compelled to take the first step, it was said.

COL. M'CORMICK HITS CORRUPTION UNDER NEW DEAL

Cites Records of State Administrations.

Corruption in the New Deal administrations of New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Indiana was denounced yesterday by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE. He spoke before the Executives' Club of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman.

Col. McCormick was presented at the luncheon in the grand ballroom of the hotel by Charles S. Craigmile, vice president of the club, who told of the efforts of the club to uphold true Americanism.

Speech Goes Unanswered.

Col. McCormick referred to a recent speech he made in Jackson, Mich., in which he said he had proved the continuing conspiracy between the New Deal and soviet Russia. No answer has been made to that speech, Col. McCormick said.

"Two-thirds of the letters I received spoke of my courage," he remarked. "What have we come to if it takes courage to make a speech in this country? How far are we from Hitlerism, or Leninism, or Mussolinism, or New Dealism? They are all the same."

TEXT OF ADDRESS

Following is the text of Col. McCormick's speech:

"The news that the New York pimp, Scalise, has checked out a million and a half dollars from Chicago janitors causes no surprise, since he is already under indictment for extortion in New York state and has served a sentence for pandering.

"What should cause surprise is that this monster was on terms with the mayor of New York, never had any difficulty with Gov. Lehman; never had any difficulty with Gov. Roosevelt, and at the time of his indictment efforts were under way to obtain for him a pardon for his loathsome crime.

"They had planned it that way.

Patronage Dispenser in Prison.

"The surprise we should feel at this appalling situation is lessened by our knowledge that James Hines, now facing a term in the penitentiary in New York—after he had once been let off by a New Deal judge—was the political representative and patronage dispenser of the federal administration.

"With these things in mind we may be pained, but not astonished, to observe that ex-Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania is hiding from process servers in the American embassy at Sofia, Bulgaria.

"In Illinois we are confronted with the mystery of Gov. Horner, the scandal of the slush fund extorted from state employés, the blackmail of contractors, and the unsolved murder of F. Lynden Smith.

Gangster Linked to Judge.

"Last November the murder of one of the Capone gang brought out the fact that he was in business relations with a municipal judge.

"But corruption in the New Deal seems to have reached its peak in Indiana—or else my information is not complete. Probably the latter.

"It was in Indiana that the 2 per cent slush fund was inaugurated. And when it appeared possible that honest prosecutors would be elected, a venal legislature made extortion from public employés a legal occupation for New Deal politicians.

"It was in Indiana that the beer racket was created. Ports of entry were set up. It was only thru them that beer could come into Indiana, and the handling of the industry was given over to political appointees, who extorted at one time $500,000 a year from the beer racket in that state.

Indiana Schools Raided.

"It has been proven that the schools of Indiana have been raided and that school books in Indiana cost $300,000 more a year than similar books in less dishonest states.

"In 1938 WPA workers took oath that they had been warned to vote for New Deal candidates. They were told this would be their toe hold on their jobs.

"Ignorant people were told that there were gongs in the ballot boxes which gave out different tones for the Democratic and Republican votes.

"But of course a worse scandal than that in that crime ridden state was the Dillinger scandal. Dillinger, a hardened criminal, with proven record, was turned loose upon the community by the then governor—and now a candidate for President—McNutt.

"You will remember that Dillinger's pals raided a jail across the Ohio line and freed some more of his co-criminals. Then ensued the great Dillinger crime chapter, in which more than one million dollars was either stolen or spent in pursuit and 20 lives were snuffed out.

Freed in Fake Jail Delivery.

"When Dillinger was captured in another state and returned to Indiana, he was turned loose by a fake jail delivery. When he failed to remain under cover and there was fear that if captured again he would tell what he knew, he was assassinated here in Lincoln avenue by Indiana state troopers.

"In Kentucky, the record shows that three hundred million dollars were spent to renominate and reelect Senator Barkley.

"We learn in today's paper that the labor board has been continuously in conspiracy with Harry Bridges, whom you will remember is a foreigner who avoided deportation by the conspiracy between Perkins and Landis of Harvard.

"You invited me today because of a speech I made some months ago in Jackson, Mich., in which I connected up and proved beyond any reasonable doubt the continuing conspiracy between the New Deal and soviet Russia.

No Answer to Speech.

"No answer has ever been made to that speech. I was merely treated to the customary disgusting abuse which every one is prepared for if he takes an interest in his own country.

"Two-thirds of the letters I received spoke of my courage. What have we come to if it takes courage to make a speech in this country? How far are we from Hitlerism or Leninism or Mussolinism or New Dealism? They are all the same.

"It is said that 1934 may have been the lowest point in the life of our country. It will have been the lowest point in the life of our country unless 1940 falls lower, in which case the constitution will have perished from the earth."

G. O. P. CHOOSES NEW STATE CONVENTION DATE; MEETS JUNE 7

Chairman A. K. Stiles of the Republican state central committee announced yesterday that the Illinois Republican state convention will be held in Springfield, June 7.

The decision was based on a wish expressed at a conference of nominees on the state ticket at the La Salle hotel. When the state committee held a skeleton session on April 26 a tentative decision was made that the convention would be held June 14, but the committee agreed that the exact date would be left to the nominees.

The program for the convention will be planned by the state committee at its meeting in Springfield next Thursday.

DEWEY WARNING: TOTALITARIANISM CAN HAPPEN HERE

He Tells Government's Menace to Freedom.

Wichita, Kas., May 3 (AP).—Thomas E. Dewey, critical of the doctrine that "the government is the only source from which blessings can flow," warned tonight that foundations of totalitarianism are laid when people are subservient to government.

The New York district attorney and Republican presidential aspirant made his admonition in an address prepared for delivery at Friends university, a Quaker institution here.

He praised the Quakers as pioneers in the philosophy of integrity of the individual, pointing out their time-honored contention that "man was the master, not the servant, of government."

A Grim Contrast.

He contrasted this with creeds where empire, race, or class are held up to reverence, and declared that such "false philosophies are now being reaped by the people in irreligion, war, and the destruction of the happiness of the individual."

Dewey added that the philosophy of dominance by government is the basis of the systems of power politics which "have been the curse of the world for many centuries." He warned that the individual is threatened by forces which "tend to dominate him, and to destroy the development of a sense of responsibility." Government, he said, is one of these threatening forces.

He concluded: "Without integrity in government we can have no liberty."

HERE'S THE SPEECH

Excerpts from Mr. Dewey's speech as prepared for delivery follow:

"May I express my gratitude for the invitation to meet with you here tonight. It affords a most welcome opportunity to step away from the increasing demands of immediate tasks, and re-examine in proper perspective some of the fundamentals of our way of life.

"Unless we do this occasionally we may find that our basic beliefs become confused and that we have lost track of our real objectives—the very objectives in terms of which our day-to-day decisions should be made.

"The quest for the proper relationship between the individual and government has been the greatest concern of thinking men since the beginning of civilization. No decade in all history has produced such a confusion of theory or such uncertainty of purpose as the present. Therefore, it is most timely that tonight we should see if we may clarify our thinking and regain our sense of direction.

Praises Quaker Philosophy.

"There can be no place more fitting for such a purpose than a meeting of Quakers. Perhaps the outstanding characteristic of the Quaker philosophy is its insistence upon the integrity of the individual. This emphasis upon the integrity of the individual transcends the immediate religious setting in which it was first enunciated. It permeates the Quaker attitude in all social and political relationships. It is not only to be observed in the individual's relationship with God, but in his relationships toward other men, either as individuals or as organized society.

"This Quaker conception of individual integrity early found expression in this country. In 1681, William Penn, then 36 years of age, set up a framework for the government of Pennsylvania. This government is justly famed as one of the first charters guaranteeing religious tolerance—a remarkable thing in an age almost as intolerant as our age threatens to become. More than that, it was in other respects and to a striking degree the spiritual forerunner of the constitution of the United States.

"The underlying philosophy of Penn's government was that man was the master, not the servant of government. He knew that no nation was ever made strong or worthy by laws alone. The strength of government is the strength of the individual men and women who establish and maintain that government.

"There was a prophetic quality in this thoughtful Quaker, who doffed his hat to God alone. He must have sensed an inevitable trend toward paternalism in democratic government. He foresaw what we 250 years later are beginning to see—that excessive reliance upon government has the effect of weakening the individual fiber of the people.

The "Unit of Value."

"It is one of the first articles of our political faith, as it was of William Penn's, that the unit of value in human life is the individual personality.

"For over a century this conception of government and society deeply influenced the aspirations of peoples in all parts of the world. But now we are met by a resurgence of naked power politics, a political atavism of sinister import.

"In too many countries the creed is proclaimed that the individual is unimportant, and in its stead nation, race, or class is held up to reverence.

"The harvests of these false philosophies are now being reaped by the people in irreligion, war, and the destruction of the dignity and happiness of the individual. Such are the inevitable consequences of elevating race, state, nation, or government to the position of supreme value.

"Such a creed is bound to lead to war.

The American Stand.

"The American people have committed many faults, but at least it can be said that we are one of the few nations which has possessed the power to make itself supreme and dominant in the world and yet has not sought to exercise that power. We have, as a nation, continued to recognize, even tho inadequately, that a far loftier objective is the freedom and well being of the individual.

"On such a foundation alone can the structure of peace be built.

"Even tho, as we all hope and expect, we remain at peace, it still behooves us to be vigilant to make our political philosophy a vital and contagious force. We must be constantly alert to prevent our thinking from being poisoned by conceptions which are destructive of a free and liberal body politic. Already the individual is threatened by forces which tend to dominate him, to destroy his independence, his initiative, the pursuit of his individual happiness, and the development of a sense of duty and responsibility to his fellowmen. Government itself is one of these threatening forces. Men are being schooled to look more and more to their government as a source from which all blessings flow.

Government's Obligation.

"It is right that the government should make provision to alleviate conditions of social distress. Government must recognize its obligation to care for those who need its care. The unemployed, the sick, the aged, all have a right to call upon the government for its help and protection. And the government must respond.

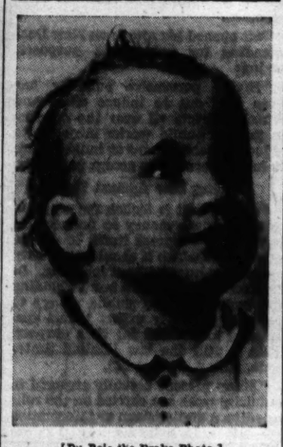

But government, in thus serving its people, should not be allowed to create the impression that it is itself a benevolent provider to whom all gratitude is due. The food that is eaten, the clothing that is worn, the shelter that is provided, are all the product of the labor of some other human beings, the fellow citizens of those for whom the government thus makes provisions. The government itself creates none of all this. Government, when it renders aid, renders it as the agent for the people of the country.

"A Real Danger."

"We face a real danger in the opportunity which the complexities of our modern economic system give to government to secure dominance over a large section of our population. Once the relations of a government to its people become such that the people are subservient, we have laid the foundations of totalitarianism.

"Without integrity among nations we can have no peace. Without integrity in government we can have no liberty. Without integrity in the business world we can have no prosperity. Without integrity in our social life we may spend our days in the pursuit of happiness, but happiness will remain beyond our reach."

BARBARA HOCHWALT.

Barbara Jean Hochwalt, 18 months old, won her first beauty contest yesterday. Her new title is champion of the service club babies of the Chicago Maternity center. The service clubs are the groups organized to maintain the center at Newberry avenue and Maxwell street. Barbara Jean is the daughter of Mrs. George Hochwalt, 418 North Park road, La Grange, who is a member of the West Suburban auxiliary.

The young champion has blonde hair and blue eyes. She was one of 30 babies of her age or younger whose pictures were submitted by their mothers yesterday in a Baby Week contest for judging by Dr. Isaac A. Abt, pediatrician; Dr. Beatrice Tucker, medical director of the Maternity center; John Doctoroff and Macena Barton, portrait painters, and Mrs. Frank Fowle of the center's executive board.

CENSUS OFFICIAL PLAYS POLITICS; ORDER INQUIRY

George W. Schreech, census director for the Chicago area, said last night he is investigating complaints that Congressman William T. Schulte, a Democratic candidate for renomination from the 1st district in the Indiana primary next Tuesday, had been invited to address three meetings of Lake county, Ind., census takers. Schreech ordered Miss Mary Ferrar, Lake county census director, who is a Democrat, to make a full report to him today.

Schreech was informed that Miss Ferrar sent franked postal cards to the 231 census takers under her jurisdiction asking them to attend meetings in Gary, East Chicago and Hammond last Thursday. She admitted to Schreech that she invited Schulte to speak at these meetings because he has the patronage in the district. The Hatch bill forbids federal employés to engage in political activities.

COUNCIL GROUP TO MAP TRACTION PACT WEDNESDAY

The city council's special traction subcommittee will meet Wednesday to discuss its proposals for terms of a unified traction franchise to be submitted to the transit companies Thursday, Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman, said yesterday. Thursday's meeting will be attended by the council subcommittee, the lines' seven man board of negotiators, and representatives of the Public Works administration and the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The RFC is considering an application by the lines and the city for a loan to help finance the proposed $100,000,000 transit modernization program. The PWA has been asked to grant an extension of its May 1 deadline for a franchise pact.

ROOSEVELT OFF FOR HYDE PARK TO VISIT MOTHER

Washington, D. C., May 3 [Special].—President Roosevelt tonight boarded a special train in the union station here at 11 p. m. for a week-end visit with his 85 year old mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, in his family home at Hyde Park.

The President was concerned about his mother last week when she was seized with a sudden illness during a visit to New York City. She dismissed the seizure as a stomach upset.

Mom, when Dad, the old sweet, hurries out the door this morning, tell him "Whoa there" and watch him slide. Then, tuck this ad in his pocket and remind him of the TWO pound box of Mrs. Snyder's you (and he) will want (and need) for TOMORROW. Then he can't forget!

MOTHER'S DAY SPECIAL . . . Send this lovely assortment to your Mom before May 12, and take one home today. Packed in a beautiful, decorated box: chocolates, brittles, chewies, etc.!

RIGHT TO DECIDE WHO'S GOVERNOR ARGUED IN COURT

Judge's Power Is Issue in Horner Suit.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ill., May 3.—Circuit Judge W. C. Radliff this afternoon took under advisement a series of vital preliminary motions in a suit to determine who is governor of Illinois. He gave no indication when he will rule.

A full day of legal arguments produced two highlights:

1. Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, thru his counsel, agreed with attorney for Gov. Horner that the Circuit court of McLean county lacks jurisdiction over the person of the governor. For himself, Stelle has submitted to the jurisdiction of the court.

2. Judge Radliff, in an argumentative question, asked Attorney General John E. Cassidy whether he was not contending that he, the attorney general, was the proper tribunal to decide the issue of whether Horner's illness requires Stelle to act as chief executive. The judge got no answer.

Suit Would Seat Stelle.

The case is a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel Stelle to act as governor during Horner's invalidism. It asks the court to appoint a medical commission to view Horner's mental and physical fitness to hold the reins of government. The suit was brought by James McComb, a Chicago publicity man.

Today's arguments were directed to Cassidy's motion to dismiss the case for lack of jurisdiction and his motion to expunge an answer filed in Stelle's behalf by private counsel, E. J. Coyle of Springfield and Oscar G. Hoose and Joseph W. De Pew of Bloomington. Thru these personal attorneys, Stelle said he has been thwarted by the attorney general in efforts to obey a constitutional mandate to assume the governorship during Horner's disability. Cassidy, a Horner appointee, is seeking to represent both Horner and Stelle in opposing the suit.

The import of Supreme court decisions fas that the attorney general is the legal counsel for state officers, Cassidy insisted.

"But," said Judge Radliff, "what authorities can you cite where the interests of two officers are diametrically opposed?"

No Conflict of Interests.

"There can be no conflict in the interests of the public officers, both servants of the constitution," Cassidy replied.

"The law establishes a presumption that the attorney general acts in good faith without exterior motives. The general assembly, thru its power of impeachment, is the only agency that can attack this presumption.

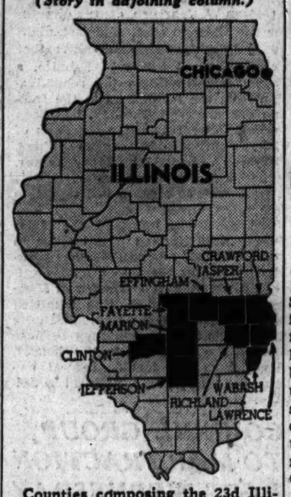

"In this case, the lieutenant governor should have sought and accepted the advice of the attorney general as his sole legal adviser."

"If you go as far as you seem to indicate," said the judge, leveling a finger at Cassidy, "then it seems to me that if the disability clause of the constitution is to be invoked, then you would be the tribunal insofar as the governor and lieutenant governor are concerned."

Prohibition Party to Hold Conclave Here Next Week

Republican Loss
(Story in adjoining column.)

REPUBLICAN VOTE IN OIL FIELDS NOT UP TO STANDARD

23d District Prosperity Blamed for Loss.

Mount Vernon, Ill., May 3 [Special].—Sudden prosperity, caused by the oil boom in southern Illinois, apparently did not help the downstate Republican advance, according to an analysis today of the April 9 primary vote in the 23d congressional district. Totals for the 10 counties in the oddly shaped district showed 30,118 votes, a loss of 11.3 per cent from the 1936 presidential year figure of 33,976.

There were gains, however, in comparing the new total with those of the preceding nonpresidential years. The April 9 vote was 16.9 per cent above the 1934 G. O. P. primary score, and 36 per cent over the 1938 total. Analysts did not consider these comparisons as sound as the other in measuring Republican strength.

Jasper Shows Increase.

Only Jasper county provided an increase over the 1936 votes. Clinton, Crawford, Effingham, Fayette, Jefferson, Lawrence, Marion, Richland, and Wabash counties lagged behind the general G. O. P. march of progress.

Thomas E. Dewey easily led the other candidates. His 26,708 votes were 6,604 more than were given to former Gov. Louis L. Emmerson as an unopposed delegate to the national convention in his home territory.

How the Candidates Fared.

Thomas E. Dewey, president	26,708
Ben O. Sumner, congressman	16,187
Louis L. Emmerson, national delegate	20,104
G. C. Curtis, national delegate	17,401
Wayland Brooks, U. S. senator	17,432
Dwight H. Green, governor	15,766
Hugh W. Cross, lieutenant governor	12,124
Justus L. Johnson, secretary of state	10,080
Arthur C. Lueder, state auditor	1,009
Warren Wright, state treasurer	5,874
George F. Barrett, attorney general	3,798
W. G. Stratton, congress at large	10,643
Stephen A. Day, congress at large	7,988

In the cases of Lueder, Wright, and Barrett, they were not high men in the district but their state-wide totals gave them nomination.

1,700 PUBLICITY AGENTS HIRED BY NEW DEAL: TAFT

Paid as 'Statisticians' to Evade Law.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 4 [Special].—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who is seeking the Republican nomination for President, today lashed out at heavy government expenditures being made for production and circulation of New Deal propaganda. He spoke at the opening of a two day convention of the Advertising affiliation, composed of advertising club members from 13 cities in New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Ontario.

Senator Taft charged that at least 1,700 employés were being carried on federal pay rolls, at a cost to taxpayers of $5,000,000 annually, while engaged in various types of publicity work.

Free Mail Increases 300 Pct.

In this connection, he declared, free mail sent out by government agencies increased 300 per cent in 1938 over 1932. This mail, at regular rates, would have brought in revenue totaling $35,690,807, he declared.

"I don't care what kind of administration you have, if it indulges in advertising, it is bound to indulge in propaganda," said Senator Taft. "In effect, bureaus of the government then are really lobbying with the public to get them to come to congress and insist upon the continuation or expansion of the bureaus' activities. I don't believe any such propaganda is necessary. If government activities undertaken with the people's money are not such as to attract merit to themselves without advertising, then I don't believe government money should be spent for that purpose."

Before his address Taft said the prospects for Republican success in November were "good" and expressed the opinion that if President Roosevelt were renominated he would be the "easiest Democrat to defeat."

Nation Needs an Incentive.

Declaring that increased production was the "key to the whole situation," and that advertising was an essential ingredient, Taft told his audience:

"We must encourage men to go ahead with confidence that the government will not regulate them to death by fixing all wages, hours, prices and practices, or by taking away in taxes all the money which may be made in profits. There must be some incentive for a man to save, and some incentive to put savings into permanent capital from which they may be reasonably certain of a long term income.

"But advertising and salesmanship are still the sparkplugs. Suppose tomorrow all advertising came suddenly to an end. We would probably see a defiation and downward spiral that would make 1933 look like Coolidge prosperity. I have talked to large manufacturers who would like to save the expense of advertising and have tried it. They don't know why, but the fact is that when they stop advertising their sales rapidly fall off no matter how essential their products."

Taft opened his attack on New Deal spending for propaganda purposes, saying:

"Highly persuasive publicity has been sent out to induce cities and school districts all over the country to launch public works projects, to induce private citizens to build homes, to induce farmers to accept payments.

Cites Law Against It.

"Certainly it is foolish for congress to appropriate money to finance lobbying with congress itself, to do the very things which it should do, if they are good things, without lobbying. In 1913 congress passed a law forbidding the expenditure of public money to pay any publicity expert unless specifically authorized for that purpose. This is still the law [United States code, title 6, section 54].

"Many persons actually engaged in publicity work are carried on the rolls as editors, statisticians or information specialists. In some agencies they are called radio script writers or special writers."

How to End Depression.

In conclusion, Taft commended advertising from the standpoint of its low cost to the ultimate consumer of the products advertised.

"The American people have succeeded before," he said. "They are the same people. This is the same country. We have come out of every past depression by working hard, saving money and building up our private industries.

"If we throw away the government spending fallacy, and stimulate production by the use of advertising and other methods, there is no reason why we should not go on to a better national income, to a higher standard of life than we have ever enjoyed, and to a condition in which every man who wants a job can get a job."

LEGAL EXPERTS TELL ROOSEVELT CAA WILL REMAIN INDEPENDENT

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt, facing a congressional battle over his order transferring the Civil Aeronautics authority to the commerce department, made public today an opinion from administration legal experts that the CAA would remain "entirely independent."

The opinion took the form of an analysis by the budget bureau of Mr. Roosevelt's recent reorganization order which provided for the transfer. In addition, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson had approved the analysis. By taking this action, Mr. Roosevelt, in effect, replied in advance to what is expected to be the principal argument of opponents of the transfer in senate debate next week on a resolution to disapprove the order—that the CAA would lose its independence.

MILK DELIVERIES RESUMED; BEGIN PARLEYS TODAY

Truce Provides Plan to Negotiate Dispute.

Negotiations for a final agreement between representatives of the Associated Milk Dealers and the Milk Wagon Drivers' union will begin this morning in the association offices at 309 Jackson boulevard. First steps will be taken, officials said, to iron out the differences which led to the two day strike of the drivers.

The strike ended at dawn yesterday after union leaders and dairy owners had bargained for more than thirteen hours with State's Attorney Courtney acting as adviser. The parley took place in Courtney's county building offices and ended after both sides had agreed to terms of a truce.

Normal Deliveries Today.

Delivery of milk to homes, resumed a few hours after peace was declared, is expected to be normal this morning. By 3 p. m. yesterday it was estimated deliveries were 90 to 95 per cent normal.

Loss to farmers during the strike amounted to about $120,000, according to Arthur H. Lauterbach, general manager of the Pure Milk association, a farm cooperative marketing group. The 4,300 drivers and 2,000 inside workers are estimated to have lost from $45,000 to $50,000 daily in wages. These, union officials said, will not have to be paid by the companies but will be absorbed by the unions.

STORY OF NEGOTIATIONS

A long conference table and a room filled with intense men. Statistics. Loud, harsh argument, and smoke. Hour upon hour—thirteen of them, from the late afternoon until dawn. Words, thousands of words.

Out of this developed the settlement of the two day strike which had tied up Chicago's milk industry. The story of the settlement is a story of the conciliation of conflicting ideas and principles. It is also the story of Tom Courtney, the state's attorney who assumed the rôle of referee and errand boy, who cajoled and advised and pleaded and in the end made peace between dealers and strikers.

Called to Courtney's Office.

Thursday, the second day of the strike, went along in much the same way as most strikes' second days: both sides determined and unswerving from their original demands, a dwindling supply of milk, some defections from the ranks, and a few incidents of violence.

By 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, in response to Courtney's command, both sides had their emissaries in Courtney's offices on the fourth floor of the county building.

For the employers, there were Attorney Ernest Ballard and Paul Potter, executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers, and 10 leading dairy owners; and for the workers, Henry Weber and Tom Haggerty, president and secretary, respectively, of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union,

Talks and Walks Bring End of Strike

View of state's attorney's suite, facing Randolph street on fourth floor of county building, where milk drivers' strike was brought to an end early yesterday after a conference lasting 13 hours.

and Frank Gillespie and August Brunier, secretary-treasurer and president of the Inside Dairy Workers' union, and Leslie Goudie, president of the Teamsters' Joint council.

Courtney's first words were to the point: "I don't want to take sides. This has been going on now for two days. There has been a report of violence. That must not happen. It's time to settle this strike."

Then began the long stretch of conferring. In the anterooms one of a dozen reporters and photographers said, "I'm afraid Tom's stuck his neck out this time. This is going to be a tough one."

From Courtney's office came the hum of voices. An hour. Then out trooped the 10 dealers, Ballard and Potter, all looking solemn and tired.

The reporters clustered about them. Walking out? Strike settled? No reply, but shrugs and a slow shaking of heads. They disappeared in another office 20 feet away, usually occupied by Courtney's assistants, Gene O'Connor and Marshall Kearney. The union representatives remained in the other office. Courtney stepped out into the anteroom, his manner serious.

"Will you keep them here until they reach some sort of agreement?"

A brief nod was the reply.

More talk. Disputes over negotiations, arbitration. The union reported steadfast against immediate arbitration, the dealers refusing to negotiate without provision for arbitration.

Seven, then eight o'clock. A flurry of activity. Gillespie, at Courtney's suggestion, called other union leaders by telephone.

More conferences in the Kearney-O'Connor office by each side to consider the other's proposals.

So it ran until far past midnight.

At 4 o'clock Joe Keenan, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, who had arrived earlier, was invited by Courtney to join the conference.

At 5 o'clock another set of separate parleys. Courtney admitted he was getting sleepy.

Then, 6 o'clock. The men poured from the office and there was a great searching for coats and hats, piled on a nearby desk. Towering above the group was Courtney. He was waving a sheet of paper.

"It's settled," he announced. Then he read the terms: Strike called off, immediate negotiation, arbitration if necessary, wages to remain at the former rate—$48 a week base wage—during negotiations. If no contract agreement is reached by June 1, arbitration boards will be set up.

HIGH COURT NIPS CASH FOR EX-WIFE WHO WEDS AGAIN

The Illinois Supreme court upheld yesterday the constitutionality of marriage and divorce reform laws that say in effect: A woman's first husband should not be forced to contribute to the support of a second. Specifically, the court in a decision at Springfield ruled that when a divorced women is married again, the alimony responsibilities of her former husband are automatically canceled.

The decision was the first by the high court in a case testing amendments to the state's marriage laws as passed by the legislature in 1933. The ruling was on an appeal taken by Mrs. Sara Alder Cowley-Brown from a petition filed in 1936 by her first husband, Sidney Adler, 67 years old, 839 Judson avenue, Evanston, seeking readjustment of alimony payments. Adler, a retired lawyer, divorced his wife in 1922, charging desertion.

They had two sons, both of age at the time of their divorce.

Sent Husband Money.

The former Mrs. Adler, who is now 64 years old and lives at the Chicago Beach hotel, married John Stapleton Cowley-Brown, a writer, in 1924. She admitted during testimony before Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan last year that she frequently sent money to her present husband who then was in Cuba. The money, she said, was for his support.

Adler's petition asserted he had paid his former wife more than $135,000 since the divorce. Master in Chancery Otto C. Rentner heard testimony and recommended a reduction of annual payments from $10,000 to $5,400. This sum is the annual income from a trust fund Adler set up for his former wife at the time of the divorce. Judge Finnegan upheld Rentner.

"Respondent [Mrs. Cowley-Brown] urged that because of the statement in the decree providing her remarriage should not be a cause for modification of the consent decree," the Supreme court's decision stated. "the court was deprived of power subsequently to modify it.

Statutes Govern Case.

"Grounds for divorce, payment of alimony, and modification of the divorce decrees are regulated by statute. A court when dealing with such matters is exercising powers granted by the legislature and cannot, by incorporating such a provision in its decree, divest itself of the power to modify contrary to the legislative will.

"Prior to the amendment the general rule adopted by the court was that remarriage of a woman who was receiving alimony from her former husband was such a change of condition as to authorize a modification of the decree to the extent of canceling the alimony payments.

"The amendment merely adopted the general rule and made it mandatory upon the court to cancel alimony payments in all cases where the recipient had remarried, regardless of whether or not there had been a change in the financial condition of the former husband."

Court attaches here yesterday said that the Supreme court's ruling will affect only a few other cases.

INQUIRY BY NLRB ON NAUGHTINESS IN HAWAII BARED

Concerned with Filipino Wallflowers, Too.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3.—Congress learned today that the National Labor Relations board, created by congress to supervise labor disputes, conducted at government expense in 1937 a wholesale investigation in the Hawaiian Islands and compiled a lengthy report on the following:

1. Vice conditions, including a report on disorderly houses, police graft, and the type of patronage.

2. The plight of Filipinos at public dances because of the refusal of women to dance with them.

"Big Five" Accused.

3. The "control" of land, banks, transportation, stores, hotels, telephones, schools, churches, newspapers, police, and the legislature by the so-called "Big Five" sugar interests.

4. The alleged subservience of the local judiciary to the same interests.

5. The "very close coöperation" between the army and navy intelligence units and the "Big Five."

6. The "great laxity in the enforcement of laws" by the United States department of justice.

7. The "control" of WPA and PWA by the sugar planters.

8. The "treacherous" nature of Hawaiian hospitality.

Investigators Puzzled.

Members of the Smith committee investigating the administration of the Wagner labor act, before whom the report was read, were curious to know by what stretch of the imagination the labor board conceived it a duty to make such an investigation.

Some members thought they saw an answer in the fact that the inquiry was conducted by E. J. Eagan, a regional director who had been recommended by Harry Bridges, west coast radical agitator, as an ideal man to send to the islands. Bridges is still regarded as a communist by the Dies committee on un-American activities, despite his exoneration of that charge by the department of labor.

Edwin S. Smith, member of the board who has been under fire for his radical sentiments, was in the witness chair as the results of the Hawaiian survey were read into the record. He admitted that there was considerable material "not relevant to the activities of the board" in Eagan's report. The survey had proved very useful, however, he remarked.

Publicity Unintended.

The Eagan report was not intended by the board to receive publicity, the committee discovered. A letter from Eagan, dated June 8, 1937, which accompanied the report, pleaded that the document be treated confidentially and not be placed in the regular office files. Eagan also wrote that he might have covered too many fields in his report.

Referring to the "coöperation" between army and navy intelligence units and the "Big Five," Eagan reported:

"This [the coöperation] is in spite of the fact that if there is any military hazard arising out of the oriental population, it was caused by the activities of the Big Five.' The testimony [at a hearing conducted by Eagan] showed that free passage was given to certain army and navy officers for the purpose of making trips to the west coast to investigate labor leaders and that reports of that investigation were submitted to the representatives of the 'Big Five.'"

Concerning National Guard.

Commenting upon the status of the National Guard in the islands, Eagan wrote:

"Gen. Perry M. Smoot, commander of the National Guard, is very friendly with, if not absolutely under the control of the 'Big Five.' It is reported his name appeared prominently during a senatorial investigation relating to the sale and distribution of arms and ammunition. Many of those holding high commands in the National Guard are employés of the 'Big Five' or their affiliates."

Eagan ended his report with a recommendation that an adequate staff be sent to Hawaii by the labor board to carry on "a thoro investigation" of charges pending against the Hawaiian Sugar Planters association.

"One of the most treacherous things existing in the islands is the overabundance of hospitality," Eagan reported. "For the unsuspecting it acts as a drug or sleeping potion. Instead of seeing conditions as they actually are, after having imbibed such hospitality, one is apt to visualize a paradise of grand people. So subtly is the work performed that one does not realize what is happening."

Quizzed on Bridges.

Committee Counsel Edmund M. Toland continued to question Board Member Smith today about his friendly relations with Harry Bridges.

A letter from Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen association [A. F. of L.], to President Roosevelt, complaining of Smith's hostile attitude to the A. F. of L. and partiality to Bridges' C. I. O. organization of longshoremen, was read into the record.

"Board Member Smith has made the statement that Harry Bridges is a great labor leader, which is, of course, his prerogative to believe," Ryan wrote the President in September, 1937. "But I feel that it was childish of him to call a meeting of his entire staff, including stenographers and telephone operators, to impress upon them that Bridges is the type of labor leader our country needs."

Smith admitted, under questioning, that he had addressed the labor board staff after a visit to California, where he talked with Bridges and other labor leaders. He denied, however, that he had lauded Bridges in the manner described by Ryan.

Letter of Complaint.

An indication of the resentment felt by some of the board's representatives in the field concerning the influence of the C. I. O. upon the board at Washington was contained in a letter written by Charles H. Logan, regional director at New Orleans, La. His letter was introduced into the record.

Logan referred to the fact that Lee Pressman, general counsel of the C. I. O., had gone over the head of the regional director to present a petition directly to the board in Washington.

"Just who is Lee Pressman, or any other man or representative of men, that he has the power to go before the board and draw, in effect, a blast against this office without this office being heard or considered in the matter?" Logan wrote the board. "WHO is he? WHAT is he? What does he KNOW?"

Smith said the board had paid no attention to this complaint.

KELLY PROCLAIMS WEEK FOR MUSIC LOVERS CAMPAIGN

Mayor Kelly yesterday proclaimed the week beginning Monday as Music Appreciation week in Chicago. The proclamation follows the announcement by the Chicago Committee for Music Appreciation of its campaign to increase the appreciation of symphonic music by distributing records of world famous symphonies at low prices.

The mayor signed the proclamation in the presence of Edward T. Ingle, national director of the National Committee for Music Appreciation Week, and Lawrence W. Scudder, chairman of the Chicago committee. The music campaign, they said, is for the benefit of, and sponsored by the four leading Chicago musical organizations: the Chicago Opera company, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the Women's Symphony Orchestra, and the Ravinia Festival.

Distribution of the first records in the series to be released by the committee will begin today from two centers, 14 North Franklin street and 65 East Lake street.

SUBWAY BORER MAKES TURN AT LAKE-DEARBORN

One of the "biscuit cutters"—200 ton steel shields—that is boring a loop section of the subway, turned 40 feet underneath the Selwyn-Harris theater yesterday on its way from Lake street into Dearborn street.

Tht cutter in turning the underground corner passes directly beneath the theater building, which has been supported by concrete caissons. The shield is moving between two rows of caissons with but eight inches clearance on either side. Its curving path extends about 400 feet to bring the subway into Dearborn street just south of the theater.

An identical shield which is digging a second tunnel parallel to the first is now boring under Lake street between La Salle and Clark streets. It will turn the corner in about two weeks, engineers said.

Close Harrison St. Bridge Monday for Two Weeks

City Engineer Loran D. Gayton said yesterday that the Harrison street bridge will be closed to traffic for two weeks, starting Monday, for repairs.

SEIZURE BY DIES OF REDS' PAPERS RULED ILLEGAL

Judge Holds Bill of Rights Bars Raids.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 3 (AP). —Agents of the Dies congressional committee investigating un-American activities acted illegally in raiding Philadelphia headquarters of the communist party and international workers order, a federal judge ruled today in an opinion vigorously defending rights of a minority.

District Judge George A. Welsh upheld the complaint of Carl Reeve, communist candidate for the United States senate from Pennsylvania, and Frank Hellman, district I. W. O. organizer. They contended the raids April 2, by George F. Hurley and Chester Howe, Dies agents, and Police Lieutenant Albert Granitz on warrants issued by a magistrate were illegal and violated their civil liberties.

Judge Welsh said in his opinion "no good reason exists why the right to be free from unreasonable search and seizure should not stand upon a parity today with the freedom of religion, of speech, of press, and of assembly, as guaranteed by the bill of rights."

Will Appeal Decision.

In Washington, Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] announced his committee would appeal the decision immediately. Dies added that if defeated in court, he would introduce a bill to give congressional committees the right to obtain records of organizations "trying to overthrow the government."

Judge Welsh's 11-page opinion, replete with references to constitutional rights, did not rule whether records confiscated in the raids should be returned to Reeve and Hellman as they requested. He said the question of whether the seized papers were seditious can be decided later.

Judge Welsh said, however, that if any of the seized papers were seditious they could not be used against either group since their seizure was illegal. Reeve and Hellman have contended there was nothing subversive in the papers.

Affidavit Is Assailed.

Specifically, the 61 year old jurist, himself a former United States representative, decided the raids were illegal because the affidavit signed before Magistrate Dogole was based on "information and belief" and "without any personal knowledge of the searching officers."

Judge Welsh also held that "rights of an individual may be violated if a corporation's records and property, for which the individual as an officer is responsible, are seized illegally.

"It just so happens that the aggrieved parties in this case are apparently very much in the minority in our country. But their rights which they claim were invaded are rights that are sacred to all of us."

"We cannot accept the claim of the defendants [the Dies agents] that they are free from the constitutional command not to violate these rights. Let the seal of judicial approval be placed upon such constitutional violations and liberty of the person, and liberty of religious and political thought will have vanished from our land."

Indict Five Who Defy Dies.

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—A federal grand jury indicted five men today on charges growing out of their refusal to answer questions of the Dies committee while investigating communist activities. They are Dr. Albert Blumberg, Baltimore; George Powers, Pittsburgh; Thomas F. P. O'Dea, president of the Young Communist League of Massachusetts; Philip Frankfeld, executive secretary of the Communist party in Massachusetts, and James H. Dolsen, Pittsburgh.

NLRB OFFICIAL'S 'HELL RAISING' TO AID C. I. O. STUDIED

Congressmen Learn of Complaints.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3.—The union organization activities of Herbert J. Vogt, a trial examiner for the National Labor Relations board, were under the scrutiny today of the Smith committee investigating the administration of the Wagner labor act.

Vogt was transferred from Iowa to the Minneapolis office of the board after protests regarding his conduct had been laid before Chairman J. Warren Madden by the two senators from Iowa, Guy M. Gillette and Clyde L. Herring, both Democrats.

Senator Gillette's Protest.

In February, 1939, according to records shown the committee, Senator Gillette wrote Madden that he had been considerably disturbed about reports of Vogt's actions in Iowa. These actions, he said, had aroused much antagonism to the work of the labor board.

Senator Gillette said he had been informed that Vogt addressed a C.I.O. meeting in Charles City, Ia.

"He informed the gathering," Gillette wrote, "that he was a representative of the National Labor Relations board and that he was taking an active part in the effort to secure organization for the C. I. O."

Chairman Madden replied on March 3 that he had questioned Vogt, who denied discussing anything but the labor act at the meeting. Newspaper reports of the meeting did not mention that Vogt favored the C. I. O. in his speech, Madden noted.

Senator Herring's Protest.

Senator Herring also protested against Vogt's work in Iowa.

"I assumed he had been discharged, as he should be," he wrote Madden. "But in any event I must insist that some one else be sent into Iowa."

Vogt's own opinion of his Iowa activities was indicated in a letter he wrote to a friend in Pittsburgh, Pa., in September, 1938.

"At present I am still bouncing around in the state of Iowa," Vogt wrote, "trying to raise all the hell that possibly can be raised within the limits of our power."

The satisfaction of the C. I. O. with Vogt's efforts was revealed in a letter written by Don Harris, director of the Packinghouse Workers Organizing committee, to Vogt.

"I would like to take this opportunity to convey to you my deepest appreciation for the splendid manner in which you have assisted the labor movement in this section of the country," Harris declared. "Words cannot express the marvelous work that you have accomplished and only our continued friendliness and coöperation can partly repay the great good you have done us."

LEAVES BABY SON ASLEEP IN BERTH; TRAIN PULLS OUT

Mrs. John Hallinen of Los Angeles was reunited with her son John, 17 months old, in Chicago yesterday. En route east on the Santa Fe train, the Scout, she left the baby sleeping in a berth Thursday during a 40 minute stopover in Kansas City, Mo. When she returned to the station the train had departed

At midnight the conductor received a telegram from Mrs. Hallinen with directions for caring for the child until the mother reached it. Miss Winifred Player of West Chicago, nurse on the train, was given charge of the baby until his mother arrived here yesterday at 11 a. m. The Scout had pulled into the station an hour earlier.

Mrs. Hallinen then boarded a Grand Trunk train for Flint, Mich., where she will join her husband on a vacation.

WAGE-HOUR LAW REFORMS KILLED BY HOUSE ACTION

Buried by Amendments, Bill Is Shelved.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3.—The proposed reforms in the wages and hours act were killed by the house today after seven days of confused discussion. By a vote of 205 to 175, which found both Republican and Democratic factions almost equally divided, amendments to the law were relegated to the labor committee where they will gather dust until the end of the session.

Previously, the house had refused to adopt, by a vote of 211 to 171, a measure loaded down with proposals to exempt an estimated 3,000,000 workers from the 42 hour maximum work week and the 30 cents an hour minimum wage provided for in the present law.

House Admits Confusion.

Many considerations entered into the final determination of the house to send the amendments back to committee. Many members admitted they could not understand the measure after more than 20 alterations had been written into it. Farm members were suspicious of congressmen from the cities and vice versa.

Lost in the confusion were such worthwhile proposals, favored almost unanimously, as the amendment exempting so-called white collar employés receiving $200 a month and more from the stipulation that they should work only 42 hours a week and receive time and a half for overtime if they exceeded that limit. It was noted that a $10,000 a year man might demand overtime payments under a law intended to protect the $12 a week worker.

When the vote on the amendment loaded measure arrived, the Republican minority was split, 87 to 66, in favor of the bill. The Democratic majority divided 141 to 84 against the measure.

On a motion then offered by Representative James W. Wadsworth [R., N. Y.] to recommit the original Norton bill, which would exempt only 465,000 agricultural workers from the restrictions of the law, the division in the two parties was even more remarkable.

Seventy-nine Republicans voted for the motion and 72 opposed it. The Democrats were divided, 122 to 102, in favor of the motion. Two Progressives, one Farmer-Labor, and one American Labor member also voted for the motion.

Debate Is Scathing.

As the legislators drifted from the chamber they heard that President Roosevelt, at a press conference, had sharply criticized the "bungling efforts" of the house to make corrections in the law. Mr. Roosevelt said that the house apparently didn't know what it was doing and nobody else knew.

It was admitted by congressmen that administration strategy was responsible for the final decision against correcting obvious injustices in the present law. That strategy had been centered upon packing the Norton bill with so many amendments that it could not receive a majority of votes and it was successful.

The final hours of debate were devoted to scathing criticism of the new amendments exempting several millions of low paid workers, most of them in the south. Representative John W. McCormack [D., Mass.] called the bill in its amended form "a legislative hypocrisy." This was after the chamber had approved, by voice vote, an amendment offered by Representative Joseph E. Casey [D., Mass.] exempting 1,300,000 in wholesale firms from the 42 hour week.

Sincere efforts to reform the law were wiped out by the final action of the house.

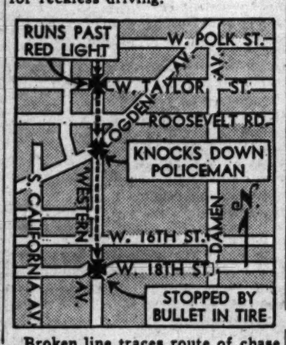

Woman Driver Jailed

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1940 Traffic Toll

More than [illegible]% of the city's automobile fatalities [illegible] of a nature physically impossible o[illegible] urban superhighway.

DIVORCEE SEIZED IN CHASE; JAILED AS WILD DRIVER

Speeds Away, Thumbs Her Nose at Policeman.

Miss Rose Pauline Rudy, 26 years old, a divorcée, not only violated a traffic law but thumbed her nose at a policeman to boot. So, yesterday, she was sentenced by Judge Frank M. Padden in Safety court to 20 days in the Bridewell for reckless driving and fined $25 for disorderly conduct. Her driver's license was rescinded for a year.

Policeman Frank J. Napieralski told the judge that on April 24 Miss Rudy, who lives at 4062 North Kedvale avenue, drove past a red light at Taylor street and Western avenue, where he was assisting school children across the street. Napieralski said he blew his whistle but Miss Rudy thumbed her nose at him and sped on.

He said he hopped on the running board of a passing auto and chased her to Western and Ogden avenues, where he alighted and placed his foot on the running board of her car to question her. At this, he continued, she swerved her machine, knocking him to the pavement, and sped away. He again chased her, he said, to 18th street and Western avenue, where he halted her car by firing a shot into a rear tire.

"Drivers like you belong in jail," Judge Padden told Miss Rudy in passing sentence. "That's where you're going for a while."

Roosevelt Jones, 644 East 69th street, got 20 days in the Bridewell for driving while intoxicated, and lost his driver's license for 100 days for leaving the scene of an accident.

AUTO GOES INTO RIVER; VICTIM'S BODY RECOVERED

The body of Raymond J. Kendrick, 46 years old, 228 North Prospect avenue, Park Ridge, was recovered yesterday from a car that had plunged into the north branch of the river at Oakley avenue.

The car apparently had gone thru a 10 foot gap in the guard rail at the end of the street. It was discovered early yesterday. A watch in the victim's pocket had stopped at 8:21, indicating the accident occurred the preceding evening. Cards in Kendrick's pocket showed he had been receiving unemployment compensation, but a brother-in-law, John Ford, with whom Kendrick lived, said he had been working as a real estate salesman.

Sarkis Baligian, 63, of 29 South Aberdeen street, died in County hospital of injuries incurred Feb. 28 when he was struck by an automobile at Adams and Halsted streets. The driver was Peter Karotewicz, 1308 North Artesian avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 286 persons had been killed in auto accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 218 were killed in Chicago, where 7,025 were injured in traffic during the same period.

VOTE OF ILLINOIS MEMBERS SPLIT ON WAGES-HOURS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 3.—The Illinois delegation in congress was divided, 13 to 12, in favor of the recommittal of the proposed amendments to the wages and hours act when the final vote was taken in the house today. Thirteen Democrats voted to kill the suggested reforms in the law by sending the measure back to committee. Ten Republicans and two Democrats voted against recommittal. Two Democrats did not vote. INDICT CAPONE VICE OVERLORD AS RADIO BOOKIE

Jack Guzik and Two Aids Accused by U. S.

Jack Guzik, gambling and vice boss for the old Capone syndicate, and two others were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on charges of violating the government communications act by the use of a miniature radio transmitter to carry racing information to handbooks.

Jack Guzik.

This was the second time federal prosecutors have used this charge in the effort to break up the bookmakers' substitute service which sprang up after the collapse of Moses L. Annenberg's racing information empire. The Western Union Telegraph Company of New York and 18 individuals were named in three indictments returned April 26.

Those indicted with Guzik yesterday are Leslie E. Kruse, alias Kane, and Maurice L. Goldstein, alias M. L. Goldie. Goldstein also was named in the April 26 indictments, as was Harry [Greasy Thumb] Guzik, brother of Jack Guzik.

Race News Broadcast.

The present indictment charges the three defendants with using a miniature broadcaster to carry race information to the 81 club, handbook establishment at 81 West Randolph street owned by Kruse and Jack Guzik.

To this end, according to the indictment, the defendants set up a telephone in the basement at 79 West Randolph street and calls coming on the telephone were carried to the connected transmitter and, thru it, were broadcast by radio to the handbook. The wavelength used, the indictment said, interfered with broadcasts of station WLW in Cincinnati, O.

Goldstein is accused of installing the equipment and Guzik and Kruse are charged with financing the scheme. The overt acts listed in the indictment are the application for the telephone installation and the purchase of the transmitter from the Allied Radio corporation, 833 Jackson boulevard.

Guzik's Bond Set at $5,000.

Guzik's address was given as 7240 Luella avenue, Kruse's as 5206 Oakton street, Niles Center, and Goldstein's as 4200 Hazel street. Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward set bonds of $5,000 each for Guzik and Kruse and $2,500 for Goldstein, because he already has posted bond on the previous indictment. United States deputy marshals began a search for the three men.

The indictment was another phase of the new gambling investigation by State's Attorney Courtney in collaboration with United States Attorney William J. Campbell. Early in the week police were ordered to pick up 14 of the most notorious members of the old Capone syndicate.

Guzik, who was released from Leavenworth penitentiary in December, 1935, after having served three and a half years for income tax evasion, was among the 14. The list was headed by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, successor to Capone. On Wednesday Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin and Harry Guzik testified before the federal grand jury.

LEWISOHN WINS 6 YEAR OLD SON IN CUSTODY SUIT

New York, May 3 (AP).—Ludwig Lewisohn today was awarded custody of James Elias Lewisohn, 6 year old son of the writer and Thelma Bowman Spear. The mother had custody of the child until today.

When Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy announced his decision, Miss Spear first looked stunned. Then she rushed over to Lewisohn, kissed her son, turned to his father, kissed him, and said: "God bless you; be kind to him."

At the end of yesterday's trial session Justice Levy ordered that the boy be brought to court to express his preference in the matter.

Lewisohn began the custody suit soon after his recent marriage to Edna Manley, a former Rochester, N. Y., newspaper woman.

VICTOR BERGER'S WIDOW LEAVES SOCIALIST PARTY

Milwaukee, Wis., May 3 (AP).—Mrs. Meta Berger, widow of Victor L. Berger, one of the founders of the modern Socialist party in the United States, and widely known in Socialist circles, resigned from the party today.

"I find myself out of sympathy with the inglorious rôle the party is playing at this time, when civil liberties in America are being destroyed before our eyes, and when peace is so desperate an issue," she wrote in a letter to the county Socialist executive committee.

"I cannot in decency run with a pack that howls for the blood of red witches when the very hunt is a violation of the liberties by which we Socialists will survive."

Return to Spring Weather Is Forecast for Week-End

No more snow—and a return to spring weather—were Forecaster C. A. Donnel's promises yesterday. The mercury rose to 41 degrees in the afternoon and a maximum of 54 degrees is expected today. There will be a further rise tomorrow, he predicted.

is Bambrick's" and to be withdrawing as a candidate.

Bambrick, president of local 32B of the international in New York, is reported to be the choice of Scalise and the notorious gunman and racketeer, Augie Corsano, also known as Pisano, who helped Scalise climb into the president's chair without the formality of an election when Jerry Horan of Chicago, international president, died in 1937.

McFetridge had announced himself as a candidate to succeed Scalise. Union circles in the east believe that for "reasons of health" he will withdraw.

Dewey's Men to Attend.

Whether delegates to the Atlantic City convention will feel free to vote as they see fit remains doubtful, altho District Attorney Dewey has assigned a squad of New York detectives to attend the meeting as observers.

In Chicago State's Attorney Courtney, Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, and Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford spent the day with the grand jury tabulating 1,947 checks which Scalise is believed to have drawn against the treasury since he became president. A number of these were the common name, or "John Brown," checks made out to another payee, supposedly a dummy or stooge for Scalise.

Identifying the checks was Kenneth Ashley, bookkeeper in the Chicago headquarters, who made out and cashed 285 checks in amounts averaging $300.

Identifies Few Payees.

In the case of the "John Brown" checks, Ashley was reported to have identified the names of a few payees as union organizers, but in the vast majority of cases he was unable to offer any identification. It is understood that he explained that Scalise would take these checks, leave the office, and return in a few minutes with an indorsement.

Ashley said that in the case of a number of other checks ranging between $1,000 and $3,500 which bore his indorsement alone, he made out the checks and cashed them at Scalise's direction, charging them off to "organization expense."

Treasurer: "I Did as Told."

Paul David, secretary-treasurer of the international, who was questioned in the state's attorney's office about a number of checks he made out, is said to have told the investigators:

"I did as I was told. Scalise ran the show."

The sale of the 15 elevator operators' locals to Scalise was discovered in tracing a check banked in the Market street bank, Philadelphia, Pa. The $10,000 payment ostensibly was to pay up back per capita taxes due by the locals to their parent body. A further investigation will be made to determine whether, in fact, the money did not go directly to officers of the elevator operators' international.

Used to Fight Taylor.

This transaction, Assistant State's Attorney Crawford said, gave Scalise the opening wedge he needed to come into Chicago and strip Mathew Taylor, president of the 40 year old local 66 of the elevator operators' union, of all but nominal control of that union.

The state's attorney's office opened the grand jury investigation in order to determine whether there are grounds for finding indictments against Scalise for embezzlement and larceny of union funds.

It was pointed out that Scalise would be liable to indictment, despite the authority given him by union by-laws to take the money, if it were shown that the funds were used without any benefit to the union. It was stated that the authorization of the by-laws would pertain only to withdrawals of money to be used only for legitimate union purposes.

STATE ST. GROUP SAYS CITY NEEDS SUPERHIGHWAYS

The construction of superhighways and the alleviation of Chicago's 10 year old downtown parking problem were cited as two of the city's outstanding needs in the annual report of the State Stree council, issued yesterday by David Mayer Jr., president.

Mayer said the increasing trend to the automobile as a means of transportation had been one of the chief factors contributing to urban disintegration and the appearance of blighted areas.

"Any city which fails to make proper provision against this hazard must suffer," he said.

Mayer stated that the council's parking committee has recommended a parking survey of the city with emphasis on municipal parking areas and reducions in tax and license fees to permit lower parking rates.

Salvatore de Grazio (left), who was slain, and John Barry, estranged husband of woman victim.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder and suicide yesterday in the deaths of Salvatore De Grazio, 47 years old, a veteran guard at the Bridewell, and Mrs. Iva Fern Barry, 26, of 2343 Geneva terrace. They were found shot to death in a car across the street from her home early in the day. The coroner's jury found that Mrs. Barry shot De Grazio and then herself.

Evidence at the inquest disclosed that they had been friends for three years, and only recently had broken their friendship. De Grazio was married and the father of three children. Mrs. Fern Ward, mother of Mrs. Barry, said her daughter knew this, but persisted in going with De Grazio.

Mrs. Barry's husband, John, said they had separated four months ago. De Grazio's widow, Harriet, 732 North Lawndale avenue, attended the inquest but did not testify. De Grazio was a brother of Joseph De Grazio, a former state representative, and of Anthony, a police lieutenant at the Sheffield avenue station.

Five C. I. O. Unionists Convicted of Terrorism

New York, May 3 (AP).—Five members of local 150 of the United Machinists of the Needle Industries union [C. I. O.] were convicted today of conspiracy to commit violence in the restraint of business. The prosecution accused them of conducting a "crime school" in which unionists were taught how to throw acid and stench bombs, and other acts of industrial sabotage. Two defendants were acquitted. Those convicted and eight others who had pleaded guilty will be sentenced May 17.

TORSO SLAYER STRIKES AGAIN; 3 BODIES FOUND

Believed to Be Victims of 'Mad Butcher.'

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 3 (AP).—Dismembered bodies of three men, believed to be the victims of the "mad butcher" blamed for 12 torso slayings in Cleveland, O., today were found in the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad yards in nearby Stowe township.

Deputy Coroner Anthony Sappo said the word "Nazi" had been carved on the chest of the third victim, found several hours after the discovery of the first two. The letters forming the word "Nazi" were cut deeply into the body and were about five inches high. They began at the midsection and ran upward, ending just below the neck.

Hidden in Box Cars.

All the torsos were found in box cars which arrived here April 21 from Struthers, O., 60 miles southeast of Cleveland and 15 miles from New Castle, Pa., where the torso of a young man was found last Oct. 13 in a swamp.

Sappo said the cars apparently had been sent to Struthers from Cleveland and rerouted to the Stowe township yards. He added that a thoro search of the big repair yards would be made in the belief that "we might uncover other victims."

Dr. P. R. Helmbold, coroner's physician, said the bodies had been dissected by some one with a "knowledge of surgery" or a butcher. The bodies, he said, apparently were cut up with a butcher knife.

Heads of All Missing.

Heads of the victims were missing, but the arms and legs were found near the torsos. All were nude and there were no clews to the identities of the victims. Estimates of the time of the deaths ranged from six weeks ago to two months ago.

A car inspector for the railroad discovered the bodies in a routine check of the cars, assigned to the yards for repair or for dismantling.

DOCTOR IS HELD AFTER WIFE IS SHOT TO DEATH

Spokane, Wash., May 3 (AP).—Prosecutor Carl Quackenbush tonight ordered Dr. R. A. Hahn, 74 years old, a physician-sportsman who once entertained Ralph Capone, held "until the investigation is completed" in the fatal shooting of the doctor's wife.

More than a dozen bullet holes were found in the walls and furniture of the room where blonde Mrs. Sylvia Hahn, 42, was found dead.

Mrs. Hahn was the physician's second wife. Her death ended 22 stormy years. Once she obtained a divorce. They were remarried a year later because their telephone bills were "too high."

Mrs. B. F. Fairless, Steel Chief's Wife, Goes to Reno

Reno, Nev., May 3 (AP).—Mrs. Blanche Fairless, wife of Benjamin F. Fairless of Pittsburgh and New York, president of the United States Steel corporation, was disclosed tonight to have been living here for about 10 days. She declined tonight to discuss the reason for her presence in Nevada. Her Reno attorney, H. W. Edwards, likewise, refused comment.

ROBBED OF GEMS AND FURS.

Mrs. Janet Rivkin, 23 years old, 1310 Lunt avenue, was robbed last night of a diamond ring valued at $650, a $550 silver fox fur coat, and a $250 wrist watch by bandits who forced their way into the auto driven by her husband, Irving, as they were leaving the home of Mrs. Rivkin's parents at 3239 Douglas boulevard.

MISS DOROTHY WOOFTER.

Stockton, Cal., May 3 (AP).—A youth and his girl companion, their throats cut and their arms and legs trussed, were found dead in a field today.

Nathan Chinchiolo, 23 years old, member of a well known Stockton family, and Dorothy Woofter, 19, of nearby Tracy, disappeared Sunday. Parents reported their absence next day. Monday night the automobile in which they were last seen was found abandoned in Fresno, 100 miles away, with a bloodstain on the seat and a window broken.

Chinchiolo had been bound with a belt from the girl's coat and with strips of its lining. He had been gagged. Miss Woofer's hands were tied behind her back.

Dr. Orrin Fry, autopsy surgeon, said death was caused by the throat wounds.

POLICE CAPTAIN FACING RACKET QUIZ ENDS LIFE

New York, May 3 (AP).—Police Captain Max Finkelstein, 56 years old, today killed himself after Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine received information that he might have been connected with a Brooklyn bail bond racket.

Sheldon Seckler, a neighbor of Finkelstein's who rushed into the apartment when he heard the shot, told police Finkelstein's widow, Dora, was bending over her husband, screaming, "O, he was too honest!"

Finkelstein was the 94th suicide in the police department since Valentine became commissioner in 1934.

He filed his application yesterday for retirement at an annual pension of $2,500 and Valentine issued orders relieving him of his command.

Two hours later the commissioner countermanded the orders after John Harlan Amen, special assistant attorney general, informed him he had evidence involving Finkelstein in the bail bond case.

SALE OF U. S. JOBS DENIED ON STAND BY CONGRESSMAN

But Whelchel Admits He Acted Indiscreetly.

Gainesville, Ga., May 3 [Special].—Congressman B. Frank Whelchel took the witness stand in federal court here today in his own defense and emphatically denied the government's charges that he accepted money in exchange for postal job appointments.

"Did you at any time enter into any agreement or conspiracy to buy or sell your influence to secure appointment of any person at any time?" Defense Lawyer Alonzo G. Wheeler asked Whelchel.

"No," the congressman replied.

Congressman Whelchel, who is accused in two indictments of accepting a total of $2,700 in connection with recommendations for postal appointments for three persons, admitted he may have committed "an indiscretion" but asserted he had no intention of violating the law.

Witness Turns to Judge.

He made the statement near the close of his two hours of testimony. After cross-examination by District Attorney Lawrence Camp, the congressman turned to Judge E. Marvin Underwood and said:

"Judge, I would like to make just one more statement. What I would like to state to the court and jury is this: It may be an indiscretion on my part, the fact that these appointments were made about the time I received contributions."

When District Attorney Camp objected to Whelchel "making an argument to the jury," the judge instructed the congressman to "just state the facts."

Contributions, He Contends.

Then, Whelchel added: "All right, sir, that is what I am getting to. I have not sold a route or post office. I would not if I could and if I had I would have gone about it differently, gentlemen, and that is the truth of this matter."

The congressman explained that all the $2,700 which the government alleges he received unlawfully was in the form of "campaign contributions."

H. Grady Jones, commissioner of Pickens county, accused as a "go-between" in the postal appointments and being tried jointly with the congressman, preceded Whelchel on the stand.

PLEADS GUILTY, TURNS WITNESS AT FRAUD TRIAL

One of the 13 defendants charged with using the mails to defraud in the sale of cemetery lots, at Twinsburg, O., changed his plea from not guilty to guilty yesterday and testified for the government. He is Harry Lambert, New York City, a former salesman for the First Commonwealth Trustees of Chicago.

Lambert told the jury in the court of Federal Judge John P. Barnes that he joined the organization in 1936. He said he was instructed by Michael D. Gordon, of Cleveland, O., and Robert Stickney of Boston, two of the defendants, to tell prospective customers the lots they purchased would be resold within two years at twice what they paid.

A. Bradley Eben, assistant district attorney, asked him if he believed this. Lambert answered, "No."

LAST ST. CHARLES STRIKE VIOLENCE CASE DISMISSED

The final case growing out of violence that occurred during the strike at the St. Charles Manufacturing company at St. Charles early this year, was dismissed yesterday by Justice of the Peace Harold Olson of that city. Those freed are Walter Vander Pluyn and Louis Greviskes, who were strikers.

Both men were charged with assault upon Herman R. Stern, a loyal employé, who charged he was beaten by the two on the morning of Feb. 14, when he attempted to return to work. Stern did not appear yesterday and the charges were dismissed for want of prosecution.

The strike was settled on April 13, and apparently one condition of settlement was a withdrawal of all similar charges. A number of other cases have been dismissed in other courts.

HOURS: 9 A. M. TO 6 P. M.

FRANZ SCHUBERT'S

Symphony No. 8 in B Minor

THE UNFINISHED SYMPHONY

FRANZ SCHUBERT

A shy, retiring Viennese of the lower class—dogged throughout his short life by ill-health and pinching poverty—Franz Schubert achieved his first and only triumph just a few weeks before he died.

Before he was thirteen years old he had written music, but it was at that age that musical composition became his whole life—his one, all-embracing interest.

His glorious works will live as long as time endures—an imperishable monument to a great genius who sacrificed all for his art—a "master craftsman" of musical composition—a poet with an imagination that knew no bounds. That his works appeal to every type of listener is the acid test that assures his immortality.

"Weaver of Ravishing Melody . . . Father of Song . . ."

More than a century after the tragic death of the magnificent Schubert, his music furnished the romantic setting for one of the greatest musical shows ever to reach Broadway—the record-smashing Sigmund Romberg operetta "Blossom Time."

Out of the pain and suffering that overshadowed most of Franz Schubert's life came the hit song of the show—"You Are My Song of Love"—a haunting love refrain that has become a never-to-die classic among popular ballads.

But did you know that this captivating melody IS Schubert's Unfinished Symphony—the major theme of its First Movement? And that out of the great love of his life—doomed to dismal failure because he was so poor, nearsighted, homely of face and figure—came this Unfinished Symphony, best-loved of all his works? . . . The immortal Unfinished Symphony, a masterpiece unrivaled in its mighty surge of melody, into which Schubert poured all his own intense emotion and passionate exaltation.

Schubert, only twenty-one, spent a summer as music teacher in the home of the noble Count Esterhazy—and fell hopelessly in love with the beautiful younger daughter, Caroline, who rejected his proposal of marriage. To her laughing remark, "Why haven't you dedicated any of your songs to me?"—Schubert, grave, shy, ardent, replied: "All that I ever did is dedicated to you."

Not even Schubert himself had the golden opportunity that is now yours! For he never heard the Unfinished Symphony—NEVER. But this great offer enables YOU to hear it whenever and as often as you wish!

—THIS MORNING AT 9 A. M.!—

YOUR FIRST SYMPHONY IS WAITING FOR YOU!

You can come for, or send for, your first symphony TODAY, at Distribution Headquarters, located at 65 E. Lake St. or 14 N. Franklin St. At an incredibly small price—less than you would expect to pay for a single symphonic record, you can get an entire symphony, three double-faced, 12-inch records, six recordings in all, FRANZ SCHUBERT'S WONDERFUL SYMPHONY NO. 8 IN B MINOR. Here is a symphony that would ordinarily cost you from six to eight dollars. You can get it for a mere one dollar and sixty-nine cents. The reason you can have this valuable symphony at such an incredibly small cost is that the world's greatest orchestras and conductors waived their royalties and America's foremost music manufacturers minimized their customary profits in order that these symphonic masterpieces might be placed in the largest possible number of American homes.

The entire idea of this tremendous campaign for good music is to persuade you to open your heart to good music, to take these valuable records into your home at a tiny fraction of their real worth, to induce you to play them and, in playing them, to learn to love them.

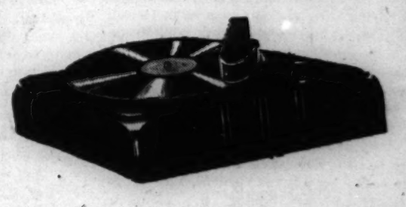

You have just as much right to love good music as anybody; your family has just as much right to thrill to the glorious enchantment, the brilliance, the joy and the inspiration of good music as any other family. The only requisite is that you hear the music often enough. The reason that these valuable records are priced so low is because the world's great orchestras, conductors, and music educators want to persuade you to give good music a fair chance. Take it into your home. Hear these records once, twice, a dozen times, a hundred times. Hear this music that has lived through the centuries. Hear it again and again, until it takes possession of you, until it wins its way into your heart and soul, forever to make your life brighter, more hopeful, more delightful than you have ever known before.

When you bring this wonderful music into your home you are adding more than music to your home. You are adding a brand-new, exciting, stimulating interest in life. The more you play this music the more you will find that it is developing in you yourself something that you have never known before. Of all the precious things that you acquire, here and now you have found the ultimate—the new, magnificent all-powerful, all-inspiring world of good music, a world that will grow ever and ever more important and more beautiful to you every day of your life.

DISTRIBUTION HEADQUARTERS NOW OPEN AT 65 E. LAKE ST. AND 14 N. FRANKLIN ST.

You can get these magnificent symphonies any time after 9 a. m. today, by coming to Distribution Headquarters at 65 E. Lake St. or 14 N. Franklin St. If you wish, you can send for your symphonies, or you can handle your request by mail. If you come to Distribution Headquarters you will hear the music, you will be able to share the thrill and glamour of this great campaign for good music; you will see hundreds of men, women and children, fellow music lovers, elated, thrilled and delighted with the knowledge that here, at last, the most beautiful of the cultural arts has found its rightful place! Come! Come and share the thrill of all music lovers! Get your first symphony on the first day of distribution . . . TODAY! Even if you stand in line, you, as a music lover, will be proud that this mighty movement for good music IS A GLORIOUS REALITY, SOMETHING THAT COULD HAPPEN ONLY IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA! The campaign is sponsored by the Chicago Committee for Music Appreciation, with the co-operation of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the Chicago Opera, the Ravinia Festival and the Chicago Women's Orchestral Association. Similar programs have met with tremendous success in every city where they have been made available to the public.

An Electric RECORD PLAYER For Those Who Need It

Realizing that many families have no means of playing records, an electric record-playing attachment has been provided by the manufacturers at bare cost of production. This record-player, attached to your radio enables you to play all sizes of records through the loud-speaker of your radio. The attachment is completely electric, needs no winding and operates on AC current. No similar instrument has ever been offered before at so small a cost.

THIS IS HOW YOU GET YOUR RECORDS

1. Come for, or send for, your symphonies at MUSIC APPRECIATION DISTRIBUTION HEADQUARTERS, 65 East Lake Street and 14 North Franklin Street, any time after Saturday, May 4th, at 9 a. m. The office will be open each day thereafter from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Requests by mail will be filled in order of receipt.

2. At regularly weekly intervals, on Saturday of each week, each of the 12 symphonies or symphonic masterpieces will be released. The first symphony, Franz Schubert's Symphony No. 8 in B Minor, will be ready for distribution on Saturday, May 4th. Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 in C Minor will follow on Saturday, May 11; Tschaikowsky's Nutcracker Suite on Saturday, May 18, etc., until all of the educational masterpieces provided in the campaign have been made available to the public. Notice of release date of each symphony will be printed in the public press.

3. You receive each symphony, which consists of either three or four double-faced 12-inch records for a total payment of $1.69. THIS IS NOT FOR EACH RECORD but for the COMPLETE SYMPHONY, all three or four records, six or eight sides which comprise each symphony. The two symphonies which consist of five records (ten sides) require a payment of $2.18 for the entire symphony of all five records. The Cesar Franck D Minor Symphony, on account of its length, is divided into two units, each unit consisting of three double-faced 12-inch records, and the cost of each unit is the same as for any other three-record group. A quantity of de luxe records, known as Philharmonic Transcriptions, and inclosed in record albums designed for each particular symphony, is available at a slightly higher price. These are the first pressings from the same masters enclosed in albums and featuring a portrait of the composer on the label of each record. There is little, if any, difference in playing quality. Sales tax should be added to the foregoing prices.

4. An electric Record-Player attachment, which enables these records to be played through the loud speaker of an average radio, is available for those who require a means of playing records, and is available with your first or any succeeding symphonic unit. The player can be obtained for $4.75. A more elaborate instrument, the Symphonic De Luxe Model, inclosed in a walnut-finished case, is available at a higher price. If you wish delivery of your symphonies by mail, add 25 cents for shipping charges for each symphony. Add 50 cents for shipping charges if you wish a Record-Player shipped to you. Sales tax should be added to price quoted above.

5. Every effort will be made to supply as many symphonies as are required. In order to avoid disappointment and to enable us to have a sufficient supply on hand, please fill in and mail the Reservation Form. It does not obligate you in any way.

THE BRIDGES CONSPIRACY.

Harry Bridges, the ruler of the Pacific coast longshoremen, an alien described in official reports in the files of the department of labor as a communist, was saved from deportation by Secretary Perkins. The immigration officials on the west coast recommended that he be sent out of the country because his communist views and tactics made him ineligible for continued residence here.

Gerald D. Reilly, solicitor for the labor department, went to the west coast to investigate the activities and character of the man who was tying up the American mercantile marine and in February, 1938, reported to senate investigators of the subversive activities affecting this shipping that Bridges was a communist revolutionary. The committee also heard from Mme. Perkins, who said she knew many of the longshoremen and that very few of them were even touched with communist ideas. She wouldn't give an opinion as to Bridges then because she said an investigation was being made and was not yet complete. Meanwhile the deportation order was held up in her office.

Finally, under pressure and threat of impeachment, Mme. Perkins commissioned Dean Landis of the Harvard law school to go west and conduct an examination of Bridges. The evidence of a frameup was complete when the dean as a one-man finding board reported back what the secretary wanted to know. It was that, altho Bridges was a man of radical ideas and of great energy in putting them into practice, he couldn't be called a communist. Proof of that, said the dean, was lacking. With this report on her desk, the secretary of labor had what she needed. She canceled the deportation order.

Bridges, the Australian, had been successful in doing what an enemy fleet would have been unable to do. He had for long periods blockaded the entire Pacific coast and kept American ships tied up at their docks. Now, Edmund M. Toland, counsel for the Smith committee investigating the National Labor Relations board, has procured from its files another reason for cancelation of the deportation order and the protection of Bridges. This document is a letter from Bridges to Edwin S. Smith, a member of the labor board, written in January, 1938, when the immigration authorities were trying to send him back home. Therein it is revealed that he and Smith were working in coöperation in the administration of the national labor act and that he was being consulted on the choice of a regional director, both in San Francisco and in Honolulu. Bridges said there had been dissatisfaction with the San Francisco office of the board and that in Honolulu a stronger man was needed.

Smith, replying to the complaints and suggestions, said: "I agree with you as to the importance of having the right sort of man in Hawaii and the board has this very much in mind. I am sorry to hear what you have to say about the dissatisfaction with the San Francisco office. I had hoped that the personal difficulties which seemed to have arisen there had been straightened out. If you ever get to Washington I should be glad to talk these matters over with you."

Bridges was the man Mme. Perkins wanted on the water front. He was the man the labor board wanted there and, by framing up a favorable investigation of him, his fellow travelers in the New Deal were able to protect him and keep him on the job where they wanted him. The defense of his privilege, as an alien, to continue as a ruler of the Pacific coast was conducted in a conspiracy involving a number of persons of high position who used him to promote their own activities against American enterprise.

It will be remembered that Mr. Madden, chairman of the labor board, defended the seizure of automobile plants by Mr. Bridges' C. I. O. associates in control of the automobile workers by saying that these violations of law were not serious; that they constituted merely civil trespass and were not to be regarded as at all grave when compared with employer resistance of the labor law.

The administration of the labor act has been a conspiracy with communism and lawlessness from the start.

AS MUSSOLINI LOOKS THEM OVER.

Benito Mussolini was reported in high animal spirits and great good humor when he received the American ambassador, William Phillips, to discuss, presumably, war and peace. Mussolini has as many people guessing as Mr. Roosevelt. If he is in high spirits he sees something good which is hidden from the ordinary sight.

The average guesser would say that whatever happens Mussolini will not like it and that it is his predicament not to be able to do anything about it. If he preserves the bellicose neutrality, or neutral militancy, or unneutral noncombatancy, or whatever he calls it, Hitler may or may not win without him. If Hitler should win, with or without his Italian friend, that friend becomes unimportant to him. Mussolini is not needed as an ally in any such world as Hitler then would dominate. Italy would be put under German influence.

Good faith is not a Hitler characteristic. It wouldn't do Mussolini any particular good to fight for Hitler if Hitler won, and it would be his doom if Hitler lost. And if Il Duce remains neutral, and France and Great Britain win, it will do him no good to have been neutral. They will not need be considerate of him if Hitler has been overthrown. Great Britain probably would take Ethiopia away from him. France would put other crimps in him in North Africa.

Mussolini is a big fellow when other rulers are in trouble. His importance vanishes when a victor has been determined. Old scores can then be settled with him. Even Hitler has an old score. It will be paid off for the Tyrol. Mussolini is smart, but his trouble is that from his springboard he can see nowhere to light with any certainty.

A LOBBY TO SAVE LIVES.

A group of professional airplane pilots went to Washington the other day to protest against the presidential order which would consolidate the air safety board with the Civil Aeronautics authority and place the combination within the department of commerce. The pilots believe that the safety board cannot do a better job after the reorganization than is being done today; the record of more than a year of commercial airplane operation without a fatal injury bears them out.

Mr. Roosevelt was annoyed at the opposition of the pilots. He called them "well intentioned people" and spoke of a "flood of misinformation." The well intentioned people, the President said, refer to themselves as a lobby to save lives, as if that were not also the administration's purpose.

The fact that a dozen American army pilots were killed after Mr. Roosevelt impulsively ordered them to fly the mails in fighter planes, ill-adapted to the postal service, might lead any one to wonder whether the President's interest in life-saving is as great as he says it is. At any rate, the commercial pilots are certainly justified in feeling that whatever Mr. Roosevelt's interest in the subject may be, it cannot be as great as theirs. Mr. Roosevelt seldom flies; the commercial pilots are in the air every day.

It is not often that men who are subject to government regulation are found vigorously defending the wisdom and capacity of the regulators. It is not often that a government bureau is freely credited by an industry with one of its most distinguished achievements. The air safety board is an exception to the rule. The pilots' association, which speaks for almost all the commercial flyers in the country, is completely satisfied with the air safety board as it exists and is genuinely alarmed over the possible consequences of the President's order.

The money which may be saved by the reorganization is negligible. The ordinary citizen is left to wonder why this bureau, of all the hundreds of bureaus in Washington, is among the first to be disturbed.

One explanation has been offered by a number of commentators. The air safety board as it is now constituted is charged with investigating accidents with a view to discovering their circumstances and causes. The board then recommends to the Civil Aeronautics authority regulations intended to eliminate the dangers thus disclosed. The Civil Aeronautics authority, however, makes the rules and enforces them.

This division of duties has worked extraordinarily well and it provides a precedent for a division of duties in other administrative agencies like the labor board. The Smith committee, it will be remembered, proposed that the investigation of complaints of unfair labor practices be entrusted to an independent official and that the labor board then hear the evidence in the cases which he believed had merit. The New Dealers have fought this suggestion and others like it, but have been embarrassed in their opposition by the knowledge that the somewhat similar division of function between the air safety board and the Civil Aeronautics authority has achieved admirable results in eliminating accidents. There is therefore considerable ground for the suspicion that Mr. Roosevelt's proposed reorganization of the two agencies is intended less to save lives than to relieve him of an embarrassing precedent which he cannot explain away.

Congress, in creating the air safety board, was seeking to prevent the burocrats charged with making and enforcing the safety rules from investigating their own shortcomings as rule makers and rule enforcers. The old system worked badly. Altogether too many accidents, as Senator McCarran has said, were attributed to the pilots who were dead and could not defend themselves. Progress toward safety of air travel was slow. Evidently Mr. Roosevelt wishes to revert to something like the old system despite its proved failure and the proved success of the system which he wishes to scrap.

GEORGE CRAIG STEWART.

His church and the larger community which he served will long remember George Craig Stewart, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago. He was a distinguished preacher and a vigorous, devoted, and determined leader. As is well known, St. Luke's in Evanston became, during his 25 year ministry, the largest Episcopal parish in the west if not in the nation. His direction of the diocese was equally fruitful.

He was consecrated bishop in November, 1930, at a moment which was anything but auspicious. The country was already suffering the economic effects of the depression which was to continue thruout the remainder of Bishop Stewart's life. He saw with great clarity that the economic decline might lead to a spiritual and moral decay whose results in the long run would prove infinitely costly. He, therefore, devoted all his great energy to sustaining the morale of his people, strengthening them with his courage, and heartening them with his faith.

Bishop Stewart did not spare himself. A severe heart attack several years ago had given unmistakable warning that he must withdraw from many of his accustomed activities if he expected to live out a normal span. He made his choice deliberately and died gallantly—a true soldier of the Cross.

THE SOLUTION.

"Sad about the disappearance of Prof. Hill," said James, polishing his brassie. "He was a profound thinker."

"Yes—always thinking, no matter where he was," replied another club man. "Fancy, the last time I saw him we were bathing, and he suddenly called out, 'I'm thinking! I'm thinking!'"

IN THE BENNETT LIBRARY.

Many of the 7,000 books in the James O'Donnell Bennett library, which was dedicated last Wednesday, contain imprints of his personality. Colleagues and successors of the able and studious journalist, browsing among the shelves in this quiet room on the 23d floor of the Tribune Tower, will find evidence of the manner in which he made these books peculiarly his own.

On the inside of the covers one often observes notes, lightly pencilled and easily erasable—for Bennett was meticulously neat—on points of bibliographic interest. Newspaper clippings related to the text, and letters that supply footnote material—these also may be found in abundance.

We were glancing over a row of titles with "Ted" Payne, a contemporary of Bennett's, still in active service and a copy of "Die Schoenste Lengevitch" caught our eye. We mentioned this collection of comic verse in German-American jargon as an outgrowth of contributions to the Line O' Type column in B. L. T.'s period, but "Ted" Payne needed no explanation.

"Kurt Stein used to be a neighbor of mine," he said. "I remember sending Bennett a letter about his book when it was published. That was 20 years ago or more."

Then we opened "Die Schoenste Lengevitch"—and there, tucked inside the cover, was Payne's letter to Bennett!

* * *

Draft for an inscription in a book, to be given to a colleague, written in Bennett's last illness:

"This modest volume, with grateful remembrance of 37 years of unclouded friendship. In our querulous craft, that is pretty nearly a record. I cherish it, and all it implies of good understanding and good comradeship."

MAN IN A KITCHEN.

If I were cook—ah, me, this kitchen's king!
What culinary marvels would I bring
To set before this household; what fine fare
To take the place of parsnips and ensnare
The children's appetites; away I'd fling
This clutter of cold hashes. I'd put swing
No chops would burn or steaks be served too rare
If I were cook.

I'll give them duckling, lobster, capon's wing:
I'll not be tied to any apron string! . . .
What's that, my love? Of course I do not care
If we have hash again. I could not bear
To waste good food—I'd do the very thing
If I were cook.

More News About the German Ocean.

I note that it is news to the Associated Press and Chicago cable editors [May 1] when maps in Berlin call the North sea the German ocean. If you will refer to the Ptolemy atlas of 120 A. D. you will find that this body of water is marked "Germanicus Oceanus" and the English channel is marked "Britannicus Oceanus." There are several copies of 16th century reproductions in the Newberry library.

Then if you will refer to "Isolario di Benedetto Bordone," a book of maps published in Venice in 1537, you will find this body of water marked "Mare de Germania."

All the mapmakers of the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries [Blaeu, Speed, Ortelius, DeWit, etc.] refer to this as the German sea or ocean, and this was the proper name until the English and a few of the continental mapmakers of the 18th century began calling it the North sea. I think that the earliest reference I have among my own maps to the North sea is on a map of the north polar regions, published in 1752 [Bowen]. Altcheff.

TRAGEDY IN THE BACK YARD.

(In California families trying to keep up with the Joneses can buy swimming pools on the instalment plan.)

O father dear, come out and see
What they have done today.
We missed an easy payment and
They took our pool away.

This morning bright and early
Before we went to school,
A big rough man came to the house
And took away our pool.

Mamma cried and pleaded,
"What will the neighbors say?"
The man drove up his truck and
They took our pool away.

So father dear, come out and see
What you can do today
To start a sunken garden where

A Few Remarks on Slang.

"Bung-full of," meaning filled almost to capacity, is an expression that many slangy Britishers use in novels. [See P. G. Wodehouse.] We have vague memories of hearing our elders use this expression when we were very young. But it has apparently dropped out of American speech. This generation is more familiar with the contents of bottles than of barrels.

Jugs are also passing out of American life. No more do we hear rugged individualists exclaim, "Not by a jugful!" and "Thrown into the jug" has been replaced by a more vulgar expression.

RHEUMATIC FEVER MAY INJURE THE HEART.

MANY of our youngsters seem to sense—instinctively—how to take care of themselves. Not only do they refrain from exposure to dampness but they know when to put on and take off overcoats, wear rubbers, or gargle. This group rarely, if ever, suffers from tonsillitis, a running nose, or repeated ordeals with colds.

But the lad who is always bringing home from school or the playground some infection, who is too heedless to think of coat and cap—will require the most painstaking supervision. Why? Because rheumatic fever—the exact cause of which we do not know—may be encountered with but little warning. It is so devastating—so likely to be attended with complications—that one of our chief jobs is to shun it. Not only may it be responsible for a prolonged and painful illness but it may leave behind an impaired heart.

The problem then is one of prevention, for—with precautions—it can be avoided. What can we do to ward off such an ailment? In the first place, good nutrition and reasonably well ventilated living quarters will help. In the humblest households—where attention is paid to the problem of health—we may find but relatively few cases. It is not the oriental rug that counts. It is the fact that the floor is dry and clean and not littered with dust and débris that spells the difference between well being and disease. The richest carpet may harbor millions of organisms if it is not swept.

The thing we call resistance is fostered by plenty of soap and water used about the house. Unclean dishes and the existence of vermin cannot fail to lead to food contamination, hence undernourishment. The edibles are not at fault—it is the insanitary way in which they are handled and served.

Rheumatic fever is no respecter of persons or of years. It can appear in early childhood or at any period thruout life. More attacks occur, however, between the ages of 12 and 15 than at any other single interval. This means that after Junior has passed his 8th or 9th birthday he must be guarded especially well against infection. The unfortunate part of it is that while the patient may survive and escape all the bad consequences of a first seizure, another may be experienced within a few months and—this time—damage the pumping structure beyond repair. A severe cold or a sore throat may constitute the starter.

Scarcely any part of the body is immune—the brain, the joints, the glandular system—even the kidneys and lungs may become involved. But the heart is the favorite site of trouble. An otherwise normal child may emerge from one of these episodes with a sound organ. Nevertheless we must look upon the malady as a rattlesnake—likely to strike with the slightest provocation.

In the presence of a siege we must assume that the rheumatic poison is widespread thruout the system even tho but one or two joints are affected with no signs of real trouble. But when there is fever and pain on movement—if the victim is kept quiet, in bed, with ample quantities of liquid nourishment—more often than not the cardiac apparatus will escape injury, at least to any appreciable degree. Even those who are most pessimistic about the outcome are obliged to grant that recovery is entirely possible without wear and tear on the muscle or the valves. But rest must be insisted upon just as long as the disease is active or even smoldering. If the "engine" is made to work overtime, if activity adds to its load, some deterioration must ensue.

Assuming that the fever has passed and an excellent convalescence has been made—in order to steer clear of a second bout—every possible nest of bacteria should be removed. This means that bad tonsils, including all tags, should be rooted out and good hygiene of the mouth be practiced religiously. Sunshine is a great healer and—with an ultraviolet lamp or Old Sol himself—physiques will grow strong and develop a generous amount of resistance.

While bed rest is important, it must not be persisted in forever. Gradual additions to activity may be advised until the patient is up and about playing with his companions. Much has been said about violent exercise and—certainly for a year—this should be restricted. Furthermore, an afternoon nap of an hour—after returning from school—will help restore used up reserve.

INFECTIONS OF HAIR FOLLICLES.

H. A. F. writes: What causes boils? Are sties on the eyelids caused by the same thing?

REPLY.

COAL MINERS.

N. B. writes: Is silicosis prevalent among coal miners?

REPLY.

No. Quite another condition—which is relatively harmless—is common—anthracosis. Inhaled particles of carbon [coal] are not dangerous.

VITAMIN DEFICIENCY.

B. T. writes: How can a physician tell if a vitamin deficiency exists?

REPLY.

From the patient's symptoms and behavior including careful study of the diet. Certain blood tests are helpful.

OUR INFERIORITY COMPLEX.

Chicago, May 1.—You seem to have resumed with renewed fervor your violent tirades against England. It is all so futile. You should realize the prevalence in America of an inferiority complex with respect to the English. The louder and rowdier the anti-British protests, the more obvious is the inferiority.

Of course, with that quality of sportsmanship which you generally display, you would kick John Bull when he is temporarily down. It must be the "fighting Irish" in you.

Don't worry about the British losing American good will because of recent trade practices. Britishers know that American good will can always be won or rewon at a price. Even Stalin and Hitler would be eligible for American favor if they could lay the dough on the line. American principles, like their munitions and planes, are on a straight cash-and-carry basis.

By all means keep your pencil nibblers on the prowl, and give the humor-lacking Englishmen a laugh—they haven't had a real one since Balfour scuttled the American navy a few years back.

UNION JACK.

SAYS AMERICA IS SAFE.

Forest Park, Ill., May 1.—What if Hitler does win the war?

England, a few hundred miles from Germany, the possessor of the world's largest navy, cannot land a single soldier in Germany, in spite of the fact that most of Germany's soldiers are on the western front.

Then how in heaven's name could a country a few thousand miles away land a large army in America?

Or let me put it this way: If Germany, France, England, and Italy were united could the United States of America land an army in Europe?

Then why not forget the armies of Europe and turn our attention to the American army of unemployed?

CHICAGO LOTS AND TAXES.

Chicago, April 29.—On April 24 last there was an article in THE TRIBUNE saying that the original owner whose lot is sold for taxes and special assessments has the right to redeem the same within two years by paying back to the auction-buyer the price he paid plus 6 per cent interest, with all the past taxes and special assessments wiped out.

If this is true, then why pay taxes on idle vacant property?

Here is my case—a true example: I bought a lot in 1925, and since that time I have paid over $900 in taxes and special assessments.

The owner of the adjoining lot did not pay anything since 10 years and he probably owes about $2,000.

Now all he has to do is to wait until his lot is sold for taxes and special assessments, then buy it back from the auction-buyer probably for $25, plus $1 or $2 interest, and he has his lot back with all his past taxes and assessments wiped out.

Well, if there is a more cock-eyed law than that I did not hear of it.

INTERESTING IF TRUE.

Chicago, April 30.—People raise a holler about the young boys asking for money to watch your car. Take a drive out to the Municipal airport some Sunday and try parking in the airport parking lot. Then you'll find out how the Chicago police work it. We drove out there Sunday evening and were getting out of the car when a policeman came up and asked for a cigar. I innocently said I had none and his reply was, "You've got cigar money, haven't you?" I watched him and he did the same to others. A nice racket, I must say.

R. B. M.

FROM A YOUNG PHILATELIST.

Chicago, April 28.—I take this opportunity to have my say about Mr. Farley's recent output of commemorative postal issues. I am 16 years of age and an enthusiastic collector of United States stamps. In addition to canceled issues, I started to collect plate number blocks of four. Here's where the kick comes in.

Two or three years ago, by Farley's order, I believe, no plate was to be issued except with the purchase of a half sheet or more. For a while I contended with it, but as my allowance extended only to a certain point I soon was run ragged, having a large accumulation of stamps on my hands that I couldn't use up in a dog's age. Then came the recent Famous Americans issue, the denominations of which run to 10 cents or 40 cents a block of four.

Not only are there too many issues put out in rapid succession but they almost become a disgrace to put in one's album. They slap out any design, plain borders, any old printing, and poor choice of coloring. An example of this may be seen by comparing the recent 2 cent scarlet red Famous Americans of the Scientist series to any stamp issued in 1902-'03. The 1902-'03 stamps are the fruits of masters in the art of etching and engraving plates. Honestly, don't you think that if at that time we could get men to engrave stamps so beautiful, so enticing, we could get them now?

BRITISH PLOT SUSPECTED.

Niles Center, Ill., April 30.—The false empty promises of England, her lack of strategy, her sluggish inefficiency is beginning to be obvious. REAL ESTATE TRANSACTION.

New York, April 26.—In the interest of awakening opposition to certain types of business dealings of real estate operators in Chicago, I write these facts: My late sister undertook to buy a lot; she paid $2,000 cash on it, and now the real estate people demand over $600 more or all will be lost. The lot is assessed at $280, according to tax bills. The firm doing this continues to solicit buyers of similar lots at the same prices. How widespread is this sort of business, and what can a mere citizen do to be protected in such a situation as the above?

PAULINE MACMILLAN.

CHANGE OF HEART.

Chicago, April 29.—For 20 years the politicians have played ball with Mike Carrozzo. Now that they have heard the government is on his tail they suddenly decide they don't like him and will not give in to his demands. It's too bad we haven't a Tom Dewey here in Chicago for district attorney. We need a thoro cleaning here and I don't mean the alleys either.

RIGHT TO INHERIT.

Streator, Ill., May 2 [Legal Friend of the People].—About 1903-'04 my mother [1] turned over about $5,000 worth of property to my eldest brother, who forthwith married a widow with two or three children. My brother died without leaving a will about 20 or 25 years ago. The widow has had the use of the property since.

2. The estate is now about to be divided among the persons named in the newspaper slip I am sending you.

3. Do myself and sister come in on this, or are we out? J. P.

1. If the property belonged to your mother, she had power to make a gift to one of the children and, in effect, disinherit the others. You do not indicate whether this was her intent.

2. You do not make clear whether you are talking about your mother's estate or your brother's estate.

3. We advise you to go over the facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

JOINT ACCOUNTS.

Chicago, May 3 [Legal Friend of the People].—An aunt of mine recently passed away, leaving a small estate, and I was named executrix. For several years I had assisted in handling her affairs and she had made her bank account joint with me.

We never thought to discuss the matter as to whether I was to have the cash left in [1] the joint account or [2] whether it was to be considered a part of her estate.

I have had the account changed to my name alone, but [3] have I a legal right to claim this as mine?

4. An officer of one of the large loop banks told me the law gave it to me.

5. That even if it were left in her will to some one else, which it was not, I would have first claim.

6. That this was not only a bank law but a government law.

Will you kindly let me know [7] if I would be within my legal rights to keep the bank balance, or [8] should I include this cash when declaring inventory of the estate in the Probate court? L. M.

1. If you mean that you were one of the joint parties on the account, then the money would go to you as survivor, and it was not necessary to have discussed it with her.

2. Joint assets are not a part of her estate.

Peter Minuit, first governor of New Netherlands, landed on Manhattan Island. During the following summer he called Indian chiefs into council and bought the entire island for merchandise valued at about $24. Later he was removed from his post for his liberality to traders, and entered the Swedish service, helping to found a Scandinavian settlement near the site of Wilmington, Del. In the same year, 1638, he set out on a voyage to the West Indies, but his ship was lost in a storm near St. Christopher.

BISHOP STEWART FUNERAL RITES WILL BE MONDAY

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Funeral services for Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago will be conducted at 11 a. m. Monday in St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston. The celebrant of the requiem eucharist will be Suffragan Bishop Edwin J. Randall, assisted by visiting prelates. Arrangements for the services were made yesterday by the executive committee of the diocese.

Bishop Stewart died of a heart attack Thursday night while en route to a service in the Church of the Incarnation, 102d street and Parnell avenue. He survived a previous attack two years ago in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., which occurred prior to entering a pulpit to preach.

His body was taken last evening to the procathedral, where it will lie in state until Monday's requiem. A service of vespers of the dead has been announced for 4:30 p. m. by the Very Rev. Gerald G. Moore, dean of the procathedral.

Procathedral His Monument.

The body will be interred temporarily in a vault in Rosehill cemetery. Later it will be placed beneath the high altar of the procathedral.

St. Luke's procathedral, where a continuous guard of honor will stand watch until the funeral, is a monument to the bishop who built it. The church is one of the most beautiful in the country. Bishop Stewart, who has been head of the diocese since 1930, spent his preceding 25 years in building up the congregation of St. Luke's church to one of the largest in the country and directing the construction of the edifice a unit at a time. The tower is virtually the only unit not yet erected.

Few clergymen were more widely known than Bishop Stewart. He was held in esteem by all as an organizer and an administrator, and he stood out in any gathering as a classical scholar and master of language. At the Lambeth conference of Anglican bishops of the world in London a decade ago he achieved instant recognition.

Spoke People's Language.

Bishop Stewart could write and speak the people's language. In 1928 he was THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE correspondent in Washington, D. C., during the general convention of the Episcopal church.

During the earlier days of the phenomenal growth of St. Luke's church, under his rectorship, Dr. Stewart was approached by a large financial concern with an offer of a high executive position. He promptly refused, preferring to remain in the church.

A careful student of finance, Bishop Stewart carried the diocese thru financial crises. Altho knowing big money he chose the humble penny to aid in crises. Under his plan, now nationally known as the Bishop's pence, nearly $150,000 has been raised a penny at a time.

OBITUARIES

Martin P. Meehan.

Martin P. Meehan, west coast merchandise manager for Sears Roebuck & Co., died yesterday in Ravenswood hospital. He became ill six weeks ago while on a business trip here. His home was in Glendale, Cal. Mr. Meehan, who was born in Chicago, was 45 years old. He was educated at the University of Notre Dame and was a member of its 1913 freshman football team. His widow, the former Miss Viola Bacci of Chicago, three daughters, two brothers, and a sister survive. The funeral will be held at St. Gregory's church, Paulina and Gregory streets, at 8:30 a. m. Monday. Burial will be in Los Angeles, Cal.

Dr. Alexander R. McDonald.

Dr. Alexander R. McDonald, a practicing physician in Chicago since 1897, died yesterday in the West Suburban hospital. He was 78 years old and had continued in active practice until Tuesday. He was a member of the faculty of the Homeopathic college and was dean of students and professor of psychology in its successor, the Hahnemann Medical college. He also lectured on the theory and practice of medicine. Dr. McDonald leaves two sisters. His wife, Mary, died last Feb. 20. The funeral will be held at 10 a. m. Monday from St. Thomas Aquinas church. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Frederick J. Haynes.

Detroit, Mich., May 3 (AP).—Frederick J. Haynes, 69 years old, prominent in the automobile industry, died today. He was treasurer of the Automobile Manufacturers association. Haynes was not related to the famed Elwood Haynes, Indiana motor car pioneer, but he was noted in his own right as one of the developers of the Dodge Brothers company. He was president of the company when it was purchased by Dillon, Read and company and later headed the Durant Motors, Inc.

Emil H. Pfaffiin.

Emil H. Pfaffiin, 78 years old, a retired division engineer for the Milwaukee railroad, died yesterday in his home at 7140 Eggleston avenue. The widow, Laura, and two sons and a daughter survive. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Monday in the Augsburg Lutheran church, 73d street and Wabash avenue. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery.

A. B. Funk.

Des Moines, Ia., May 3 (AP).—A. B. Funk, 86 years old, political figure in Iowa for half a century and state industrial commissioner from 1916 to 1937, died here today of a heart attack. He was born Jan. 12, 1854, in Adams County, Illinois. At one time he published a newspaper in Flandreau, S. D. He was the first mayor of that town.

HURRICANE HITS THE AIR WAVES; IT'S TALLULAH

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Tallulah Bankhead has 10 radios. But she rarely gets to listen to them. During the hours when many of radio's favorites are on the air Tallulah is on the stage of the Selwyn theater starring in "The Little Foxes." Or she may be on the air herself, as she was last night as guest on W-G-N's Fifth Row Center program.

Tallulah portrayed a young wife whose tempestuous marriage almost landed on the rocks but was saved before it was too late. The play was called "Hurricane," a descriptive term for Tallulah.

Scores With Audience.

The audience liked Miss Bankhead. She thinks, says, and does what she pleases. Last night she appeared in blue slacks.

Miss Bankhead has contributed considerably to uproar in theatrical circles on two continents since the early 1920s. When she was 16 years old she entered her photograph in a beauty contest, without giving her name. It was printed among the winners with the caption, "Who Is She?" Her father, William B. Bankhead, now speaker of the United States house of representatives, identified the portrait. Amidst the ensuing publicity she was swept to New York City and into the midst of the show world.

Makes a Hit in London.

As an actress she got only minor rôles at first, but she contributed to the brightness of many a swanky supper party. Then came an offer from Sir Gerald Du Maurier, actor-producer, to bring her to London to be his leading lady. On the day of her sailing he changed his mind. She ignored his cablegram, sailed, got the part, and scored a success. Then came seven years of solid fame as an actress in London and as an international celebrity.

In 1930 she returned to America and headed for Hollywood, where she drew much attention with her frank talk and sometimes frantic behavior. In 1933 she returned to New York. Since then she has starred in "Forsaking All Others," "Dark Victory," "Rain," and "Reflected Glory," among other notable plays.

W-G-N TO SALUTE ARMY AT SECOND SYMPHONIC HOUR

The second of W-G-N's new Symphonic hours will be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual system from 9 to 10 o'clock tomorrow night with a salute to the army as a special feature. Six hundred guests from the United States army, the Illinois National Guard, and the National Army Reserve are to be the guests in the studio. The Symphonic hour is sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the 6th corps area, is to be a speaker. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the TRIBUNE, will take part in a special feature in salute to the 1st division of the American Expeditionary forces which this summer will observe its 23d anniversary.

Marion Claire will be the soloist. The augmented W-G-N orchestra and chorus will be under the direction of Henry Weber. William A. Bacher, who produced "Bittersweet" for the Chicago Theater of the Air last Thursday, will be in charge of direction and production.

H. G. BARKHAUSEN ESTATE TAXES EXCEED $700,000

A report filed in Probate court yesterday disclosed that after payment of taxes and claims amounting to more than a million dollars the balance in the estate of Henry G. Barkhausen, ship builder and investment counselor, totals only $4,172. Barkhausen, however, was believed to have distributed a $3,000,000 fortune to his family before his death in December, 1936.

The report listed total receipts of the estate at $1,097,386. Disbursements amounted to $1,093,214, including $716,980 for income and state and federal inheritance taxes. It was learned that inheritance taxes were levied on assets given by Barkhausen to his family during his lifetime.

Barkhausen's will bequeathed the bulk of his estate to his widow in trust. Upon her death the income and ultimately the principal, will go to their three children. The children are Mrs. Andre Perry of Fond du Lac, Wis., and Catherine and Henry Barkhausen Jr., who live with their mother at 1430 Lake Shore drive.

REPORT NEW YORK TELEVISION SHOW SEEN IN CHICAGO

The Chicago office of the National Broadcasting company yesterday announced a new American record for long distance television reception. Images flashed from station W2XBS, atop the Empire State building in New York City, were picked up at the NBC office here, 717 air miles distant, on Thursday night.

"After a few moments of unrecognizable patterns on the receiver screen," the broadcasting company said, "the image cleared. The sound portion of the program was very good, but the image gradually faded. Both sound and image completely disappeared after 16 minutes altho the program continued in New York for 11 more minutes."

Widow Wills $25,700 to Old People's Masonic Home

Mrs. Emma Jane Hughes, who died last Jan. 9, bequeathed $25,700 the Old People's Masonic home at Sullivan in Moultrie county, it was disclosed yesterday when her will was admitted to probate by John F. Keeley, assistant to the probate judge. The will made bequests totaling $36,300 to 10 relatives and friends and left the residue of her $62,000 estate to the home.

Veteran Aurora Official Electrocutes Self in Tub

Myron J. Tarble, 67 years old, retired collector of special assessments in Aurora, ended his life yesterday in his home at 124 Gladstone avenue in the suburb. His body was found in a bathtub full of water. He had electrocuted himself by grasping exposed electric wires while seated in the water, then turning on the current.

Box Committee for Opera Sells 46 in 3 Weeks

Champagne punch was one of the rewards the members of the box committee of the Chicago Opera company received yesterday for their splendid work in having disposed of 46 boxes since the work of obtaining subscriptions was started about three weeks ago. Chauncey McCormick, chairman of the board of directors, supplied the punch for the meeting at the McCormick apartment in Lake View avenue.

Among those who have been added to boxholders since last week's meeting are Mayor and Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mrs. Walter Cummings, Mrs. James R. Offield, Nathan Goldblatt, Harry I. Hoffman, Mrs. Belin H. Voorhees, John D. Allen, Arch Shaw and Col. Robert R. McCormick, who has taken two boxes for the army and navy. He already had taken a box for his own use. It is probable that the officers will attend the Tuesday performances in full dress uniforms, so the Tuesday audiences will be gala ones.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WEDNESDAY, July 3, has been set as the date for the debut of Miss Harriet Bermingham, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Bermingham of Lake Forest. The bud will be presented to friends of her parents and her maternal grandparents, Judge and Mrs. George A. Carpenter, at a tea at the Bermingham home in North Mayflower road. That night there will a dinner-dance at her home for young people.

Miss Bermingham comes from an old and distinguished Chicago family on her mother's side. Mrs. Bermingham was Miss Katherine Carpenter before she was married during the world war to the dashing young naval officer whose home was then in New York. Miss Bermingham was graduated from Miss Hall's school at Pittsfield, Mass., last June and has been studying in New York this last winter. She has three brothers, Edward Jr., George, and John. The two older ones are in Yale, where Edward is a junior and George a sophomore. John will be going to Yale in another year.

May Go East Together for Wedding Anniversary.

Judge and Mrs. Carpenter will celebrate their 47th wedding anniversary next Friday. Mrs. Carpenter must be at Mount Vernon on Thursday for the annual meeting of the Mount Vernon Ladies' association. Her husband is thinking of accompanying her east so that they can spend the 10th together. Mrs. Carpenter is the Illinois vice regent of the association.

Mrs. William K. Kenly, who is going to present to society her granddaughter, Miss Mary Ann Wyman, next season, left yesterday for her summer home at Manchester, Mass. Miss Wyman, who has been with her grandmother for several weeks at the Fortnightly club, is staying on for another week with Mrs. Edward W. Pardridge of 209 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Kenly and Miss Wyman spent the winter in Tucson, where Miss Wyman studied at the University of Arizona.

Miss Wyman will enter Smith college in the autumn, having finished at the Ethel Walker school in Simsbury, Conn., last June. Mrs. Kenly will give a tea for her granddaughter on Thanksgiving day at the Fortnightly, and a supper-dance at the Casino club on Dec. 23.

Miss Heath Horton's Engagement Announced.

Interesting romantic news is contained in the announcement Mr. and Mrs. George Terry Horton of Woodlawn avenue are making today of the engagement of their daughter, Heath, to Charles Cyrus Bunker Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cyrus Bunker of 1200 Lake Shore drive.

Miss Horton, who is one of the most popular young women in the University of Chicago Colony club circles, is a graduate of the Faulkner school and of Sarah Lawrence, where she finished in 1937. Mr. Bunker was graduated from Dartmouth in 1934.

Another interesting engagement announcement was made on Thursday in New York by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Francis Dillingham of Honolulu. It was that their daughter, Elizabeth Louise, is to be married to Myron Arms Wick Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Wick of Cleveland.

Miss Dillingham, who always is called Betty Lou, was graduated from the Foxcroft school and now is attending Sarah Lawrence. Mr. Wick is a graduate of St. Mark's, Harvard university, and of the Harvard business school.

Mrs. Dillingham and Mrs. Wick both are former Chicagoans. The former was Miss Louise Gaylord; the latter Miss Lillian Schuttler.

Joseph L. Valentines to Give Dance Tonight.

The Joseph L. Valentines are giving a small dinner-dance at the Casino tonight for their younger son's fiancée, Miss Olivia Osborne of Auburn, N. Y., who is here for a visit with Joseph W. Valentine and his parents. A number of young married people who are friends of the elder Valentine son, John, and his wife, also have been invited to the party. The John Valentines are arriving today from Bedford, N. Y., for a visit.

Miss Osborne is returning east on Monday. She and Mr. Valentine will be married on June 29 in Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Garfield King [Kay Sawyer Goodman] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Sheila, yesterday at Passavant hospital. The baby is the Kings' first child, and a great-granddaughter of Mrs. William O. Goodman. Mrs. James M. Hopkins and the Charles Garfield Kings are the baby's grandparents.

Crowd to Attend Arts Club Dinner for Dr. Stock.

There will be no guests at the Arts club dinner for Dr. Frederick A. Stock tomorrow night, but even so there will be as large a crowd as can be accommodated in the attractive dining rooms of the club in the South Wrigley building. Following dinner Mme. Claire Dux [Mrs. Charles H. Swift], the philharmonic string quartet, and a chamber orchestra will give a program of compositions by Dr. Stock. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, president, is entertaining at dinner for Dr. Stock, Mme. Dux, and the other musicians.

Among others who have made reservations to attend the party, one of the most notable the club ever has given, are Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Arthur G. Cable, Mrs. Frederic Woodward, Mrs. Vernon Herbst, Mrs. Frank Fuller, Mrs. Otho S. Ball, Mrs. Clarence McCarthy, Miss Mary Anderson, the Wentworth Park Mackenzies, William Darrow, the Bowman C. Lingles, Mrs. Belin H. Voorhees, Mrs. Rudolph Ganz, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, Mrs. Henry Voegeli, Mrs. James H. Mitchell, Mrs. George Mason, Mrs. Alden Boyer, Mrs. George Jaeger, the William A. Raglands, the Ambrose C. Cramers, and Mrs. Townsend McKeever.

The club has cards out for the opening of the annual exhibition by the professional artist members of the club on Sunday, May 12. There will be a tea from 4:30 until 7:30 o'clock.

Observations of a Boy Scout.

When a Boy Scout tries for promotion to first class he must make a 14 mile hike and turn in a report of his observations. The following is such a report, as received by Scoutmaster Robert Mehren:

"We started on the hike at 10:00 o'clock in the morning, when we met Gilbert Tucker and his friend on a corner they were saying yay boy scouts. Then we started walking along the railroad tracks and then we met a milk man delivering milk to a house and we stopped and bought some milk because we were dry. Then we started walking when we went in a store to by some candy. We started hiking along the road until Joseph Francisco said how much more do we have to go. Gordon said about 3 more miles. Joseph said Oh! gee. When we were walking along I picked up a six jewel watch and showed it to the fellows. They said you lucky bum. Then we came into Highland Park where we met one of the scout leaders who always sings and leads songs. We asked him to sing us a song he said some other time. Then he said to the assistant scout master, training them on a 14 mile hike huh, and the assistant scoutmaster said yep. Then we started to cross a bridge when Gordon said lets see who can spit in the ravine. It was about 80 feet from the bridge. Gordon missed and tried again and missed and I tried and missed by a foot. Joseph tried and missed by a long shot. When we missed the gate to Fort Sheridan and the guard said you have to have a passport. He said the other gate is way around the corner. Then we started and when we reached it we made our fire across the street. When we had our fire going Joseph put his pork and beans on the fire. When we finished eating we packed and started home. We were walking down the tracks when we stepped aside to let a train go by. When we reached Hubbard Woods and I went home. I told my dad that I was as tired as a horse 150 years old.

Poise.

An example of poise was given by the young stranger who was dining at the same table with Marie Lemster-Wells on a streamline train. The train went around a curve and Miss Wells found her open mouth about one inch from her neighbor's piece of pie, on his fork.

"Mind if I feed you my pie?" he asked quietly.

Good Morning!

"Dr. Cyclops" was directed by Ernest B. Schoedsack who turned out those masterpieces, "Chang" and "Grass." . . . Unlike the latter two, which dealt in stark realities, the "Cyclops" piece is a child of the imagination, all decked out in technicolor and speaking through the mouths of mechanical props and trick photography.

The tale told is of a weird biologist who, with the aid of radioactivity, which he pumps up from radio mines away over in darkest something or other, is able to reduce humans and animals to less than one-fifth their natural size. . . . This gentleman is mad—and when a group of people discover this fact and attempt to do something about it he practices his black magic on them. . . . Heavens, what a time THEY have for themselves before the ingenuity of one of them results in old Doc Thorkel's decease!

The film ends on a gently humorout note. . . . "Nobody," says one of the characters, "would believe us if we were to tell what happened to us, so we'd better keep still. . . ."

Settings are eerie and exquisitely photographed and the acting is excellent. I especially liked Janice Logan as crisp, fearless young Dr. Mar Mitchell.

As fantasy "Dr. Cyclops" has class. It has suspense and laughs, too.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Portrait of an Actor.

Youngstown, O., May 3.—Wherever we have gone, and certainly we have covered a lot of miles in five weeks, you see the "Dr. Kildare" flickers advertised. . . . Prominently billed on theater marquees appears the name of Lionel Barrymore. . . . This piece is about the veteran because offhand I can think of no more typical performer around whom to fashion the portrait of an actor. . . . From the time that he was born to the famous name of the theater, Lionel was destined to be a performer. . . . He tells that the family name was a handicap rather than a help because it imposed obligations that a theatrical novice was not prepared to discharge.

"A bad young actor is frightful enough," he chuckles, "but just imagine the field day critics had when the bad young actor was named Barrymore. It was years of stock company performances before I got to Broadway because they kept comparing me to the family and I fell short, of course." . . . Yet it was that long seasoning in stock companies and one-night stands that developed his talent. . . . When he arrived on the "big time," he was not a novice, but he never dreamed that years later an undreamed of medium, the movies, would give him the Academy award for a performance in "The Free Soul."

Thirty-five years ago, on Christmas day of 1905, Lionel appeared for the first time on a stage with Sister Ethel and Brother John, in Barrie's "Pantaloon." . . . After that, two years after, he appeared with John in "Peter Ibbetson," but the three of them never appeared together again until they made the picture "Rasputin and the Empress" at M. G. M. a few years ago, a picture that resulted in a costly suit for libel filed against Metro in England by a Russian princess who didn't relish the Rasputin innuendo.

The last time I interviewed Lionel, young Tyrone Power was on the M. G. M. lot for luncheon, and the veteran was moved to recollection: "His father, Tyrone Power, gave one of the greatest performances I've ever seen as the drain man in 'Servant in the House.' He was a fine actor, a very fine actor." . . . I asked him to name some of the greatest stage performances he'd ever seen. . . . He named Henry Irving in "The Bells" and as Louis XI.; Joseph Jefferson's "Rip Van Winkle" and "Lend Me Five Shillings"; Beerbohm Tree's Svengali, Mrs. John Drew's Mrs. Malaprop. . . . He named his father, Maurice Barrymore, for his portrayal of "Captain Swift," and added: "and James A. Herne in anything he ever did."

His long picture career he sums up as "From Griffith to Capra." "Griffith's 'Birth of a Nation' started it all," says Barrymore. "In fact he started the whole technique of pictures. He will always stand as the greatest of all, and nobody in any art ever did so much for it." Today Frank Capra stands as his yardstick of direction. "Capra's pictures are the best today—he gets more out of everything," remarks Barrymore. "Of course, there are many other fine directors—they have to be fine to keep their necks above water. When you see 'Gone with the Wind,' which was directed by Victor Fleming, you realize that."

Discussing directors, Barrymore touched on Harold S. Bucque, who directed him in the Kildare pictures and "On Borrowed Time." Theirs is an association dating back to when Barrymore himself directed pictures in 1930. "He's an outstanding director who's going a long way," predicts Barrymore. "As I look back at 'Madame X' and other successes as a director I recall that I labored under the delusion he was my assistant. I now often wonder, in the watches of the night, how much I directed of them and how much he did—and give it up and wind up reading a detective story."

Barrymore regards the fight between Tom Santschi and William Farnum in "The Spoilers" as the greatest individual picture scene in his memory. The best show towns, when he was on tour, he recalls as New York, Chicago, San Francisco, and he adds Dayton, Cleveland, Washington, D. C., "and any one of a thousand one night stands. Each of these had better audiences than New York, which after all is the aggregate of one night stand people. I only met one New Yorker and they had him in a glass case."

He opened as Milt Shanks in "The Copperhead" in 1918 at the Shubert, as Neri in "The Jest" at the Plymout in 1919, played Macbeth at the Apollo in 1921, and the same year opened at the Broadhurst in "The Claw." He opened "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" at the Belasco in 1923. Then Hollywood began to beckon. He had appeared in pictures between stage engagements since the early Griffith days. At one time he not only acted but wrote scenarios at $25 apiece. He made his debut in Hollywood at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in 1924 in "The Barrier," with Norman Kerry and Marceline Day.

Marry My Daughter

By Alice Duer Miller

(Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

Millicent's mother dreams of marrying her lovely daughter off to some one like Dick Shard, who is kind, distinguished and rich. Dick lives in New York, but had visited in Millicent Dunham's home in the midwest when her father worked for his firm. After her father died, Dick gave Mrs. Dunham a job and on her visit to New York he takes her to dinner and the theater with his friends, Constance and Aleck Stewart. After the theater Mrs. Dunham sees Dick about to be hit by a car and in an effort to save his life she is killed. While dying she makes Dick promise to marry Millicent. Tho Dick is in love with Constance, he is determined to keep his promise to Mrs. Dunham and goes to see Millicent and asks her to marry him. Dr. Ogden, an old friend of the Dunhams, advises Millicent to accept, which she does, because she is penniless and thinks he is in love with her, tho she knows she doesn't love him. After their marriage, on the train for New York, she realizes that Dick thinks she is a country girl and doesn't even like her. She cannot understand why he asked her to marry him. He confesses the promise he made to Mrs. Dunham as she was dying. He tells Millicent she can get a divorce and alimony if she wishes. Until she can decide just what she wants to do, he suggests she live with him in his New York apartment and that she will be free to do whatever she likes.

INSTALLMENT XII.
THE OTHER WOMAN.

There is a small, unadvertised restaurant in the East Forties, so far up town that a lady living in East 80th street need not cross the Grand Central traffic to reach it, and so near the 42d street subway that a Wall street man can be there in a few minutes.

Here on the day after his return, Shard was waiting for Constance. She was always a little late—as purposeful and competent about it as most people are remorseful and incompetent—no one ever kept Constance waiting. He knew she would be late now, altho he had told her that he hadn't much time to give to luncheon, and would be eager to hear the events of the last twenty-four hours.

He had long-distanced her from his hotel before he went to the church to be married. During his absences he had constantly written and telephoned her, but those telephone conversations had been carried on with the uncomfortable sense that they might be interesting both to the hotel operator and the local central.

When he had come back to New York after his engagement he had seen Constance constantly, but their relations had not been as untroubled as they usually were. In fact they had come nearer to a quarrel than ever before. He had been surprised—even a little shocked—at the violence of her suffering over the comments of her friends. He couldn't see what difference it made that people supposed she was losing a lover, when as a matter of fact she knew he had never been more devotedly her slave than at the moment of his apparent union with another girl.

"But they pity me, Dick," she had said, "they dare to pity me—they insult me and I can't say a word. Every woman to whom I have ever been rude—and it appears I've been rude to a good many—comes round to condole with me over your desertion, and to tell me in almost so many words that I couldn't expect to hold you much longer in competition with younger and more attractive women."

He laughed: "Wait till they see this poor child."

"You mean that she isn't pretty in spite of all that her mother told us?"

He had been waiting for that question: "Oh, she has a nice little face if she'd ever stop crying long enough to let you get a look at it."

"Don't tell me that your whirlwind courtship didn't even dry up her tears."

He didn't mind the edge to her voice—he rather enjoyed Constance when she was bitter and cruel—it was the other side of her strength and courage—he did not mind her being hard, but he hated her to be trivial, and he thought it trivial that she should care so much what people said. Obviously the one good feature of his marriage was that it would shut people's mouths as far as he and she were concerned—unless, of course, some one caught them lunching together the very day after his wedding.

Dick had suffered deeply from his knowledge that his friendship had made Constance the subject of gossip—he suffered partly because he knew it would hurt Aleck—his friend, but mostly because he felt it must be as intensely distasteful to Constance herself—he had even wondered in humbler moments whether his friendship—whether any friendship—could be worth so high a price. Now he began to see that she had never been annoyed by the gossip—or at least was much less annoyed by people who said that he was her lover than by those who now said he wasn't.

But all this was forgotten in his great desire to see her again. He had been wretched during his absence—ashamed of what he was doing—lonely at the hotel, and ashamed of being uncomfortable, for he had been brought up in the Spartan simplicity and did not want to believe he had become so dependent on his own cook and his own man servant. He had been bored—bored by the chatter of Rosie and her Jack, bored by the silences of Millicent and the tirade of Mrs. Ogden.

He had enjoyed Dr. John's conversation, and would like to have made him his friend, but it was difficult to make a friend of a man with whom he could not be candid, and besides, a busy doctor hadn't much leisure for an idle visitor. Constance had seemed to be the remedy for all this—if he could only get back to her—tell her everything that he had been feeling and doing, and hear all that she had done.

Presently the narrow door swung open, the head waiter sprang forward and Shard saw that she was approaching. To say that she was disguised would be the grossest injustice, but her dress was so inconspicuous, and the collar of her coat so high that only a very clever observer would have guessed that this was the beautiful and fashionable Mrs. Stewart, whose photographs were so often in the papers.

A long experience of her taste at luncheon had enabled Shard to order for her—there was no excuse for the head waiter to linger beside their table. Shard leaned back and looked at her: "How lovely you are," he said. "The truth is, I take no interest in anything in the world but you and my business, and when I'm separated from you both at the same time . . ."

She interrupted him: "Did you have difficulty in getting away from your bride for luncheon?"

"Difficulty? I've been downtown since 9 o'clock. I found that Sears' contract in an awful mess. I've been working with the lawyers all the morning."

"She thought that quite natural?"

For some reason the question annoyed him. "Natural? I really didn't know whether she did or not. Do you suppose I'm going to allow my regular life to be affected by what a girl of 20 thinks—a girl I hardly know. I haven't even seen her this morning."

"You haven't? Why, what will your servants think?"

"What they like. As a matter of fact she was still asleep. She had a hard day yesterday—it was terribly rough on the plane and she was sick."

"They're terrible."

"They must be out of the ordinary if you noticed them."

"Can't something be done?"

"You're not suggesting that I take her on a shopping tour?"

If he had such a thought he abandoned it, and said instead that what he had in mind was a good maid—so good that she could actually buy Millicent's clothes for her—or with her. After a little thought Constance remembered the right person—a woman now a widow who had once been her own maid, and was going home to France the following summer. In the meantime she might be glad of a job—she had perfect taste. "Only I warn you,' she said, "Lucille is entirely devoted to me. I shall have a spy in your household."

"You're not trying to say that anything is likely to happen in my household that I shan't want you to know."

"I'm just warning you . . . ."

She smiled at him, admitting the warning was not needed. All the old warmth and intimacy returned. The waiter came with their food, and when he had gone Constance said: "And now tell me everything—just what you said to her and how she took it and what's going to happen."

Miss Emerson and J. D. Vail Jr. to Wed Tonight

The marriage of Miss Barbara Emerson and J. Dean Vail Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Vail of Kenilworth, Ill., will take place at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the Presbyterian church in Highland Park, with the Rev. Louis Sherwin officiating. Arthur H. Emerson, the bride's father, will give a reception at the Exmoor Country club following the ceremony.

Miss Emerson will have Miss Katharine Johnston as maid of honor. Miss Jeanne Kuhl, Miss Ethel Bybee, Miss Francigene Sheridan, and Mrs. Nettleton Payne of Kansas City, will be bridesmaids, with Miss Carolyn Sherman, the bride's cousin, who lives in Providence, R. I.

James L. Alder of Wilmette will be best man. Sharing ushering duties will be Arthur H. Emerson Jr., Stoddard J. Small, George H. Pattison, Ives Waldo, Robert F. Webster, and Webster Sanford of Plainfield, N. J.

Miss Sally Hallberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence G. Hallberg of Evanston, will become the bride of George Owen Fairweather Jr. at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Emory Luccock in the First Methodist chapel in Evanston and will be followed by a reception at the Evanston Country club.

Mrs. Edward Benninghoven, the bridegroom's sister, and Miss Frances Glore will be the matron and maid of honor respectively.

Mr. Benninghoven will be best man for Mr. Fairweather, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fairweather of Barrington. Another brother-in-law, Robert Dilley of Pittsburgh, will serve as usher with Charles Rummell, Samuel Holmes, and Lee Shaw.

The marriage of Miss Frances Ellen Durr to Gordon Douglas Haverkampf, son of Mrs. John L. Haverkampf of Chicago, will take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth, with the Rev. Leland H. Danforth officiating. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Durr of Kenilworth.

Miss Durr, who will be given in marriage by her father, will have Miss Marion Johnson of Chicago as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Alice Leland, Miss Eleanor Hoadley, and Mrs. John L. Haverkampf III.

Mr. Haverkampf will be his brother's best man. Ushering will be Richard H. Durr, the bride's brother; Frederick D. Sauter, Willard K. Jaques, and Richard G. Schmid Jr.

Miss Elinor Irwin Coffin and John Robertson Whiteside are being married today at All Souls' Unitarian church in New York. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spaulding Coffin of New York, formerly of Winnetka. Mr. Whiteside is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson Whiteside of Champlain, N. Y., formerly of Highland Park.

The bride, who is wearing her mother's wedding gown, will be attended by her sister, Miss Rosamond Prescott Coffin. Gerritt Van Schaick is best man. The ushers are George A. Whiteside, Philip Tristram Coffin, Thomas Husband, and Dudley Hallet.

The marriage of Miss Clara Elizabeth Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Thompson of Danville, to Edward Marsh Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Johnston of Chicago and Coronado, Cal., will take place today. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Franklin Rall at 4 o'clock in the Howes chapel of Northwestern university. A reception will follow at the Georgian hotel.

The marriage of Miss Alyse Mae Vette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Engle Vette of 837 Ainslie street, to Charles Frederick Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Lewis, will take place at 5 o'clock today at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The ceremony will be followed by a small reception. Mr. Lewis and his bride will live in Dixon, Ill.

Miss Frances Lupe, daughter of Judge and Mrs. John J. Lupe, and Michael Mannebach Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Mannebach of Kenilworth, will be married at 10:30 o'clock this morning in Holy Name cathedral. A reception and breakfast will follow at the Congress hotel.

Miss Eleanor Christ will be her cousin's maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Majella Mannebach, the bridegroom's sister; Miss Sallie Major of South Bend, Ind.; Miss Ann Elizabeth Dandurant of St. Louis, Mo.; Miss Marjory Croft, and Mrs. Arthur L. Korzeneski. Frances J. Lupe, the bride's cousin, will be flower girl.

Joseph Mannebach will be his brother's best man. Ushering will be another brother, Edward Mannebach, Edward E. Wehmer of Cincinnati, O.; Victor Tarabilda, Herbert Thiess, Mr. Korzeneski, Victor Gionick, and Adam C. Bernardi.

Saturday, May 4.

This can be made a thoroly constructive day if we will avoid the temptation to be too emotional over our troubles. By far the majority of our vibrations are now positive, holding opportunity to make lasting progress if we will work at it.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead is very significant, if this is your natal date. Don't drift, plan and make all the effort you can, especially June 9-Oct. 31 and from Jan. 1. New things due. Danger: July 18-30; Nov. 29-Dec. 17; April 16-24, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Do you want an individual interpretation for your own personal date? Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth and address.

SCRAPS OF THIS AND THAT—Calorie counters who like beer, cocktails, and wines must take these liquors into consideration in counting out the day's ration. A tumbler of beer averages about 125 calories; a dry martini, 131 calories; a wine glass of sweet wine, 150 calories.

Here's a good one-dish sausage and sweet potato meal: Cook pork sausage links or sausage patties. Also cook several sweet potatoes until tender. Peel and slice them. Arrange half of them in the bottom of a greased casserole. Spread with a layer of canned applesauce, add the sausage links, and top with another layer of potatoes and sauce. Place in a fairly hot oven and bake until thoroly hot.

Grandma was right about sulphur 'n' molasses being a good spring tonic. Molasses is rich in iron. In fact, it is one of the best food sources of iron. So tonic yourself right up with molasses flavored desserts and milk drinks, if you have spring fever.

SOME GOOD LUNCHEON SANDWICHES: Thin, crisp, salted cucumber slices, lettuce, sliced green onion, peanut butter and mayonnaise, with white or whole wheat bread. . . . Tender young dandelion leaves, sliced radishes, mayonnaise. . . . Dandelion leaves or water cress with cream cheese. . . . Sliced shrimp marinated in French dressing, lettuce, mayonnaise, chopped onion or chives, chopped ripe olives and minced celery.

SALAD WITH WINE DRESSING: This is good! Rub a salad bowl lightly with a cut clove of garlic. Tear lettuce into the bowl. Add thinly sliced onion, radishes, cucumbers, diced avocado, and tomato. Sprinkle salad oil over the salad and toss lightly until the ingredients are coated with oil. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, then sprinkle with equal parts lemon juice and claret wine, using half as much of the mixture as oil. Toss lightly again and serve at once. For salad ingredients enough to serve four, these amounts of the dressing will suffice: ¼ cup oil, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-16 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon each of lemon juice and claret.

Miss Loring, the officers of the alumnæ association, and the faculty of the Loring school have issued invitations to the annual May tea today from 4 until 6 o'clock at 10650 Longwood drive.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

May 4, 1940.

Four is one of those numbers which carries with it the taste of bitter medicine. It may do you a lot of good but it isn't pleasant in the taking! This is the number of restriction if you want to put it that way, but without the discipline a 4 brings, we would not have any organization or order. Those with a 4 birthdate should always be in position where practical ability is most important. They can tabulate, systematize, and carry on routine duties necessary to a well ordered existence. They shine where accurate information or facts are necessary.

Those born on this date have a year of more freedom than they will have for some time so they should take advantage of this chance to get away from routine.

Tennis Dress for Summertime

MISS' ACTIVE SPORTS DRESS.

The weather may be problematical and unpredictable right now, but summer really is just around the corner. Your tennis games, golf sessions, and other outdoor sports life will demand a variety of tubbable costumes, and we suggest this tennis dress as ideal for your in-town games and your vacation trips.

Use any type of plain or figured cotton or linen for this frock with sturdy shoulders and neckline low in front and back. There's a self-fabric belt, or a leather one if you wish, buttons down the bodice front and more on the clever triangular pockets. The same pattern creates a jumper skirt with which you may wear a contrasting blouse, as shown in the sketch inset.

Style No. 2851 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material for sunback jumper; 1½ yards for blouse.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Lucky is the dealer who has been given such explicit information by the opponents' bidding that he has what amounts to a blueprint of their respective holdings. South, in today's hand, was able to plan his play on virtually a double-dummy basis, as tho he could see all 52 cards.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	2 diamonds	2 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass

West's vulnerable overcall was the sort of bid that never will get a bouquet from me. True, he had a seven card suit, but with this suit a minor and missing the three top honors, and with no great strength outside, I fail to see what West expected to gain by making any bid. Did he hope to reach game? Was he making a vulnerable "interference bid" against nonvulnerable opponents? The real answer, I imagine, is that West merely saw a "flock" of diamonds in his hand, and bid 'em!

South's jump to game, with only a four card trump suit and after only a single raise from his parther, was somewhat questionable, but not to be condemned considering his four-plus honor tricks and the solidity of his trump suit. North's redouble was based on the fact that his single raise had been sound as a bell.

West, feeling that his best chance to help defeat the redoubled contract was to get a spade ruff, opened the ace of spades and continued with the deuce. Dummy and East played low, and declarer's 10 held the second trick. Declarer now carefully considered the situation. West's vulnerable overcall at the two level obviously had been predicated on a long suit, probably seven cards. East was marked with long trumps for his penalty double, but certainly would not have doubled on nothing but trumps. He must have the club ace, as well.

At the third trick, declarer cashed the heart king, to draw what he felt sure was a singleton trump from West. He then led the spade king and, when West failed to ruff, the accuracy of declarer's diagnosis was partly revealed. Now the diamond ace was cashed, after which South's low diamond was carefully ruffed with the ace of hearts. East did the best he could by discarding his spade jack. The spade queen then was led and, when East ruffed, declarer shrewdly made him a present of the trick, discarding a losing club. [It would have done East no good to have refused to ruff the spade queen.] Now, East could make no return to defeat the contract. He properly exited with a trump. Declarer won, drew all the trumps, and cashed his two good diamonds for the fulfilling tricks.

Parker School May Queen and Maids Plant Lilac

Students at the Francis W. Parker school yesterday took part in the school's May day festivities. Miss Rosemary Hendry, 515 Grant place, was crowned May Queen, after which she and her maids, Miss Nancy Ashenhurst of 2256 Lincoln Park West and Miss Carol Jenkinson of 2130 Lincoln Park West, planted a lilac to commemorate the occasion. The parents' association held its annual benefit luncheon and bridge party yesterday too.

Now Gardener Can Be Stylish with Comfort

BY REA SEEGER.

Amateur or professional gardeners no longer go forth to battle with bugs, worms, and good earth in shapeless, gloomy outfits of odds and ends and funny hats. The annual wrestling match with spades, rakes, trowels, packets of seeds, dirt, and paragraphs of rules and regulatiohs is much easier since the designers have taken pity on the family and spectators by making picturesque, colorful, and practical garden clothes.

If you must have overalls, why not the denim beauties now ready, fancy affairs that pamper your long suffering knees with tricky quilted and padded trousers. All cold contact with clods and turf is banished, a four hour session of planting races by and there are no after-effects other than the backbone kinks.

With these delightful blue denims come a choice in gardening jackets . . . a smock also padded and quilted where it will do the most good and one of the best looking coolie coats we've ever seen, with a single capacious side pocket quilted and padded. This one lone pocket is big enough to hold a small shovel and all the other needed aids for spring seeding. Bright red braid plays the part of decorative eye appeal, bringing these working clothes out of the strictly utilitarian class. A wide sun shade hat in a slanting coolie style completes the outfit.

If you scorn pants, culottes, or the lowly overall no matter how dress parade they make them, spend your money for gardening dresses, simple but telling peasant style dresses of the same flattering faded blue denim. And again the designers ease the kneelers by quilting and padding a good wide section of the skirt. They cut and make this pad section long enough so that it extends well down over the knees. When you're thru digging the section folds back and either ties or snaps back to keep in line with the hem of the skirt itself. Red braid trims the dress as well as the overalls.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

When a delightful fragrance made its debut some time ago, we felt sure that its charm and distinction would build up a long list of loyal friends.

This fragrance, which is a blend that marks it as an aristocrat with a light air of sophistication, is now used to perfume a lovely English face powder. The texture of this powder is fine, and is typed as good for dry skins. It's light weight, smooth, and with clinging qualities that give the skin a velvety film that is always flattering. It comes in three shades, a deep peach, an English peach, which is the blonde's color, and a medium rachel.

If you like your beauty aids scented in the same fragrance, you can get, in addition to the perfume and toilet water, an excellent dusting powder. Both powders are boxed in attractive containers in tones of ivory, decorated with a center motif in the form of a red honey bee, and banded with golden scrolls.

To help you enjoy this distinctive fragrance, you can get a small bottle of the toilet water and a box of face powder in a combination package.

Child Returns the Interest Shown in Him

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Speaking from a man's point of view I want to say that I enjoy your news about children as well as the views of others. I have a boy 6½ years of age, and your column has proved very helpful.

"I endeavor not to treat my boy just as a child, but as a personality, and it has brought wonderful results. He respects, loves, and obeys better. I try not to expect too much from him. My wife said something to me over four years ago which has deeply impressed me and which I never have forgotten. I was reprimanding him severely when my wife said, 'Why, what do you expect? He has only the mind of a 2 year old.' I've never forgotten that. When he does things he shouldn't I keep thinking that he has only the mind of a 6 year old and treat the disobedience accordingly.

"We believe in not spanking him, and we get better results. We have spanked him, but he resented it and then we felt badly about it. He is the kind that must be treated some other way. We'll talk to him about his wrong doing and then he'll come to us and say he is sorry and won't do it any more."

What a satisfactory father this must be for the little son! And incidentally, what a satisfactory husband to be so open minded.

Treating a child in this way makes him a much more interesting young person. I have once or twice made the statement that, after a few minutes spent with a child, I often can tell whether his parents are really interested in him as a person, give him freely of their time and thought, do things with him or for him that enrich his mind and spirit, and whether they truly respect him.

There are intangible good things that happen to a child when his parents feel this way toward him.

Voter Leagues to Ask Parties for 2 Reforms

BY BETTY BROWNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 3 [Special].—The National League of Women Voters closed its biennial convention here today by adopting two platform planks which will be placed before the Republican and Democratic national conventions this summer.

The planks ask selection of qualified personnel in government service and scientific tariff making to stimulate international trade. By adopting them, said Miss Marguerite M. Wells of Minneapolis, Minn., president, the league is committed to bringing the planks before the conventions, getting them into the platforms, and reminding the parties that they are there forever after.

Announcement of Miss Wells' reelection for a fourth term as president was made today. Mrs. Walter T. Fisher of Winnetka, Ill., was reelected treasurer.

In a final five hour business session the convention added abolition of the poll tax to the league's program. Mrs. Carl Stafford, president of the Tennessee league, told delegates that the tax is the means of disenfranchising hundreds of thousands of voters and that only federal legislation can blast it from the frozen state constitutions. League leaders from a number of northern and western states also assailed the tax.

Following a spirited debate, federal aid to education was disapproved. Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde of Chicago called this type of aid putting the cart before the horse, and emphasized the need for budget control and administrative reform within the states.

KENTUCKY DERBY TODAY: NINE NAMED TO RUN

SAMMY ANGOTT BEATS DAVEY DAY; WINS N. B. A. TITLE

LOUISVILLE STAR TAKES CLOSE 15 ROUND BOUT

8,000 See Pre-Derby Ring Show.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 3.—Sammy Angott of Louisville tonight won recognition by the National Boxing association as lightweight champion of the world by swinging a 15 round decision over Chicago's Davey Day, who was graduated from Golden Gloves in 1931.

The verdict was so close that Referee Jack Dempsey said only two points separated the two fighters on his scorecard. Dempsey alone had the responsibility of deciding the winner. His tabulations showed 76 points for Angott and 74 for Day.

Only 8,000 See Show.

The bout drew less than 8,000 customers to the Jefferson county armory and receipts were estimated at $15,000. Each contestant was guaranteed $3,000 with an option of 30 per cent of the net gate.

This was their third meeting and the second time Angott came out of the ring with a hairline decision.

Angott won the match by his aggressiveness in the early rounds. The contest was half over before Day warmed up to his work. He appeared to be gaining strength as the bout progressed, but Angott put on a whirlwind finish that undoubtedly influenced Dempsey's judgment. Sammy unquestionably was the stronger at the finish.

Day weighed 134 pounds at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Angott came in at 134½.

Angott Leads at Start.

Angott did pratically all the fighting in the opening round. He scored repeatedly with left hooks to the body and jaw. Day landed a right cross to the chin in the middle of the round, but it slowed the Louisville boy only for a moment. Day was satisfied to tie up his opponent in the clinches, occasionally landing a counter punch without damage.

In the second round Angott landed a left hook to Davey's body and brought it up to the jaw with the most effective attack up to that point. The Chicago boy shook his head, but apparently was in no distress. Angott began to shoot straight lefts to Day's face in the third and several times followed with rights to the side of the head. Day tripped over his own feet as Angott scored with a light left hook and sprawled to the canvas near his own corner, but was unhurt and bounced up at the count of one.

Davey Gets a Warning.

Day managed to count with two or three rights to the head in the fourth, but during most of the round he was retreating under Angott's punishing body attack. Sammy slipped to the floor, but was up before the timekeeper could count one and Referee Dempsey warned Davey for hitting Angott while the Louisville boy was offering to shake hands.

Angott was dumped to the seat of his pants by a half push and half punch toward the end of the sixth round. He was up immediately and was so full of fight he didn't want to quit at the bell.

The tempo was faster in the seventh. Day peppered Angott's body with flurries of rights and lefts, but his advantage was nullified by the Kentuckian's left hook which sent the Chicagoan reeling half way across the ring, where he bounced into the ropes. Day came back with a two fisted attack to his opponent's head. It was the Chicagoan's best round.

The Ninth Is Fast.

The eighth round produced little action, but Angott was a fire ball in the ninth. He punched Day from one side of the ring to the other, but his blows lacked the steam to floor the lanky Chicagoan. Angott connected with a one-two assault to Day's chin at the start of the tenth that forced his opponent to clinch. He followed with three lightning lefts to Davey's head. Day replied with two lefts and a right to the body, but caught a sound wallop in the solar plexus in return.

Day was the aggressor throughout the eleventh. He snapped back Angott's head with a sharp right and poured punches into his opponent's midsection. The Louisville fighter appeared a little weary as he went back to his corner. There was more wrestling than boxing in the twelfth, but Day managed to score one damaging punch, a right to the head near the end of the round.

There were no important developments in the 14th. Day's left jabs were offset by Sammy's blows to the body. Angott shot home a hard overhand right to Day's jaw in the 15th and landed two short uppercuts to Davey's chin. Day, bleeding from the nose, lost no opportunity to clinch. Both, however, were blazing away at the bell.

IT'S A GREAT DAY FOR KENTUCKY AND THE NATION

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

E. R. Bradley's Bimelech, 2-5 favorite in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs today, proved his right to the ranking yesterday in his last warmup for the race. He went three furlongs in :36 1/5 and pulled up at the half mile in :49 3/5. Predictions of fair and warmer weather indicate perfect racing conditions for the nine horse field.

Long Hits by Yankees Rout White Sox, 8-4

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 3.—Lefty Edgar Smith, twice earlier this season victim of helpless offensive support, for a long time this afternoon carried alone the Sox defense and offense against the Yankees. But it was too much for one little man, even a good little man, and in the end the White Sox had taken another licking, 8 to 4.

After Smith had gone away both sides broke loose for big farewell innings—but it didn't mean a thing to the oft-thwarted Mr. Smith. With two out in the eighth Clint Brown was clipped for a single by Red Rolfe and successive homers by George Selkirk and Charley Keller. And with two out in the Sox ninth the slaphappy Chicagoans, thoroly spanked, became suddenly resentful. A walk to Larry Rosenthal was followed by Bob Kennedy's single, Joe Kuhel's No. 4 homer, and hits by Mike Kreevich and Taft Wright. The game ended with Kreevich and Wright on bases, a new experience for them in the game.

Smith Scores Own Run.

Winning pitcher over Mr. Dykes' frustrated little band today was Marvin Breuer. It was Marvin's first major league victory. He had a soft time of it up till the belated point where the Sox got tough after the show was over.

Smith, in two earlier games, both of which he lost to Bob Feller and the Cleveland Indians, never had seen the Sox make a 1940 run in his behalf. He still wouldn't have had that experience if he personally hadn't scored Chicago's only run prior to that flurry in the ninth.

In the first seven innings the Sox made only that run of Smith's, and it was possible because of Rookie Kennedy's single and a double error in the outfield. In the first seven innings the Sox made four hits, one of them a single by Smith after which he scored, and another a double by Smith.

Theory Doesn't Work.

Having gone thru this third 1940 span of futility in his behalf, Smith finally became discouraged in the home seventh. He pitched a triple to Joe Gordon, which cleared loaded bases. After that the aforesaid playfulness in the Yankee eighth and the Sox ninth was strictly anticlimax.

There was something wrong about the standard left handed theory in the Yankees' first inning, for Crosetti, a right handed hitter, struck out, but Rolfe, a left handed hitter, socked his No. 3 homer into the right field stands. Selkirk, also a left handed hitter, singled to center and took second on a passed ball. Keller, also a left handed hitter, was called out on strikes, then Rosar apparently had one tagged for a double to left. Kennedy, however, knocked down the

MANN KNOCKED OUT IN SEVENTH BY BUDDY BAER

New York, May 3 [Special].—Buddy Baer knocked out Nathan Mann of New Haven, Conn., in Madison Square Garden tonight. Listed for 12 rounds, the fight was a dull, uninspiring struggle until the seventh round when Baer twice sent Mann to the canvas for counts of nine. After Mann arose from the second knockdown he traded a few desultory punches with his huge foe, and then indicated to Referee Arthur Donovan that he had had enough.

With Mann's sudden decision to quit, Donovan was forced to declare Baer the winner by a knockout, in 1 minute and 36 seconds of the seventh round.

The strange ending was hardly to the liking of the slim gathering of 5,154, for they were preponderantly sympathetic to the New Haven fighter all thru the bout. And well they might have been, for it was Mann who did what little fighting occured until the sudden seventh round turnabout. Baer weighed 249, Mann 188.

In the Wake of the News

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3.—Kentuckians tonight sipped a collective mint julep and went to bed waiting the morrow with confidence and lively anticipation. . . . They are certain that the 66th running of the famous Kentucky Derby will bring victory to a Kentucky owned horse for the first time since 1933. . . . The quickest way to start an argument in Louisville tonight was to venture a prediction that any horse in the race had a chance to match strides with E. R. Bradley's Bimelech. . . . Brokers Tip, also from the Bradley stable, was the last Kentucky owned horse to win America's most historic racing event. . . . In addition to Brokers Tip Bradley's horses came home in front in 1921, 1926, and 1932. . . . Their names were Behave Yourself, Bubbling Over, and Burgoo King. . . . If Bimelech goes to the post at 2 to 5 as expected you will have to go back to the 1880's to find a horse so heavily backed by a Derby crowd. . . . Hindoo won in 1881 at 3 to 10. . . . Himyar ran at 1 to 4 in 1878 and finished second to Day Star. . . . Before the turn of the century, as they say in Sardis, Miss., there were quite a few 1 to 2 and 1 to 3 shots, including Ben Brush, Halma, and Chant. . . . There have been only three odds-on favorites since Old Rosebud's victory in 1914. . . . These were Johnstown, last year's winner; Twenty Grand, and Brevity. . . . The longest shot to win the Derby was Donnerail, which paid off at 91 to 1 in 1913. . . . The largest field was 22 in 1928 when Mrs. John D. Hertz's Reigh Count was the winner. . . . The smallest was three in 1892 and 1905. . . .

Fans who visit Louisville during Derby week-end play many interesting games which may be enjoyed by young and old. . . . One of them was played under this department's hotel window at 2 o'clock this morning. . . . The rules are so simple they can be understood by all. . . . Each side has three players—a hog caller, a fight announcer, and a tobacco auctioneer. . . . Each player in turn takes his stand on the curbstone and enunciates the words "wahoo" distinctly. . . . Points are scored on a basis of emphasis, resonance and clarity of expression. . . . Players wishing to introduce variety into the game are permitted to change "wahoo" to "yippee." . . . The temperature today was in the upper forties. . . . The prediction for tomorrow is fair and warmer. . . . Reporters who have been covering the race for years are unable to recall a Derby week-end as cold as this one. . . . Gals who had expected to show off their newest spring finery huddled under the stands today in fur coats, fur jackets, fur neckpieces and fur hats. . . .

Breakfast and luncheon reservation lists in the Churchill Downs clubhouse for tomorrow include many prominent Chicagoans, among them Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Judge J. F. O'Connell, Warren Wright, State Secretary Edward J. Hughes, State Treasurer Edward Barrett, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, Benjamin Lindheimer, chairman of the Washington Park Jockey club board and new partner in Arlington Park; Stuyvesant Peabody, a stockholder in the American Turf association; George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, and Charles Bidwill, owner of the Chicago Cardinals. . . . Andy Frain will have 400 ushers to handle the Derby reserved seat patrons. . . . Even a hot tip which brought rich rewards couldn't warm up Elmer Layden, Notre Dame football coach, who was hopping from one foot to the other to keep from freezing. . . . Tom Harmon, Michigan half back, who knows something about running himself, came down to see what Bimelech could teach him. . . . Irene Dunne of the flickers, who is several columns ahead of Bimelech in Louisville's public prints, will sing "My Old Kentucky Home" before the first race tomorrow. . . . She warmed up to her task at Bardstown, Ky., this morning,

Louisville, Ky., May 3.—Bimelech, Edward R. Bradley's dark bay colt which runs fast and far and gracefully, went out from quiet Idle Hour farm last week to undertake the conquest of the American turf. He goes to the post tomorrow in the $82,000 Kentucky Derby, possibly against eight, probably against seven, rivals. At the end of the 66th running of this picturesque event, his friends will know whether there is basis for their belief that he is the greatest horse since Man O' War.

The Derby throng which has been gathering for the last few days in Louisville will converge on Churchill Downs tomorrow with a single question in mind. In other years they asked "Who'll win the Derby," but this time they say "Who can beat Bimelech?"

Suspect One May Not Start.

They scan the list of Bimelech's rivals and they see the names: Dit, Roman, Mioland, Sirocco, Pictor, Gallahadion, Royal Man, and True Star. These names were filed this morning with Racing Secretary William H. Shelly. Tho the owners have until 45 minutes before post time to withdraw, it is generally believed that all except True Star will go to the post. The weather continued cold and cloudy today, the official temperature being in the low forties, but the forecast held out some hope of improvement. Fair and warmer was predicted.

The track has improved considerably during the last 24 hours and if no further rain falls the running strip will be in good shape tomorrow. There seems no likelihood, however, that Twenty Grand's Derby record of 2:01 4-5 will be endangered because clockers describe the probable conditions as "fast but dull."

Purse Sets a Record.

The biggest prize in Derby history will be at stake tomorrow, for the added money has been raised from $50,000 to $75,000 this season. Together with nomination and starting fees, the event will gross $82,675. If all nine entries go to the post, the winner's share will be $60,675. For each horse scratched the last named figure will be reduced by $500.

Matt J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs, expects a normal Derby crowd in the neighborhood of 80,000, but some observers think that adverse weather conditions thruout the middle west will hold the attendance to approximately 75,000.

It's an Old, Old Story.

Louisville has been enlivened for the last 24 hours with the usual rumors of dire misfortune to the favorite. They've even told that one about his injuring himself in the stall. The next one to come up should be the one about soaking his ankles in tubs of water all night to relieve inflammation.

Unless one of these catastrophes actually should occur [as indeed it has in the past], Bimelech will go to the post the shortest priced favorite since the early days of the Derby. He is expected to be quoted at no better than 2 to 5.

Dit, winner of the Wood Memorial, probably will be second choice at about 8 to 1. Pictor, Chesapeake stakes winner, may be at 10 to 1 with Mioland somewhere near him in public fancy. Roman, Sirocco, Gal-

VETERAN STARS NAMED TO RIDE DERBY ENTRANTS

Smith, on Bimelech, Is Big Money Winner.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 3.—Following are brief biographical sketches of the jockeys who will ride in the 66th running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs tomorrow:

Frederick A. Smith [Bimelech]—Born Camaguey, Cuba, 1913; now in his second year as contract rider for Col. Bradley; after coming from Cuba as a boy was cowpuncher on ranch in Wyoming, where he learned to ride; never has had a mount in Derby before; has ridden Bimelech in all eight victorious starts; won 91 races out of 505 mounts last year and was fifth leading money winner with $236,-415.

Leon [Buddy] Haas [Dit]—Born in Fort Gibson, Okla., 1915; used to ride for Roscoe Goose, also once a jockey, and later for Ben Jones and Calumet farm stables; finished seventh to Johnstown on T. M. Dorsett in Derby last year; rode Kayak II. in Santa Anita handicap; won $110,701 last year and had 55 winning mounts.

Georgie Woolf [Pictor]—Born in San Bruno, Cal., 1909; known as "stake rider," because rarely takes other mounts than in stake and handicap races; rated cleverest jockey in this year's Derby; last year had 23 winning mounts and took $139,105; won Santa Anita handicap aboard Azucar in 1935; in four Derby starts finished seventh with Co-Sport, 1938; eighth with Gallant Sir, '32; 10th with Commonwealth, '35, and 20th with Billionaire, '37; won Preakness with Bold Venture in '36.

Lester Balaski [Mioland]—Born in New Orleans, 1915; contract rider for Bing Crosby's Binglin stables; tall, thin fellow; has done most of his riding in the west in last year; had 43 winners and $77,634 money take in '39; started in three previous Derbies, finishing second with Roman Soldier behind Omaha in '35; third with Can't Wait in '38, and fifth with Bien Joli in '36.

Johnny Gilbert [Royal Man]—Born in Pittsburg, Kas., 1913; regarded by many as best 2 year old rider in America; nation's leading rider in 1932 with 212 first places in 1,050 mounts; last year had 16 winners and won $21,210; finished fourth on Mata Hari in '34 Derby.

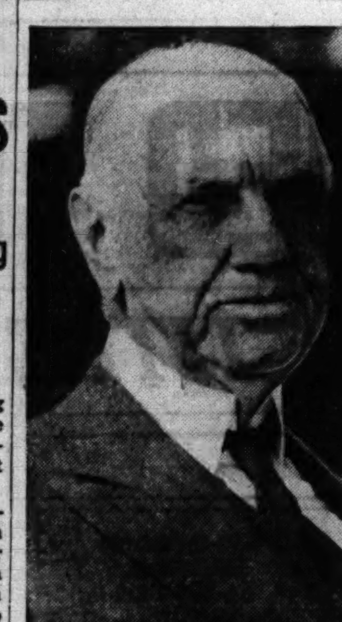

Carroll Bierman [Gallahadion]—Born in Centralia, Wash., 1918; rode 96 winners last year for $169,575 money winnings, finishing among country's top 30 riders; when riding for Trainer Ben Jones he and Warren Yarberry kept on edge all the time because Jones, using both for his stable, never advised either until shortly before each race which one was going to ride; finished fourth with Viscounty in last year's Derby.

Albert Bodiou [Sirocco]—Born in Winnipeg, Canada, 1916; French Canadian; had 84 winners last year for $73,955 money earnings; check of available records showed he never had outstanding stake mount until this one.

Ken McCombs [Roman]—Born in Detroit, 1917; is making his first appearance in the Derby, tho he has had considerable experience and has established himself as a skillful rider and a good judge of pace; had 76 winners last season out of a total of 573 mounts; purses amounted to $87,-225.

Douglas West [True Star]—Born in Smackover, Ark., 1921; had only 17 winners last year, altho he accepted 258 mounts; contract rider for M. J. Schmitt, a Louisville lawyer.

Misses Derby.

E. R. Bradley, owner of Bimelech, who has seen four of his horses win the Kentucky Derby, will be missing from his box today. Because of ill health, he will remain on his Idle Hour farm near Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., May 3 [Special].—E. R. Bradley, who has seen his horses win the Kentucky Derby on four occasions and who has every reason to believe Bimelech will make it five tomorrow, will be deprived by ill health of a chance to watch him run. Bradley, who is 80 years old, has been ordered by his physician to remain in his home on Idle Hour farm near here because of the fear that the excitement of watching the Derby might place too great a strain on his heart.

Injured Dickinson Athlete Reported Much Improved

Carlisle, Pa., May 3 [Special].—Thomas R. Hunt, Dickinson college sophomore golf, swimming, and track star, tonight was reported much improved since the amputation of his right leg above the knee on Wednesday. Hunt, who suffered a compound fracture of the leg while high jumping in the annual inter-fraternity meet last Friday, has been in such critical condition that he still is unaware of the loss of his right leg. He will not be notified for some time. Hunt has undergone two operations and three blood transfusions.

NAME FIELD OF NINE FOR 66TH KENTUCKY DERBY

lahadion and Royal Man will range on up from 25 to 40 to 1. If True Star goes, any one who wants to bet on him probably could name his own price.

Favorite Is No. 2.

Bimelech drew No. 2 position with Gallahadion on the rail to his left and Mioland to his right. True Star will be next to Mioland, then will come Roman, Sirocco, Dit, Royal Man, and Pictor.

If Trainer William Hurley gives Jockey Fred Smith orders to accept every challenge when it's offered, Bimelech will find plenty of early speed to hook up with as they come past the stands for the first time on their journey of a mile and a quarter. Roman can go out and run with the best for a moderate distance at least. Both Dit and Pictor got out in front and stayed there during most of the running while scoring their victories in the Wood and Chesapeake, respectively.

If Smith's orders permit him to take a tight hold on Bimelech, he will have to be careful not to let Dit get too far away. Sirocco probably will lay well behind the early pace and do his best running in the stretch.

Bimelech Is Consistent.

Although nobody knows what's going to happen in a horse race, Bimelech's backers have a firm base for their confidence. The Bradley horse has done everything that he has been asked to do and has done it like a champion. In scoring his six victories last year and his two this season he was galloping easily, far ahead of his field on every occasion but the Hopeful stakes at Saratoga last September. In that race he won by a neck after being left 40 feet behind his rivals at the start.

The points of staying power and mud running ability don't worry Bimelech's backers, either. They saw him run the mile and a sixteenth of the Pimlico Futurity last fall and the mile and an eighth of the Blue Grass Stakes this spring with no signs of distress. Tho he was always scratched as a 2 year old whenever the track was other than fast, that was because Bradley didn't want to take a chance with so valuable a colt on slippery footing. In his spring workouts at Idle Hour farm he showed ability to cope with any kind of going.

Four of the Derby candidates breezed this morning. Clockers caught Bimelech at a half in :49 3-5 seconds. Sirocco went three-eighths in :37 4-5, Gallahadion three-eighths in :38 4-5; Roman a half mile in :48 2-5.

COLLEGE TRACK.

Maryville, 110; St. Benedict's, 21.
Cape Giraddeau, 92; Carbondale, 34.

Past Performances of Derby Entries

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 3.—Following are the entries in tomorrow's 66th running of the Kentucky Derby, together with their accomplishments and winnings as 2 year olds in 1939 and their records to date in 1940:

BIMELECH, bay colt by Black Toney-Latroienne, by Teddy. Owner—E. R. Bradley; trainer, William L. Hurley.

	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Won.
1940	2	2	0	0	7,745

Bimelech was the undefeated juvenile champion last season. After two starts this year he is still unbeaten and is expected to go to the post as the shortest priced Derby favorite since the 1880's. His victories last year consisted of four stakes, an allowance event, and a maiden race. The stakes were the Belmont Futurity, the Pimlico Futurity, the Hopeful, and the Saratoga Special. This season he won the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland and the Derby trial stakes at Churchill Downs. Tho he has never raced on a muddy track, he showed ability to cope with any kind of going during his workouts at Bradley's Idle Hour farm, where he spent the winter. He was bred at Idle Hour, being the last son of Black Toney. With Bimelech, Bradley is seeking his fifth Derby victory.

DIT, bay gelding, by Transmute-Ingrid, by Crimper. Owner—Arnold Hanger; trainer, Max Hirsch.

1939	4	2	2	0	$ 4,846
1940	2	2	0	0	20,225

Dit has replaced Roman Flag as the chief reliance of Arnold Hanger's stable. His Derby prospects rose last Saturday when he won the Wood Memorial at Jamaica, which was the same thing Johnstown did as a preliminary to winning last year's Derby. In the Wood, Dit beat a large field that included Red Dock, Andy K., Carrier Pigeon, and Flight Command. He ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 1-5 on a fast track. He led all the way and won by a margin of more than two lengths. In an earlier start this season he won an allowance event at a mile and 70 yards. After winning a maiden and an allowance race last year he ran second to his stablemate, Roman Flag, in the Breeders' Futurity at Keeneland. His trainer, Max Hirsch, saddled Bold Venture, winner of the 1936 Derby.

PICTOR, bay colt, by Challenger II.-Lady Legend by Dark Legend. Owner—W. L. Brann; trainer, Lou Schaefer.

1940	2	2	0	0	$13,550

Pictor's most notable achievement was victory in the Chesapeake stakes at Havre de Grace a week ago Saturday. He led most of the way, running the mile and a sixteenth over a muddy track in 1:53. Among those he beat on that occasion were Royal Man, Andy K., and Fenelon. His only earlier start this year was in a six furlong maiden event, which he won. As a 2 year old he competed only three times, all of his attempts being made in maiden races. The best he could do was a second place. He is a stablemate of Challedon, all-age champion last season, and is also by the same sire, Challenger II. He likes the mud and isn't afraid of a distance.

ROMAN, bay colt by Sir Gallahad III.-Buck Up by Buchan. Owner—Joseph E. Widener; trainer, D. E. Stewart.

1940	2	1	1	0	2,850

Roman is noted for his early speed and for his exceptional mud running ability, but there is a question of whether he will be able to keep up his pace for a mile and a quarter. He held on well thruout the final furlong in running second to Bimelech in the mile and an eighth Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland this spring. He was beaten by two and a half lengths on that occasion. In a previous start this year he won a six furlong allowance event. He was the best 2 year old on Kentucky and Illinois tracks last spring and summer until sickness and knee trouble forced him out of training. He came back in the fall to win a handicap at Keeneland, then ran fourth to Roman Flag in the Breeders' Futurity. His owner, Joseph E. Widener, saw two of his horses, Osmond and Brevity, beaten by only a head in the Derbies of 1927 and 1936.

SIROCCO, bay gelding by Sweep All-Miss Toro by Toro. Owner—Dixiana farm [Charles T. Fisher]; trainer, J. W. Smith.

1939	10	3	2	2	$10,665
1940	3	1	0	2	1,475

Sirocco gave indication of class in winning the Walden stakes at Pimlico last November. He displayed the marks of a route runner in this mile and a sixteenth event. This season he has started three times, winning one allowance event at Keeneland. He met Bimelech in the Derby trial stakes at Churchill Downs last Tuesday, but fell so far behind the early pace that he had too much hustling to do when he started his stretch run. He finished third, seven lengths behind the winner and five lengths behind Gallahadion. The extra quarter mile of the Derby should help him, but if it's muddy he's not expected to do very well. He's being trained by Jimmy Smith, former jockey, who rode some of E. R. Bradley's most famous horses, including Blue Larkspur and Black Helen.

1940	9	3	3	0	14,100

Gallahadion was unable to win as a 2 year old, but scored three times during the winter racing at Santa Anita. His first start since then was against Bimelech in the Derby trial. In that race and at that distance [a mile] he was much the best of all but the Bradley horse. He moved up powerfully on the turn into the stretch, but when he attempted to challenge, Bimelech had no trouble maintaining a two-length lead. He was beaten twice by Mioland in the winter racing. One of his Santa Anita victories was scored in the $10,000 San Vicente handicap, in which Mioland finished 13th.

MIOLAND, bay colt by Mio D'Areseso-Iolanda, by Vespasian. Owner—Charles S. Howard; trainer, Tom Smith.

1939	6	3	1	1	$ 2,360
1940	6	2	0	1	14,000

Mioland was purchased by C. S. Howard in January at Santa Anita, just after beating Gallahadion in a mile race. Mioland then ran 13th in the San Vicente handicap. In his next start, the Santa Anita Derby, he was a fast finishing fourth after encountering considerable interference. Then he won the $10,000 San Juan Capistrano handicap, numbering among his victims the Santa Anita Derby winner, Sweepida; that was on March 9, and he hasn't raced since. He is being trained by Tom Smith, who prepared Seabiscuit for the comeback which was climaxed by victory in the rich Santa Anita handicap March 2.

ROYAL MAN, bay colt by Man o' Night-Royal Purple, by The Finn. Owner—Tower stable [Harold Clark]; trainer, M. Jolley.

1939	3	1	0	1	$ 675
1940	9	4	4	0	7,475

Royal Man campaigned with fair success in ordinary company at Hialeah during the winter and then attracted notice by running second to Pictor in the Chesapeake stakes. It was the first stake race in which he had competed. His other experience was confined to overnight allowance events and grade B handicaps. Royal Man ran well in the Chesapeake. He moved up fast on the turn out of the back stretch and took the lead from Pictor for a few strides. Tho unable to maintain his advantage, he held on fairly well, being beaten by two lengths.

TRUE STAR, chestnut colt by Transmute-Cogartown, by Rolled Stocking. Owner—M. J. Schmitt; trainer, Sherman Schmitt.

1939	26	3	4	1	$2,450
1940	1	0	0	0	$25

True Star was heavily campaigned last season, usually in very ordinary company. He has been unable to win since last July. In his only start this year he finished fourth to Tough Hombre in a six furlong race on opening day at Churchill Downs.

NAME 14 FILLIES TO RACE TODAY IN PIMLICO OAKS

Baltimore, Md., May 3 (AP).—Fourteen horses, including last year's juvenile champion and the lone filly eligible for the Preakness stakes, were named today for tomorrow's $10,000 added Pimlico Oaks, the season's outstanding race for 3 year old fillies.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Now What, queen of the 2 year old fillies last year, will be making her second start of the season in the mile and a sixteenth Oaks and looms as the favorite despite finishing sixth in her first outing Tuesday.

The Preakness candidate in the large field is A. J. Sackett's Hand Organ, the only filly remaining eligible for Pimlico's $50,000 added race.

Aron Puts O. K. on Title Match in Philadelphia

Promoter Herman Taylor has started negotiations for a welterweight championship bout between Champion Henry Armstrong and Milt Aron of Chicago to open the outdoor season in Philadelphia the early part of June.

Jack Begun, manager of Aron, prefers to have Milt meet the champion in Comiskey park under the auspices of Promoter Irving Schoenwald. However, Armstrong would rather encounter Aron in Philadelphia. This is satisfactory to Begun, who has been promised $10,000 as Aron's end of the purse.

On March 25 the National Boxing association, which recognizes Aron as No. 1 147 pound contender, ordered Armstrong to sign by May 29 to defend his championship against the Chicagoan. Failure to do so will cost Henry his title, is is understood.

Proviso Holds Delayed Prep Relays Today

With the weather man's assurance that clear skies will prevail, officials of Proviso High school's third annual prep relay carnival will make another attempt to run off the meet this afternoon in Maywood. The carnival, which has attracted 525 athletes from 37 schools in the Chicago district, was scheduled to be held yesterday, but was postponed because of the rain and snow. Field events and preliminaries in the 100 yard dash will open the program at 1 o'clock.

Of the leading Illinois prep performers to date in 12 recognized events, six are entered in the Proviso meet. . . . Their names and best times, heights or distances follow: Louis Sabin of La Grange, 52 feet 7¼ inches, shot put; Donald McSweeney of Oak Park, 22 feet 10¾ inches, broad jump [McSweeney also rates second among the state high jumpers at 6 feet 1 inch along with Jack McKenzie of Sullivan High of Chicago]; Dick Albrecht of Naperville, :15.2, high hurdles; Carl Dreis of Wheaton, 4:37, and Cluterham of Lane Tech, 4:37.8, one mile, and Kopka of Oak Park, 2:04.3, half mile. . . . Other top ranking stars in Illinois, including last week's meets, are Dwight Eddleman of Centralia, 6 feet 2¼ inches, high jump; Bob Dansby of Decatur, 149 feet 9 inches, discus throw, Allan Smith of Litchfield, :09.7, 100 yards, and :22, 220 yards; Tom Smerdel of Danville, :52 for 440 yards; Oak Park, 1:35.7 for the 880 yard relay.

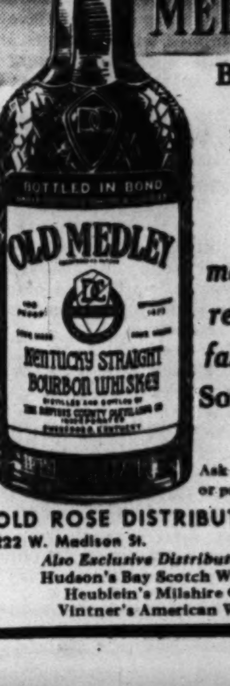

Baseball teams in the Suburban league, idle since last Monday because of rain, will resume play this morning. . . . Waukegan's nine will play Oak Park on the latter's field and Evanston will oppose New Trier in Winnetka. . . . Waukegan and Oak Park are involved in a three way tie with Proviso for second place in the league standings. . . . Each has won three and lost two. . . . Morton of Cicero, the league leader, is undefeated in five starts. . . .

The Public High School league tennis race will open Monday with four matches in the north division. . . . The openers will send Senn against Roosevelt; Amundsen against Sullivan; Lane Tech against Von Steuben and Taft against Lake View. . . . Parker, defending champion, will oppose Hirsch Tuesday afternoon. . . . Letter men on the Englewood tennis squad include Norman Karel, Joe Martinez and Lerton Krushas. . . . Other members of the team are Jimmy Ninois, Dave Curtain and Don Davies. . . .

RED SOX WIN, 9-8, ON TABOR'S HITS; LEADING LEAGUE

Jim's Homer Ties Score; Single Wins in Tenth.

Boston, Mass., May 3 (AP).—The slugging of Jim Tabor gave the Red Sox a 9 to 8 victory over St. Louis in 10 innings today and a lift over the idle Cleveland Indians into the American league's top rung.

Tabor's second homer tied the score in the ninth and his single with the bases loaded in the tenth brought in Ted Williams with the winning run.

Manager Joe Cronin and Williams also hit homers and Walter Judnich put the Browns in the game in the seventh by blasting out his fourth circuit drive of the season with two on base. Score:

BEES, 4; CARDINALS, 2

St. Louis, Mo., May 3 (AP).—Bill Posedel's hurling and hitting gave Boston's Bees their second victory of the year today, a 4 to 2 triumph over St. Louis' Cardinals.

The veteran right hander not only held the Cards to seven scattered hits but his double in the sixth inning also started the Bees on a three run rally.

For a time it appeared that Lon Warneke would be the first Cardinal to go the route this season, but five hits finished him in the sixth. It was the 12th straight game in which the Cardinals have used two or more pitchers. Score:

Cubs Insist They'll Play Giants Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The National league schedule today provides, among battles elsewhere, for a local baseball game between the Cubs and New York Giants. But this schedule was drawn months ago when its makers had no way of knowing that Chicago's spring would be molested by a laggard winter, so there is no guarantee that Gabby Hartnett's athletes will be able to terminate their vacation this afternoon.

However, there are indications that things may be suitable for action today. The weather man, who has been known to make good on some of his promises, says he will chase away threats of more rain and snow and restrict his mischief to a chill in the air. And the field, having been mopped up, sponged, and carefully nursed in other ways yesterday, will be dry enough so that the athletes will not sink any deeper than their shoe tops.

They Work Out in Armory.

Having been snowed out of two games against the Bees, Hartnett assembled his men for work yesterday as soon as the Giant opener was canceled. He had them galloping and throwing in the 122d Regiment armory on Chicago avenue, and they not only worked up a slight sweat but also a keen appetite.

Larry French still is today's Cub pitcher. He's been today's pitcher since Wednesday when the three day vacation started, but the delay hasn't deadened his desire for work. He has two victories [shutouts] to his credit in three starts and is very anxious to continue as the bell-wether of the Cub staff. Lefty Larry expects to draw Carl Hubbell, also a southpaw workman, as an opponent.

Break for the Girls.

Yesterday's affair was to have been played for the benefit of the customary Friday women guests, but they'll not lose out because of the postponement. Their tickets will be accepted for today's skirmish, scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

Clay Bryant, the well known pitching invalid who submitted to a tonsil removal several days ago, may feel strong enough to slip into a uniform today, but his reappearance doesn't necessarily mean he is going to make his 1940 debut immediately. While his tonsils are gone, it is not a certainty that the arm lameness went with them. After about a week of honest throwing he may be able to tell whether or not the surgeons located the source of his trouble.

Matt J. Winn, 79 year old president of Churchill Downs, who has seen every Kentucky Derby, isn't worried about Bimelech's popularity ruining the race from a betting and attendance standpoint. . . . "You can't tell about those heavy favorites," he reminds callers, "they don't always come thru." . . . We recall distinctly that another top-heavy favorite, Joe Louis, if you must know, had some such experience the first time he met Max Schmeling. . . . Publicity pictures of Bimelech show the Bradley colt wearing No. 2 on his saddle cloth. . . . Apparently the photo was made during one of his two year old victories, because he hasn't sported that number in his two starts this year. . . . It's a coincidence that he drew No. 2 post position for tomorrow's race. . . . The last No. 2 entrant to win the Derby was Paul Jones in 1920. . . . Frank Dwyer, chef d'affaires of various Chicago track restaurants, is serving in a similar capacity at Churchill Downs. . . . Others familiar to Chicago racing patrons who are employed here are Larry Bogenschutz, placing judge; Frank Ashley, track announcer, and Starter Bill Hamilton.

Max Hirsch is the only trainer represented in this Derby who has saddled a previous winner. . . . He prepared Bold Venture in 1936. . . . This time he will send out Dit, owned by Arnold Hanger. . . . They're telling a story around Louisville about the resourcefulness of the mayor of Grove City, O., where Beulah Park is located. . . . When the Beulah officials wanted four evenings of twilight racing, they ran into a state law prohibiting it after 7 p. m. . . . Mayor Orin Breckenridge took care of that in short order. . . . He announced that on the four days in question the city would operate on central standard instead of eastern standard time. . . . Joseph E. Widener, who wants to win the Derby more than any other race in the world, will have Roman running for him tomorrow. . . . He never has had the thrill of a Derby victory, but twice came within inches of it with Osmand and Brevity.

Ten Years Ago Today—The Yankees defeated the White Sox, 7 to 4, before a crowd of 61,000. . . . The Cubs beat Philadelphia, 8 to 7, on a wild pitch in the ninth inning. . . . Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, arrived in the United States and immediately started training for his title fight with Jack Sharkey.

shot and threw to Kuhel in plenty of time for the third out.

Sox offensive activity in the first two innings consisted exclusively of a single by Appling. After Crosetti had thrown out Tresh to start the third, Smith lined a single to left center. Kennedy singled to right center and when Keller fumbled the ball the runners kept running. Henrich tried to retrieve for Keller and he, too, put on a juggling act. The two outfielders' errors on one ball enabled Smith to reach home with the tying run, while Kennedy got to third. Kuhel rapped a sharp grounder to Dahlgren and Kennedy was run down. Kuhel stole second but Kreevich filed to Henrich.

Crosetti drew Smith's fourth pass at the start of the fifth. Rolfe missed a couple of strikes, then singled to right, Crosetti taking third. Selkirk walked, loading the bases with none out. Keller struck out on four pitches, then McNair made a great pickup of Rosar's smash and stepped on second to force Selkirk. Appling got in the way of Eric's relay just enough to prevent a double play, Crosetti scoring. Appling threw out Gordon.

Bases Full, Gordon Triples.

Rolfe walked at the start of the home seventh. Selkirk tapped to Kennedy and it went for a hit when Kennedy slipped and fell as he started to throw. Keller walked, loading the bases. Rosar popped to Kuhel. Gordon then banged his triple to the wall in left center, scoring Rolfe, Selkirk and Keller. Henrich fanned and Appling threw out Dahlgren.

Brown pitched the eighth. After two had been retired, Rolfe singled and scored on Selkirk's homer. Keller followed with a circuit shot into the stands in right center.

RELIEF PITCHER FANS 14 IN ROW, BUT TEAM LOSES

Peoria, Ill., May 3 (AP).—Bill White, Pekin, Ill., senior, struck out 14 batters in a row today, but even that couldn't save Bradley Tech from defeat at the hands of Millikin, 6 to 1.

Millikin batted Swen Wallin for all its runs before White took over in the fourth. He struck out the first batter, yielded a single and an infield out, then fanned the next batter. Thru the next four innings he fanned every man who faced him and added his 14th in a row by striking out the first batter in the ninth. Another strikeout in the ninth gave him a total of 16 in six innings.

TRIBUNE WRITERS PICK BIMELECH; ROMAN SECOND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 3.—Following are the Kentucky Derby predictions of Arch Ward, sports editor, and Howard Barry, turf editor, of THE TRIBUNE:

WARD—Bimelech, Roman, Sirocco, Dit.

Shortstop Scharein of Phillies Sent to Newark

Cincinnati, O., May 3 (AP).—The Philadelphia Phillies, here to meet the Reds, pruned their roster today by sending George Scharein to Newark of the International league. Scharein, last season's regular shortstop, has been replaced by Bob Bragen, a Pensacola, Fla., recruit.

Six Michigan Runs in Eighth Whip Illinois

Champaign, Ill., May 3 [Special].—Michigan's baseball team defeated Illinois in the opener of a two game series today, 8 to 6, profiting by the wildness of four Illinois pitchers when five runs were forced in by bases on balls, and another tally resulted from a wild pitch.

Grant, who had held the Wolverines to two runs, retired at the start of the eighth after Steppon singled and Evashevski doubled. Alexander hit a batter and gave three bases on balls. Gruenfeld followed with a wild pitch and three more walks as the Wolverines scored six times. Score:

Batteries—Bond, Stoddard and Harmes; Grant, Alexander, Gruenfeld, Pfund and Brewer.

IOWA, 14; CHICAGO, 3.

Iowa City, Ia., May 3 [Special].—The University of Iowa tightened its grip on the Big 9½ baseball lead today, whipping Chicago, 14 to 3, before 3,000 in the first of a two game series.

Hal Haub whiffed 11 Maroon batsmen and yielded only six hits for his fifth conference victory of the season. Rudy Radics, sophomore first baseman, hit a home run in the second inning. Andy Kantor and Bob Cook led the Hawkeye hitting with three hits each, one of Kantor's going for a triple. Prasse and Kocur of Iowa also pounded out triples. Score:

Iowa	310	402	04*—14 14 3

Batteries — Garverick, Beeks and Levit; Haub and Welp.

WILDCATS, 6; GOPHERS, 1.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 3 (AP).—Northwestern spoiled Minnesota's Big 9½ baseball opener today, whipping the Gophers 6 to 1. The Wildcats routed Stan Sowa, the Gophers' star pitcher, meanwhile getting five hit pitching from John Goldak. Fred Shinkevich led Northwestern with two doubles and a pair of singles. Score:

Batteries—Goldak and Arnold; Sowa, Anderson and Fust.

BADGERS, 7; HOOSIERS, 6.

Madison, Wis., May 3 [Special].—The University of Wisconsin baseball team remained in the running for the Big 9½ championship by defeating Indiana, 7 to 6, in a ragged game today. Each team was charged with five errors.

Wisconsin	302	110	00*—7 8 5

Batteries—Gentil and Stoshitch; J. Saxer and Cunningham.

YANKEES' SALE TO FARLEY GROUP REPORTED NEAR

New York, May 3 [Special].—Negotiations for the sale of the New York Yankees are virtually completed, the New York Sun said it was authoritatively informed today. There remain now only the final details, it added.

Yankee officials continued to maintain their policy of not discussing the deal. Byron Clark Jr., attorney for the Ruppert estate admitted however, that, in earlier discussions with Farley, the postmaster general had said he would like nothing better than to be head of the Yankees. He is an enthusiastic baseball fan, a frequent spectator at the Yankee stadium and an admirer of Manager Joe McCarthy.

"I can't discuss anything about the sale of the Yankees," Clark said today. "While there have been some conferences, all I can say is that no money has been put up yet."

Lee to Pitch for Sox Today; Yanks to Start Sundra

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 3.—Thornton Lee, who held the Cleveland Indians to four hits in Cleveland on April 26, will pitch for the Sox against the Yanks tomorrow. The Chicagoans are scheduled to face Steve Sundra.

Marvin Breuer, who pitched against the Sox today, is said to be quite a favorite of Manager Joe McCarthy. Breuer was with Kansas City last year, and is a resident of Rollo, Mo.

Joe DiMaggio, who hasn't played this year, took a mild workout today. Specialists say he should be able to play any time now. Joe still says it will be quite a spell before he returns to action.

NOTRE DAME'S GOLFERS LOSE TO NORTHWESTERN

Notre Dame, Ind., May 3 [Special].—Notre Dame dropped its third straight golf match today, 16½ to 10½, to Northwestern's strong squad. The Wildcats won the foursomes, 5½ to 3½, and the singles, 11 to 7.

The only Irish victory in singles was scored by Sammy Neild who defeated Gordon Wolfley of Northwestern, 2½ to ½, with a 75, the best card of the day. Wolfley had an 80.

Hagen [78] and Schaller [78], Notre Dame, defeated Fannon [77] and Barrett [81], Northwestern, 2½ to ½.

LINE DRIVE HITS GRIMES; MAY BE OUT TWO MONTHS

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—A line drive, hit by Odell Hale in batting practice, today fractured every bone in the left cheek of Oscar Grimes, Cleveland Indian utility infielder, physicians reported tonight.

Dr. E. W. Meloy, who operated on the player, expressed belief his eyesight would not be impaired. He said Grimes might not be able to play baseball for two months.

Grimes has been playing first base in place of Hal Trosky, who was called home by his son's illness.

At Pittsburgh, Pa.—Floyd Marshall stopped George Gano [2].

BOLDEN WINNER IN TEN ROUNDS OVER SIMMONS

Nate Bolden, Chicago middleweight, handed Marty Simmons of Saginaw, Mich., a boxing lesson in a 10 round return bout in White City last night. Simmons weighed 167 and Bolden 155. The boys battled to a draw a year ago.

Attendance was 1,501 and gross receipts were $1,296.

CHICAGO'S FIFTH HOME SHOW WILL BE OPENED TODAY

Model Gardens Included in Coliseum Display.

The fifth annual Chicago Home show will open at 10 o'clock this morning and continue thru Sunday, May 12, in the Coliseum, 1513 South Wabash avenue. It is being held under the auspices of the National House and Garden Exposition. Home equipment, building materials, and model gardens will be displayed.

Among the special features will be a cut-away model bungalow and a 1940 coal and stoker exhibition presented by the Chicago Coal Merchants and Midwest Stoker associations.

Disabled Vets Participate.

Articles made by disabled veterans of the world war will be on sale at the war veterans' handicrafts display. Other handicrafts developed by the Chicago park district will also be on exhibition.

Commonwealth Edison company will conduct a cooking school daily, except Sunday, with a special morning program scheduled for "brides" Thursday, May 9. Suburban day will be observed, May 10, and presidents and mayors of towns and villages of Chicagoland will participate in the day's programs.

Display Prize Photographs.

An amateur photography exhibition will include pictures from every state in the union, as well as Porto Rico, Cuba, Hawaii, and Canada. Prize winning entries in the amateur photographic contest will be shown to the public on the second floor of the south wing.

ROOSEVELT ASKS MORE FUNDS FOR HOUSING BOARD

Washington, D. C., May 3 [Special]. —President Roosevelt disclosed today that he intervened personally with congressional leaders to obtain more funds for the United States Housing authority, which he said was doing a good job. He declined to specify the amount he had in mind.

Laying the basis for a possible compromise with house opponents of the housing program who have objected particularly to the 60 year financing period, the President said he had long believed that even 50 years was too long a span over which to permit repayment of federal loans and guarantees.

He said that in a young nation such as America the physical centers of population shift and change so rapidly that a building put up in a suburban area today may find itself in an industrial center 40 years hence.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Hog prices broke rather sharply at the stock yards yesterday. The various classes fell mostly 10 to 25 cents, with some kinds showing even greater losses at the close. The top, at $6.20, was off 15 cents. The average also was off 15 cents, at $5.85 a hundred pounds, the first time it has dropped below $6.00 since April 19.

Weakness in live hogs prices was attributed to heavier selling by farmers and to a decline in wholesale markets for fresh pork. Top light loins fell 50 cents a hundred pounds.

Mostly steady prices were paid for lambs. Weakness was in evidence in the market for steers and yearlings, altho not enough arrived for selling to cause any marked price change. Heifers and calves held about steady. Beef sows were weak.

[All prices in dollars per 100 pounds.]

COTTON

American cotton markets made a poor response yesterday to strength in securities and grain. Liquidation credited to domestic and foreign longs was under way, especially in the new crop months. Mill buying afforded considerable support in the May and July. Closing trades were at the bottom with losses of .03 to .10 cent a pound on the active deliveries.

Spot cotton closed .05 to .07 cent lower with New York 10.86 cents, New Orleans 10.73 cents, Houston 10.38 cents, and Galveston at 10.36 cents a pound. Prices follow:

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

A Smart Pheasant.

May 3, 1940.

A SMART ringneck pheasant which lives in the woods and fields of the Du Page county farm has learned that it can get a free meal without much effort by stealing grain from the bird-banding station. All of the bird traps used on the farm are designed to capture small songbirds and aren't large enough to permit the entry of anything the size of a pheasant. But this ringneck has discovered that there always is a little feed outside the traps that it can filch and thereby eliminate the trouble of hunting natural food.

Twice during the last week we have surprised Mr. Ringneck at the bird-banding traps. On each occasion he was feeding on sunflower seeds which are included in the mixture. Both times our surprise visit caused him to flutter excitedly and leave the feeding station in a hurry.

It's Treat to See Him.

We don't begrudge the pheasant his free meals. In fact it was a treat to see him visit the banding traps because this is the slow season for bird-banding work. The juncos which visited the traps so often during April have deserted our wood lots and gone north for the summer, and the main flock of white-throated sparrows is a little late. The first white throat was trapped and banded the middle of this week, and by the first of next week the wood lots probably will be taken over by these migrants.

In the deep woods near the bird traps a colony of mandrake plants were staging their own private flower show to indicate that this week's unseasonable snow couldn't hold them back. Their big umbrella shaped leaves stood above the white ground as a signal that the snow had helped them rather than injured their chances for a good showing during the coming summer.

Snow Beneficial.

The men on the farm were unanimous in believing that the snow was a benefit to crops, pastures, and wild flowers. The subsoil now has moisture which was badly needed. A few bright warm days following the beneficial rain and snow will boom the winter wheat, the recently sown oats, and the wild flowers, and undoubtedly will hurry along the flowering crab and hawthorn trees which always provide such an attractive display on the farm each spring. If the snowfall had been accompanied by freezing temperatures the story would have been considerably different.

Stray dogs a problem.

One of the periodic problems which farmers have to face is that of controlling stray dogs which invade their fields and cause considerable property damage. Men on the Du Page county farm have to be constantly on the alert to corral vagabond dogs which are a menace to sheep and other live-stock. Two farm residents spotted a pair of mongrels in the center of the farm one day this week and immediately started a chase to get them off the farm before they could cause any damage.

MEXICO AGREES TO SETTLEMENT WITH SINCLAIR

Oil Accord Details Not Yet Disclosed.

MEXICO CITY, May 3 (AP).—The Mexican government has reached a settlement with the Consolidated Oil company [Sinclair] over properties expropriated by the Mexican government. Mexican officials today conceded only that "negotiations are in a very advanced stage with Sinclair," but it was learned authoritatively that they have been completed.

All details were handled thru the Mexican ambassador to Washington, it was said. The details were not available, but it was understood they involved the delivery of Mexican oil to Consolidated.

Dickers for Big Sale.

It also was learned—just before expected publication of the Mexican reply to the United States note on expropriation arbitration—that the Mexican government is negotiating for the sale of $12,000,000 of fuel oil to the Petroleum Heat and Power company of New York.

[In Washington, D. C., Jesus Silva Herzog, general manager of the Mexican Petroleum Distribution agency, announced last night the conclusion of three contracts with United States oil companies for the sale of $54,000,000 worth of petroleum and petroleum products.]

This oil, according to informed sources, will be delivered at the rate of approximately 250,000 barrels monthly over a five year period to tankers calling at Tampico.

Price and other details were not disclosed, but it was understood Mexico, faced with the need for cash after collapse of its oil business with Germany and the Scandinavian countries, gave a "very attractive price."

Negotiator Returns Monday.

Jesus Silva Herzog, manager of the government oil distribution agency, who is now in the United States, is expected to return here Monday. It was understood he went to the United States fully authorized to close the deal.

Mexico recently closed an oil deal with Japan at prices offsetting Panama Canal and long haulage expense and now has a trade commission in Japan said to be attempting to interest the Japanese in additional barter of oil for Japanese manufactured goods.

Believe Deal Arranged.

New York, May 3 (AP).—Officials of Consolidated Oil company could not be reached immediately tonight for comment on the news from Mexico City that an agreement had been reached with the Mexican government over expropriation of its oil properties, but informed quarters said they understood a contract embodying such understanding was reached last night.

This would leave Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Royal Dutch Shell [British] as the major groups still affected by the Mexican government's seizure of foreign owned oil fields in the republic on March 18, 1938.

Settlement of the Consolidated company's claim reputedly involved about $9,000,000 cash to be paid over a period of three years and the right to take out of Mexican wells during the next six years 30,000,000 barrels of oil.

NEW FINANCING TOTAL LARGEST IN NINE WEEKS

New York, May 3 (AP).—Public offerings of new securities during the week ended yesterday totaled $114,449,664, the largest volume in nine weeks, Poor's Publishing company reported today. The issues included the biggest public rail financing in 13 years, an offering of $81,602,000 Union Pacific 3½ per cent refunding bonds.

The demand for new money [not refunding] was small, however, accounting for only 15 per cent of the total. Comparisons follow:

Brill Companies Operate at Profit in First Quarter

Charles J. Hardy, president of the Brill corporation, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday that net income of the three operating companies in its system totaled $207,207 in the first quarter compared with a loss of $206,626 in the corresponding 1939 period. Total orders booked for the three months ended March 31 were $6,490,000 against $3,180,000 in the 1939 quarter, he said.

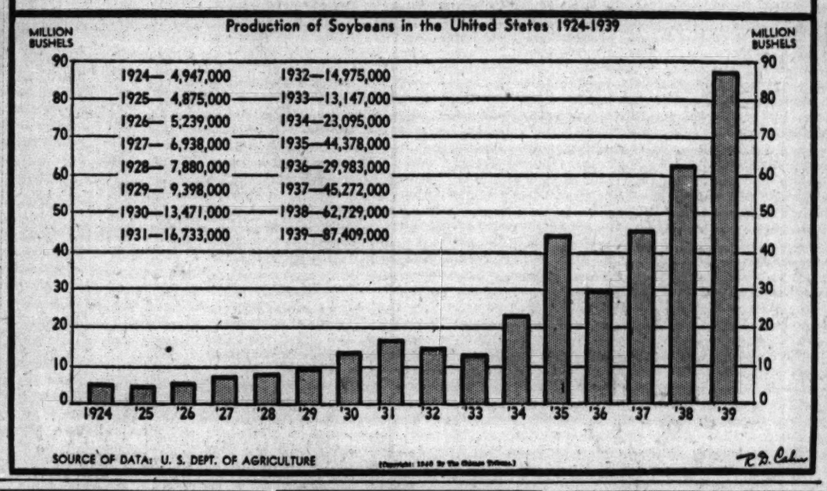

British, Canadian Moneys Decline in N. Y. Trading

British and Canadian currencies were weak in New York exchange dealings yesterday. The pound declined ¾ cent to $3.48 and the Canadian dollar lost ⅝ cent to 84.37 cents in terms of United States currency. Other foreign currencies held fairly steady.

Bethlehem Steel Places 3 More Furnaces in Operation

Buffalo, N. Y., May 3 (AP).—The Bethlehem Steel company placed three more open hearth furnaces in operation today, bringing the Buffalo area steel operating rate to 51 per cent of capacity, highest in six weeks.

Output of Soybeans Shows Great Increase

Carpets Gleam in Furniture Show Spotlight

Carpets which glow in the dark and a valet chest equipped with everything from a writing desk and shirt compartments to a lighted shaving mirror and electric razor are among the new products on display at the spring home furnishings markets which will end today in the American Furniture Mart, 666 Lake Shore drive, and the Merchandise Mart.

Fluorescent carpets, with the designs chemically treated, have caught the fancy of theaters and night clubs especially, one exhibitor at the Merchandise Mart reported. In daylight the rugs have the same appearance as the ordinary product, but in the dark, when exposed to invisible ultraviolet rays, they glow much the same as "radium dial" watches.

Attendance Is Higher.

More than 3,800 buyers for retail stores from all parts of the country have attended the markets during the five days, an increase of several hundred over the total for the same period of the spring shows in 1938, the last comparable markets.

Altho the total sales volume was reported to be greater than that of the 1938 spring markets, dealers said they could note the effect of retarded retail sales during the first quarter of 1940 in the smaller amount of buying to replace depleted stocks.

One manufacturer's representative at the American Furniture Mart said that inventories in retail stores were 25 per cent too high on Jan. 1 because of "war buying." Today, he added, they are about 7 per cent too large.

Regency Is Best Seller.

New interpretations of Regency designs continued to dominate in the furniture style trend, with modern styles listed in second place. These spring markets are usually designated especially for case goods [bed room and dining room suites], but upholstered products were reported to be leading the volume of sales at the Merchandise Mart.

Other new products on exhibition include hobby tables in many shapes with glass sides and glass tops which open to permit the collector to place his items inside for safe display. Another is a "test tube" chair made of translucent plastic and upholstered in whipped foam rubber.

BILL TO CONTINUE SUGAR ACT FOR YEAR SUBMITTED

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—Chairman Cummings [D., Colo.] of the congressional sugar bloc introduced a bill today to continue the 1937 sugar act for another year. The measure omitted reference to the recently expired provision limiting imports of refined sugar from offshore areas.

Cummings also offered a resolution to set up a special seven member committee of the house to investigate the whole sugar problem and recommend lgislation to stabilize the industry.

ASSERTS SYNTHETIC RUBBER IS READY IF WAR CUTS SUPPLIES

Akron, O., May 3 (AP).—The industry is prepared to start full time production of synthetic rubber if the present war cuts off the supply of crude rubber to the United States, according to T. G. Graham, vice president of the B. F. Goodrich company.

T. G. Graham.

"We and others who have studied the problem believe that on a large scale production synthetic rubber can be produced in this country at a cost little above the present price of plantation rubber," Graham declared in an address before Akron industrial traffic engineers.

He said his company and others are producing synthetic rubber on a "small scale" now. He expressed doubt the Malayan supply, America's principal source of crude rubber, would be cut off by the war, but added "in these days, no one can be certain."

EASTERN AIR LINES BUYS 12 MORE PLANES TO COST 1½ MILLIONS

Purchases of 12 additional Douglas DC-3 21 passenger transport planes by Eastern Air Lines, Inc., was authorized yesterday by the directors at their meeting in French Lick, Ind., Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president, announced.

Capt. Rickenbacker said the planes will cost about $1,500,000 and will be delivered between June 1 and October this year. The company already has on order eight DC-4 42 passenger planes scheduled for delivery in 1941. An increasing volume of business caused the company to decide to order the additional planes, Rickenbacker said. Flight schedules are being increased.

Rickenbacker reported that Eastern's traffic in April was 61 per cent larger than a year earlier and that the volume for the first four months of this year was 60 per cent larger than in the corresponding period last year.

Eastern Air Lines, which on May 1 observed its 12th birthday, has 28 airliners in operation.

HOPSON REFUSES TO TESTIFY AT UTILITY PROBE

New York, May 3 [Special].—Howard C. Hopson, on the ground that he might be incriminated, today refused to testify before a federal grand jury which is inquiring into the Associated Gas & Electric company, big utility system of which he was one of the founders.

When Hopson withheld a reply to the first pertinent question bearing on the financial structure of the billion dollar public utilities system the government recognized his resort to his constitutional right and excused him. Fred A. Ironside, Hopson's attorney, spoke appreciatively of the treatment given to Hopson.

Two white garbed nurses supported Hopson to the door of the grand jury room and he had the privilege of a ride in the judge's private elevator, which helped him to avoid reporters.

Hopson had sought to be spared the grand jury appearance on the ground that he was a "physical and mental wreck," but after examinations ordered by Judge Edward A. Conger, he was deemed by a neurologist and a cardiac specialist to be able to testify if the examination were not too long and care was taken to avoid undue excitement.

CHICAGO STORES HAVE INCREASED SALES IN APRIL

Sales of Chicago department stores in April increased 4.9 per cent over the corresponding 1939 month, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Rain on three of the six shopping days of the last week accounted for a 3.1 per cent decline for the week.

In the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district, department store sales in April, with the last two days of the month omitted, gained 4.9 per cent over the 1939 month. For the week ended April 29 the district showed a gain of 2.9 per cent over a year ago.

Chicago was the exception in the district, all other major cities recording increased sales. Milwaukee, with special sales, led the district with a 14 per cent gain. Better business conditions in Indianapolis accounted for a 10.6 per cent increase, the bank reported.

Treasury Is $2,114,921,225 Short of Its Debt Limit

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—The treasury said today it had $2,114,921,225 of its $45,000,000,000 borrowing power left on April 30. A monthly analysis of the debt showed that altho the face amount of debt outstanding on April 30 was $42,657,771,537, allowances for future values of savings bonds boosted the total to $42,885,078,775.

Elevated Lines Transport 12,462,648 During April

The Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated] reported yesterday that revenue passengers carried during April numbered 12,462,648, an increase of 3.6 per cent over the 12,022,009 transported during the same 1939 month. The total for the year ended April 30 was 51,115,012 against 49,361,975 a year earlier.

Chicago Firm, 100 Years Old, to Celebrate

One hundred years ago—when Chicago had a total population of 4,470—the management of what is now the George B. Carpenter company, 430 North Wells street, started in business.

George F. Lundberg, present president of the company, which is one of the country's largest distributors of cordage, cotton duck, and awning supplies, said yesterday that June 6 has been picked as the official celebration date of the 100th anniversary.

For several months officials of the company have been searching old records for the exact date on which the original firm, Huginin & Pierce, began business with a stock described as "boat sails, ship chandlery, and groceries."

1840 Is "Year One."

Lundberg said no mention of the date was found, but the company has always claimed 1840 as "the year one." Recent investigations have indicated that the firm had its beginning in 1839, he said.

The original store was in a small frame building on the south bank of the Chicago river, Lundberg said. At the time it was founded the young town was struggling in the aftermath of the panic of 1837, he said.

"The name of the firm was changed several times in the early days," Lundberg said. "It became Gilbert Hubbard & Co. in 1857. At that time one-third interest was acquired by George B. Carpenter, son of Benjamin Carpenter, who was one of Chicago's earliest meat packers and the city's first commissioner of public works. On the death of Hubbard in 1881, Carpenter obtained full control of the business and the name was changed to its present one.

Activities Are Expanded.

"Altho the firm originally started in ship chandlery, its activities were gradually expanded. It supplied equipment to settlers moving westward in covered wagons, to the '49ers, to the railroad builders, to lumber camps, and to innumerable industries which sprang up in the area."

During the civil war the company, according to old accounts, supplied "tents, camp bedsteads, flags, banners, and other camp and naval articles for the armies of the west and the inland navy."

The first page of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, dated Monday, April 10, 1865, was found by officials of the company while searching for data. It contained an advertisment of Gilbert Hubbard & Co., 207 South Water street, and told of the surrender of Lee and the end of the war.

Helped Rebuild After Fire.

The firm supplied much of the equipment required to rebuild Chicago after the fire of 1871, records showed.

On June 6, Lundberg said, employés will be given an all day party at the Park Ridge Country club—several blocks from the original George B. Carpenter home site.

The firm now handles more than 15,000,000 pounds of merchandise annually, Lundberg said. The present management took control of the business in 1936.

BUSINESS BOOKS

Commodities in Industry, the 1940 Commodity Year Book. [The Commodity Research Bureau, Inc., New York City. Price $7.50.]

The second of the Commodity Year Book series devotes its lead article to the effect of war upon commodity prices. The editors predict that a commodity price boom is inevitable and marshal statistics to demonstrate that every long war has been accompanied by a lifting of the general price level. The degree of the boom will be determined by the length and destructiveness of the present war, they believe.

The year book covers 75 basic raw materials used in industry, with a description of how they are processed into finished form, a review of 1939, and statistics and price trends in charts and graphs for each commodity.

An addition to the current volume is an article on the challenge of synthetics and plastics to the basic commodities. The editors conclude that altho the penetration of synthetics has been substantial they have not been produced and used in sufficient quantities to supplant natural materials. Other special studies discuss the shifting trend of per capita consumption, new processes and developments.

MORGENTHAU TELLS HIS PLAN FOR GOLD HOARD

Use It to Aid World After War, He Says.

Washington, D. C., May 3 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said today the United States' $18,600,000,000 gold stock ought to be used to help repair the world-wide economic ravages of the European war after peace is restored.

Secretary Morgenthau.

Making his first formal address in two years, he upheld the administration's huge gold purchases in a speech before the Institute of Government being conducted for Democratic women.

As long as the United States sells more goods and securities abroad than it buys, Morgenthau argued, the country has no alternative but to accept gold in payment, unless it is willing to take foreign promissory notes.

Prefer Gold to Paper.

"We can feel entirely comfortable in the possession of a supply of gold with which we can meet future demands on our monetary system without any shock to our economy," he said.

"We can be prepared also to play the part we ought to play in the reconstruction of the world that must follow the senseless destruction of war."

Hinting that the $14,000,000,000 world war debts were not collectible, Morgenthau said, "it is doubtful that Americans would want to repeat that experience. I prefer the gold to pieces of foreign paper."

Calls Dollar Soundest.

Morgenthau asserted that, because of its huge gold backing, "the American dollar is the soundest unit of currency in the world.

"Its value is unquestioned here at home and it is not questioned anywhere else in the world," he said. "It is a solid rock of strength and stability amid all the monetary confusion created by aggression and war. It is more than a domestic currency; it has become in the last few years more and more an international currency."

Much gold will go abroad automatically, Morgenthau said, when peace makes foreign investors feel safe to take home the huge sums sent here for safekeeping before the war.

Gold might also be spent abroad to buy larger quantities of foreign goods after the war without upsetting domestic business, he suggested. A third method, he said was the making of new foreign investments by Americans when they feel it safe to do so.

Recovery First Objective.

"We must concentrate," he continued, "on the promotion of further recovery here and peace and security abroad not in order to correct the gold situation but because prosperity, peace and security are in themselves the supreme ends of governmental policy. That their attainment will also solve the world's gold problem is only a by-product, but an important one."

Morgenthau mentioned doubts in some quarters that gold would retain its historic international value when the United States' share gets too lopsided. [The United States now owns 65 per cent of all the monetary gold in the world.] He answered this with:

"Let me reassure you once and for all. As long as there are independent nations, and as long as there is international trade in goods and services, so long will it be necessary to settle international balances. Gold is the international medium of exchange par excellence.

Hits Attempt at Barter.

"It is used and needed just as much by the freest democracies as by the most rigid dictatorships—as much by capitalist economies as by socialist economies."

He described German and other attempts to substitute barter trade for gold regulated free exchange as "admittedly worse alternatives," chosen only for lack of gold and not because of distrust of it.

He pictured the only possible threat to the future value of gold as the emergence of one or two dictatorships ruling most of the world.

He said he had no fear that this would ever happen but that if it did, "circumstances of life would be so different that the possible loss in the value of gold would, I am sure, be the least of our troubles."

Week's Auto Production Slips to 99,305 Units

Detroit, Mich., May 3 (AP).—Ward's Automotive Reports today estimated the current week's output of the motorcar factories at 99,305 units, compared with 101,405 last week and 71,420 a year ago. Altho this week's volume dropped below 100,000 units for the first time since mid-February, "the outlook for production continues steady," the report said.

One of Largest Illinois Oil Wells Opened by Texas Co.

Centralia, Ill., May 3 (AP).—Completion of one of the largest oil wells in Illinois was announced today by the Texas company. The well, the No. 30 Wayman in the Lake Centralia-Salem field of Marion county, produced 8,031 barrels in a 24 hour test from the Devonian lime at a depth of 3,392 feet.

Develops Cold Storage Units for Farm Use

International Harvester company is expanding its operations in the refrigeration field, invading a potentially vast rural market with a new line of large cold storage units, officials of the company announced yesterday.

The coolers are housed in wooden cabinets large enough to hold hundreds of pounds of farm products and to permit persons to enter. They are designed to be placed in buildings or in the open, with a roof built over them.

Decision to enter the market with the new product followed tests of the market which have been in progress since January.

Made at West Pullman.

Production will be stepped up at once to several hundred units a month, it was learned. The refrigerating units will be produced at the company's West Pullman works in Chicago, and the cabinets will be built by an independent company in Indiana.

International, leading maker of farm machinery and tractors and a major producer of motor trucks, is entering the new field, officials said, as a result of its experience with a milk cooler developed about five years ago. Demand for the milk cooler resulted from city ordinances requiring that milk sold to city users be cooled within an hour after milking time.

Priced from $600 Up.

They are made in 10 standard sizes, with capacities ranging from 110 to 572 cubic feet. The price range is $600 to more than $1,000. The quick freezing equipment is $140 extra.

The new line will be marketed thru International's far flung regular dealer organization. Altho the coolers are intended primarily for the farm market, it is expected they will find outlets in many commercial fields, the company said.

"The new refrigerator line is the direct result of studies the company has made of the widespread extension of electric power to farms in recent years," the announcement said.

Potential Sales Field Large.

"The company's sales research and engineering departments have been studying for some time the possibilities of developing new products in this field, to be marketed thru the Harvester dealer organization, as well as the adaptation of existing products to the use of electric power."

The size of the potential farm market for electric products, officials pointed out, is indicated by current estimates showing that 1,800,000 farms in the United States are now receiving central station electric power service.

U. S. STEEL GETS MOST FROM ITS BIRMINGHAM UNIT

New York, May 3 (AP).—The United States Steel corporation drew its largest dividends last year from the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company, the operating subsidiary in the Birmingham district, according to a report to the Securities and Exchange commission.

A total of $39,536,312 in cash dividends was received by the parent company in 1939.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation showed a loss of $18,888,206 and American Steel & Wire company a loss of $4,537,820.

EXCHANGE OFFER MADE ON CURTIS PREFERRED ISSUE

New York, May 3 (AP).—Curtis Publishing company, today mailed to stockholders another proposal for change in its capital structure to eliminate its $7 cumulative preferred stock, on which there are dividend arrears of $19.37 a share.

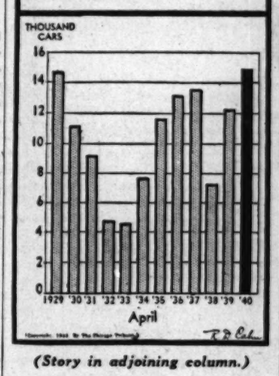

The proposal, which will be voted on by shareholders at a special meeting July 2, would offer in exchange for each preferred share $10 principal amount of 15 year 3 per cent debentures, 2½ shares of common, and one share of a new $4 preferred stock, on which $3 annual dividend would be cumulative and $1 payable and cumulative to the extent earned.

Last year the company proposed exchange of the $7 preferred for new $4.50 preference stock, but opposition developed and the plan was withdrawn.

Give Junior Memberships in Engineers Society to Six

Awards of junior memberships in the American Society of Civil Engineers were presented yesterday in recognition of scholarship to six seniors of universities and institutes in the Chicago area. They were: Mark Gantar, Northwestern university; George P. Hanna Jr., Armour Institute of Technology; Donald M. Graham, Lewis Institute; Louis W. Schumm, University of Illinois; Allen Roy Schackleton, Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind., and Chancellor D. Montgomery, Rose Polytechnic Institute, Terre Haute, Ind. The awards were given by Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, in the Chicago Engineers' club, 314 Federal street.

Experts Boost Winter Wheat Crop Forecast

Moderate improvement in the outlook for the winter wheat crop occurred during April, according to estimates issued yesterday by Chicago statisticians. A yield of 441,000,000 bushels is suggested by the average of the six reports, showing an increase of 25,000,000 bushels over their April 1 estimates. The department of agriculture April 1 forecast was for 426,000,000 bushels. Last year's harvest aggregated 563,000,000 bushels.

Considering the heavy rains during the last month, the increase in the estimated wheat crop was surprisingly small, brokers said. Statisticians, however, were inclined to be pessimistic, asserting that the fate of about 2,000,000 acres in the southwest was still to be determined.

Cover a Wide Range.

Estimates on the winter wheat crop ranged from 421,000,000 bushels by B. W. Snow with Fuller, Rodney & Co. to 453,000,000 bushels by Nat C. Murray, with Jackson & Curtis, and 455,000,000 bushels by Mrs. E. H. Miller, who issued her forecast Thursday.

Abandoned acreage estimates showed an average of 26.3 per cent, leaving about 33,000,000 acres for harvest. Losses were especially severe in Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska.

Some improvement was shown in the condition of the rye crop, which is estimated at 31,000,000 bushels, or 8,000,000 bushels less than was harvested in 1939, and 7,000,000 bushels less than the average of the 10 preceding years.

Estimates Compared.

RISE ON WAR NEWS

American grain markets made a quick response yesterday to increased indications the war may spread to the Mediterranean and southeastern Europe.

Buying developed in all pits and prices advanced rapidly with closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade at about the top. Wheat gained 1½ cents and corn gained ¾ to 1 cent. The July delivery of corn went to a new seasonal high.

Rye futures closed 1 to 1¼ cents higher and oats finished ¼ to ⅞ cent higher. Soy beans were up ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel.

SALES OF AUTOS IN COUNTY NEAR ALL-TIME PEAK

Total of 14,881 Sets April Record.

Automobile sales in Cook county during April came close to setting an all-time record, according to the monthly figures made public yesterday by the Bureau of Motor Advice. The 14,881 total for the month was exceeded only by the 14,964 total for July, 1929. The April volume was the largest for that month in history.

The Bureau of Motor Advice is a semiofficial agency which bases its reports on registrations of new cars with the secretary of state at Springfield.

In April 1939, a total of 12,261 new cars was registered in Cook county and in March, 1940, there was 11,643. The second largest April total was 14,669 in 1929.

Cook county is the nation's largest individual market for automobiles and the industry watches sales here for indications of the general trend for the entire country.

Chevrolet Is Leader.

Chevrolet was first in volume of sales with a total of 3,057, compared with 2,108 in April, 1939, and 2,366 in March, 1940. Plymouth was in second place with a total of 2,160, compared with 1,897 in April, 1939, and 1,612 in March, 1940.

Buick moved up from fourth place in March to third rank in April with a total of 1,600. The totals for April, 1939, and March, 1940, were 1,172 and 1,185, respectively. Ford was in fourth place with 1,495, compared with 1,571 in April, 1939, and 1,250 in March of this year.

Pontiac and Dodge held fifth and sixth places, with sales of 1,288 and 1,062, respectively, unchanged from their March positions. Oldsmobile held seventh position with a total of 932 and Packard eighth with 482. De Soto with 464 was in ninth place and Chrysler with 436 in 10th.

Comparative Sales Figures.

STEPHEN PAINE'S PRISON TERM IS CUT; FREE MAY 8

New York, May 3 [Special].—Stephen Paine, who retired as a partner in the stock brokerage house of Paine, Webber & Co. after he had been suspended by the New York Stock exchange, will be released from federal prison on May 8, it was learned today. He was convicted of mail fraud in the looting of three investment trusts, and began serving a sentence of a year and a day last Jan. 8, but Judge John C. Knox today shortened the sentence.

Paine derived no direct benefit from the deals, it was shown. Judge Knox noted this fact in his order today, and also mentioned that Paine, Webber & Co. had paid $1,045,000 in settlement of civil suits brought by the injured trusts.

4 WEEKS' SALES OF JEWEL TEA 14.51 PCT. HIGHER

Sales of the Jewel Tea company increased 14.51 per cent during the four weeks ended April 20 over the corresponding 1939 period, the company reported yesterday. Sales totaled $2,130,934, against $1,860,892 a year ago.

In the first 16 weeks of 1940 sales were $8,325,913, or 11.04 per cent above $7,498,411 a year earlier.

Sales of Neisner Brothers, reail variety store chain, declined 20.5 per cent, amounting to $1,606,165 against $2,021,064 a year ago. However, the store showed a 2.7 per cent gain for the first four months of 1940, sales totaling $6,074,486 against $5,912,128.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, May 3 (AP).—It was a swing-low-swing-high stock market today with war influences providing the motivation for rapidly shifting trends. The list nose-dived in the forenoon, but on a sudden rebound reduced losses running to 2 or more points, or transformed them into gains of as much.

The pace quickened both on the relapse and the recovery. Activity slackened toward the close. Final advances were well under the best lines and declines were widely distributed.

A speedy reversal then followed the disclosure of President Roosevelt at his press conference that he had urged Italy to stay out of the present conflict and that the administration was doing everything possible to prevent other nations from being drawn into the melee. Hurried covering of shorts was said to have been a factor in the right-about. Some optimism over domestic business prospects also provided a prop.

Steels and motors led the morning slump and were among the first to revive.

Chrysler was down 1¼ as some disappointment was shown over failure of directors to declare a larger dividend. United States Rubber common and preferred, together with Montgomery Ward, recorded new lows for 1940. The former were affected by possible reactions to the company's large East Indies holdings if the war shifts to that part of the world.

The stock exchange reported the market value of all shares listed on April 30 increased to $46,769,244,271 from $46,694,763,128 a month earlier. Average price of the 1,234 stocks listed was $32.35, against 1,236 issues averaging $32.34 at the end of March.

New York Bonds.

New York, May 3 (AP).—Italian and Norwegian bonds hit the skids for losses ranging from 2 to 7½ points today as uneasy holders viewed with new alarm the British-French evacuation in Norway. Domestic issues maintained equilibrium, altho there were soft spots.

Brokers said it was the almost complete lack of bids that broke the quoted values of the small number of foreign dollar loans that were offered. Norway 4½s, for instance, lost 7½ points, at 24, on the sale of a total of 11 bonds, and Italian credit 7s yielded 4¼, at 50, on sale of 4.

United States government loans, particularly the longer maturities, registered losses of 2-32 to 12-32 point on a dribble of offerings.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading volume on the Chicago Stock exchange expanded yesterday, but the trend of prices was downward. The volume leader, Midland United preferred, was one of two issues which climbed to new 1940 high price levels. It rose 1 point to 4¾. Viking Pump set a new high mark of 24, up 1 point.

The exchange announced application was posted for transfer of a membership to Alexander H. Bright, partner of Elmer H. Bright & Co., Boston.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust shares gained a point and Chicago Title dipped a point yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Continental Illinois eased half a point. Other leading issues were unchanged.

ENTERING WEDGE?

Is General Motors planning to penetrate further into the aircraft industry? What truth is there in the rumor that it will build complete airplanes? What is the status of the Allison division?—T. W.

Answer: The management of General Motors corporation has denied that it is planning to create a new aviation division to build complete airplanes in a plant at Burbank, Cal., to be purchased from the North American Aviation, Inc., an affiliate. The only division of General Motors now directly interested in the aircraft industry is the Allison Engineering company.

Increased orders for the Allison liquid cooled engines prompted the company to start construction early last month of a four unit addition which will cost about $500,000 and add 350,000 square feet of space. The new building will double the present annual capacity of 3,500 engines, it was reported.

FURS.

I would like a report on the earnings and business of Eitingon Schild. —E. J. H.

Answer: Eitingon Schild company, Inc., was considered until recently the world's leading dealer in furs. It maintained branches and agencies in principal world trading centers for the sale of raw and finished furs. It had an exclusive contract with the United States government for the dressing and dyeing of Alaskan seal pelts and an agreement with the soviet Russian government covering a substantial part of the latter's exported furs.

After losses in the last three fiscal years, and with two-thirds of its assets in Poland and Germany, the company practically ceased operations early this year. The New York Stock exchange has recommended to the Securities and Exchange commission that the 397,635 shares of the company's no par common stock should be delisted. No dividend on the stock has been paid since 1933.

Sales and net income of the company in recent fiscal years ending Nov. 30 follow:

	Sales.	Net income.
1936	*$ 9,789,000	*$443,167
1937	10,758,000	†639,582
1938	3,232,000	†953,717
1939	1,197,000	†140,750

*For 11 months ended Nov. 30. †Net loss.

Motty Eitingon, former president of the company, formed the firm of Eitingon-Gregory, Inc., which has become exclusive selling agent for Eitingon Schild.

CASH GRAIN

England bought heavily of Canadian cash wheat yesterday for shipment from Vancouver. The estimated business was placed as high as 1,000,000 bu. Argentina corn is reported as being offered at continental European ports at equal to $1.07, or 13 cents less than is asked for American grain.

Shipping sales of cash grain as reported by Chicago handlers were 45,000 bu wheat, and 51,000 bu oats. Purchases of 100,000 bu corn were made for deferred shipment from the country.

A firm basis relative to May prevailed for cash grain in the spot market. No. 1 and No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at 2½@4c a bu over the future. No. 2 white oats brought 1½@2c over the future, and No. 2 hard winter wheat sold at c a bu over May.
